THE SCOUT
(Rov. Phillip Clifford in Boy's Life)
'Tis good to 'tend meetings, have fun with the boys;
'Tis all right to holler and make a big noise;
'Tis great to run races, and win medals, too;
'Tis dandy and jolly to do what Scouts do;
To hold down an office, be ranked as a man,
And play the important in organized plan;
But Scouts are fellers that give of their best;
In work time, in play time, not just when they're dressed.
If you thing and embody your thoughts in deeds,
If you talk and by talking sow living seeds,
If you spend and are spent for the things worth while,
If you live and by living make others smile,
Then your life will be music, sunshine and love;
Your words will be welcome as if from above;
And folks will be glad when they see you about,
Just thinking and talking and acting The Scout.

All who have witnessed the opening performances are frank to state that the company is much better than when it was last seen here. The people connected with the attraction have been here for several weeks, all the rehearsals having taken place here, and our people have had an opportunity to get well acquainted with them all. They have all conducted themselves in such a manner as to win the respect and esteem of our citizens, and they leave behind many warm friends who hope that they may play a return engagement at some future date.

Chairman Thos. D. Brabson has returned from the Victory Loan Conference for the Atlanta District and reports a very fine meeting. The terms of the Victory Loan will be announced next Tuesday night by Secretary Glass, in New York, and the notes will be from one to four years, and carry a higher rate of interest than any previous issue. More definite information will be available the first of next week for the committees through the county.
