IF YOU ARE CONTEMPLATING BUYING AN INSTRUMENT DON'T FAIL TO SEE THE "REGAL."

What some of the Finest Artists Say About

"REGA" INSTRUMENTS:

New York City, March 10, 1900.
Dear Sirs:—The guitar came in perfect condition and to say that I am satisfied is putting it mildly. In depth, richness and resonance of tone I have never heard its equal. In point of finish I consider it superior in every way. To me it seems a perfect instrument for solo, quartette or other work requiring a guitar. Most sincerely yours,
B. FLOYD CARPENTER.

Dayton, Ohio, March 31, 1898.
Gentlemen:—We received on the 13th the Regal Guitar, style 105 G. C., and must say that during our twelve years experience as teacher and soloist, we have nothing in other makes that will equal the Regal. We will soon send order for Regal Mandolin.
FRANKIE & STRINER.

Mexico City, April 29, 1899.
Gentlemen:—After giving the Regal Mandolin a very careful examination I am happy to state that I find it superior to any other Mandolin that I have handled before. I am so well pleased with it that I have come to the conclusion to use it for concert work even in preference to the "Vinaoia."
Yours respectfully,
CARLOS CURRI.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 29, 1900.
Gentlemen:—It gives me pleasure to state that the Regal Mandolin ordered has the perfection of tone and scale I find necessary for success in my concert work. I use it exclusively.
Very truly,
SAMUEL SIEGEL.

LIFE'S RAILWAY TO HEAVEN.

(Published by request.)
Life is like a mountain railroad with an engine that is brave,
You will roll up grades of trial; you will cross the bridge of strife;
You will often find obstructions; look for storms of wind and rain.
As you roll across the trestle spanning Jordan's swelling tide.
We must make the run successful from the cradle to the grave;
See that Christ is your conductor on this lightning train of life;
On a fill or curve or trestle they will almost ditch your train;
You behold the union depot into which your train would glide.
Watch the curves, the fill and trestles; never falter never quail,
Always mindful of obstructions, do your duty, never fail;
Put your trust alone in Jesus; never falter; never fail;
There you'll meet the Superintendent; God the Father, God the Son.

CHORUS.
Keep your hand upon the throttle and your eye upon the rail.
Keep your hand upon the throttle and your eye upon the rail.
Keep your hand upon the throttle and your hand upon the rail.
With the hearty, joyous plaudits "Weary pilgrim, welcome home"
Blessed Savior, thou wilt guide us as till we reach that blissful shore.
Where the angels wait to join us in thy praise forever more.

It has got pretty well noised around the world that American women are more interesting than others. This statement is not made boastfully but simply as a market quotation as one would say. They are sought for; they rule high; they know how to be fascinating and agreeable; they unite freedom of manner with modesty of behavior; they are apt to have beauty and if they haven't they know how to make others think that they have. Probably the Greek girls in their highest development were not so attractive as the American girls of this period, and if we had a Phidias who could put their charms in marble, all the antique galleries would close up and go out of business. It can be said that everybody is interesting to a certain degree. Some are interesting for five minutes, some for ten, some for an hour, some are not exhausted in a whole day and some are permanently entertaining. The trouble of this world is that there are not more people who are entertaining comrades. Day in and day out for a lifetime our women have a national disease—nervousness.
"What follies?" you ask. Here are a few of them. Rushing into business, social ambitions, unhealthy literature, bad thinking, over eating and unwise eating, insufficient rest, lack of fresh air and want of exercise. Our women young and old have a mania for rushing into business of one kind and another. Women are not intended for business. It is a disgrace to our civilization that women should jostle and elbow at the door of public office. Not that her mind is not equal to mastering details, on the contrary she can learn Choctaw and master mathematical problems, but that is not her place. I do not refer to the exceptional woman where nature has shown a strong bias in favor of one distinct line of work. It would be absurd to let the matter of sex interfere with the accomplishment of a special mission, but the crowd of wretched, anaemic typewriters, clerks and saleswomen fighting always a moral battle because of inadequate wages, physical unsoundness and contiguous temptations. It is melancholy sight, it is a condition that I hope in the future rational social custom will set right. Women need exercise and pushing around a bargain counter or thumping a typewriter is not exercise. Wear a pedometer during a day spent in this way and see how many miles you have gone for the result of your weariness.

A VALUABLE MEDICINE For Coughs and Colds in Children.
"I have not the slightest hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all who are suffering from coughs or colds," says Chas. M. Cramer, Esq., a well known watch maker, of Columbus, Col. "It has been some two years since the City Dispensary first called my attention to this medicine and I have repeatedly used it and it has always been beneficial. It has cured me quickly of all chest colds. It is especially effective for children and seldom takes more than one bottle to cure them of hoarseness. I have persuaded many to try this valuable medicine, and they are all as well pleased as myself over the results." For sale by Coldwell & Chaudoin, Sequachee; Whitwell Drug Store, Whitwell.
