OUR DEVIL'S CORNER.

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN.

Now the summer sun is kinder,
But the breeze that fans your brow
Bears an odorous reminder
Of the late lamented cow.
Tho' the mortal part reposes
On a grassy knoll near by
Our most sorely chastened noses
Will not let her memory die.

AN OVERCHARGE

PARSON GOOD.—"Patrick, I was sorry to hear that you were arrested last week. What was the charge against you?"

PATRICK.—"Seven dollars and cos's, sor?"

PARSON GOOD.—"I mean what were you charged with when they brought you before the justice?"

PATRICK.—"Apple brandy, sor."

HOW THE ROW STARTED.

JULIUS BLACKTHRUSH.—"I tuk forty-two lessons 'in singin' ob Professor Hysee an' he said I had a fine ear fob music."

ABRAHAM SMUT.—"Hub! It's a mighty pity he kain't say de same about yo' mouf."

GOLD GOOD ENOUGH.

"What's goin' on ternight? asked an old fellow as he saw the crowd going to witness the presentation of the drama, 'Better than Gold.'"

"Better than Gold?" responded a small boy briefly as he hurried along.

"Better'n Gold, eh? Wal this yer free silver foolishness makes me plumb tired" growled the old man disgustedly as he went his way.

A Kind Deed.

Our friend, Mr. Millard Francis is one of one of the folks who are always on the outlook to do some good in this world. A case of his kindness has just come under our notice. A child belonging to a to a poor family on the mountain, died this week, and Mr. Francis hearing that they were in a dilemma as to how the body should be brought down and buried, volunteered to assist. Mr. Francis is a very old man and has had many hard knocks in this life but that did not deter him in the performance of a duty which we owe to all, and he stuck to it bravely until the child was buried at Sardis.

In the performance of his duty Mr. Francis walked nearly ten miles, up and down the mountain and then to Victoria and back. This was a good days' work for a cripple.

A Baltimore Invention.

A Baltimore machinist, Mr. J. F. McKenny, (formerly of Sequachee, Tenn.) has recently completed a sewing machine, which, it is claimed, will make as fine stitch as the old time Howe sewing machine, while it is so simple in construction that the parts can, it is said, be made and put together at 20 per cent. less cost than any machine now on the market.

One of the points of superiority, according to Mr. McKenny, is in the length of the shuttle movement. It is much less than the movement in the machines in common use, and at no time is the thread relaxed enough to catch in the shuttle or to become smeared with oil. It is also stated that the plan of the shuttle construction is such that there is less danger of thread breaking than in the usual way.

The entire machine is notable for its simplicity. The feed rocker is of sheet steel and plays upon a sliding shoe similar to those in general use, but by an arrangement of the inventor the feed bar is entirely eliminated, thus doing away with considerable costly construction. The up-and-down needle movement is communicated by a crankshaft which is another idea of the inventor. Another point which will be appreciated by all machine operators is the manner in which the cord which connects the power with the top wheel is arranged. By a series of cogs it can be adjusted to the wheel at any time, when loose, simply by passing the cord over one of the cogs and operating the pedals as in sewing.

Mr. McKenny has had long experience in manufacturing and repairing sewing machines, and has made a study of the present plan for a long time past. One of the machines is now completed and in operation at 221 West Fayette St., Baltimore, Md. He is desirous of organizing a company to make them and place them on the market.—Manufacturers' Record.

Dixie Notes.

The first bale of cotton has turned up at Albertville, Ala.

Scarlet fever has turned up Monteeagle, Tenn. There are twelve to fifteen cases.

Miss Jane Stone, a Philadelphia young woman, has gone into the oil business in newly discovered petroleum fields of East Tennessee. She makes her own leases. It is her purpose to drill ten wells this winter. She makes her own leases. She has contracted for 10,000 feet of lumber for derricks.

Some men are hard to discourage says the Stanford, Ky., Interior Journal. J. A. McKee & Co., the Kingsville nurserymen, are of the sterner stuff which causes them to laugh at mishaps and pick their flints and try again. They have 600 acres of land. Three years ago they lost their orchard by the freeze for which they had refused $30000.

Two years ago the strawberry crop was ruined by the May snow and frost; the past spring it was destroyed by the drouth. They tried cultivating blackberries, and by actual count lost $2.10 in cash besides their work and trouble. On two acres of onions which the drouth cut short they only got $2 more than the fertilizers cost the price having fallen from $1 a bushel to thirty cents. Yet with all all this Mr. McKee writes: "We are not a bit discouraged. We have 150 acres of new orchards some of it ready to bear by another season."
