

Pulaski Citizen.

P. O. RECORD, Local Editor. PULASKI, TENN. FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 17, 1868.

Nashville & Decatur Rail Road--Departures. Pulaski Accommodation. Leaves Pulaski 5.30, A. M. Arrives Nashville 10.00, A. M.

Bankruptcy--Judge Douvont is now holding a Court of Bankruptcy in this place.

The four-legged baby is on exhibition at 512 Broadway, New York, opposite the St. Nicholas Hotel, and is creating considerable excitement.

Dissolved--From Maj. Roy, who we had the pleasure of greeting in our city a day or two ago, we learn that his popular firm, Stratton, Cheney and Roy, have discontinued business.

False Alarm--Some fool roused us and many others from our quiet morning nap yesterday morning about daylight by lustily hallowing fire. There was not the slightest cause for the alarm. We would thank him next time he raises a false alarm to do so at a more reasonable hour.

Notwithstanding the drouth, our young friend HARRY McCORD is determined to make some of the staple this year. He exhibited to us Wednesday a stalk of cotton which was 27 inches in height, and had 34 squares on it. Pretty good for these dry times.

The Drouth--We regret to learn from very many farmers of this county that their prospects for crops are exceedingly gloomy. There has not been a general rain in this county for nearly ten weeks, and many have had none of any consequence in that time. The prospects of many are entirely blighted.

Oak Grove Institute. Mr. Coffey, the Principal of this institution, announces that the Fall session will commence on the 27th of July. It is located in a fine neighborhood, six miles from Pulaski, and meets the demands of children seeking a primary education.

It will no doubt please our readers to find this week that we yield a greater part of the space usually occupied by our weekly local gossip to important and interesting political matter. We do not feel at liberty to withhold from our readers the great speeches, letters &c., of our leaders; nor the comments of the leading journals which occupy our space to-day.

Republican Banner--We give the cord of this old and reliable Democratic organ in another column. As evinced by its extensive circulation in this county, it is appreciated as one of the ablest Conservative journals in the South. Its editorials are brilliant and scholarly, and abound in wit and intelligence.

Subscribe for the Banner, if you want a good paper from the capital.

Improvements. The buildings on the east side of the square are going up rapidly. In the course of a few weeks there will be about sixteen splendid new brick business houses on that side. We notice also that friend Roseman, on the south-east corner, is securing his brick and lumber and will soon commence building an elegant store-house.

Red Men at Lawrenceburg.

Col. TENNEY, Vice-Great Inchoone of the United States, was to arrive last night, and it is expected that Oklahoma Tribe, No. 6, I. O. K. M., of this place, will accompany him to-day to Lawrenceburg, where a new tribe will be instituted to-night. We are informed that the charter members of this tribe comprise the very best material in Lawrence county, and we predict that they will soon have a good working tribe in Lawrenceburg. It is our purpose to be one of the visiting party, if convenient, and note down what we may see and hear.

To Farmers.

We invite the attention of farmers, millers, etc., to the advertisement of T. H. Jones & Co., in another column. Their Wheat Fan combines three machines needed upon every farm, not solely for the purpose of cleaning the chaff from wheat, but to separate cockle, cheat, smut, &c., from it, clean and separate grass seeds, etc., etc. The senior of this paper now has one of the machines on trial, and though he has not had an opportunity to give it a thorough test, believes it a success. The demand for it is very large, and the manufacturers are scarcely able to keep up with the demand. This is a good evidence of the esteem in which it is held by farmers. Read their column, and you will be apt to by a will.

The Barbecue at Prospect. According to previous announcement, a special train left Pulaski, at about nine o'clock Thursday morning last, for Prospect, bearing the Pulaski Division and numerous ladies and gentlemen of this vicinity, to join in the grand temperance jubilee at that place, and to partake of the rich barbecue prepared for the occasion.

The train, under the conductorship of Mr. Stevenson and Capt. Abe Frizzell, without accident or noteworthy incident, arrived at Prospect at about 10 o'clock, when the Pulaski Division, by invitation, repaired to the hall of Prospect Division and joined them in the march to the grounds selected for the occasion.

The speakers' stand, surrounded by comfortable seats for the division, and the ladies, was located upon the hill half a mile south of the station and about one hundred yards east of the railroad, in a beautiful grove of forest trees.

The exercises commenced by singing the opening ode, and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Brown. Rev. John A. Thompson, in behalf of Prospect Division, welcomed the brothers of Pulaski Division, which was responded to by W. P. Wm. H. McCallum, in behalf of his brothers.

Mr. Thompson then led off in a beautiful and impressive address, a synopsis of which, nor none of the speeches delivered, will we attempt to give, as they were numerous and too lengthy for our limited space. After the first address, which lasted about an hour, Mr. Jno. Meadows delivered a short but pithy extemporaneous argument in behalf of the cause.

Then followed Rev. Mr. Brown, who seemed perfectly at home on the stand. Then our young friend Hawkins Westmoreland took the stand, who displayed great powers of oratory, both argumentative and humorous. After which, that old champion of every good cause, Rev. W. G. Hensley, was called up and entertained the audience until dinner was announced, when the Divisions formed into procession and led off to the tables, which were erected in the shade close to the railroad, and near a large spring.

We shall not attempt to do justice to the liberality and good taste of our Prospect friends by a description of the splendid barbecue spread before us. Suffice it to say, a super-abundance of every thing which that fertile country can produce and served in the very best style known to the culinary art was spread before the immense assembly, and the best system and order prevailed throughout the feast. Beef, mutton, roast, ham, chicken, vegetables of all kinds, and desert in great profusion and variety, continued to be placed on the groning tables as fast as they were cleared, and if any were not satisfied it was clearly their own fault.

After the feast, the crowd re-assembled at the stand and were favored with one or more addresses, but as this reporter had found a delightful seat in the shade with some of the fair ones, for which the Prospect neighborhood is famous, further proceedings at the stand were not noted. At 4 o'clock, the unwelcome toot of the Railroad whistle reminded us that the time for our return had arrived, and reluctantly the excursionists from this locality bid farewell to their hospitable friends of Prospect, and re-embarked for home, where we arrived about 6 o'clock.

Again in behalf of the Pulaski Division, and expressing the sentiment of the visitors from this place, we return thanks to the fair and hospitable ladies and liberal hearted gentlemen of the Prospect vicinity for their kindness and hospitality on this occasion.

The mass meeting Saturday will be composed of men from every district, representing the sentiment and wishes of their respective neighborhoods, and we suggest that it would be an appropriate time and place to adopt a memorial to the Legislature, respectful but determined in its tenor, asking, in the name of the people, a call for a State Convention, or a repeal of the odious franchise laws of the State. We believe that such an appeal, coupled with the known determination of the people to resist Brownlow's encroachment in the future, will have a salutary effect. Let us try it.

AN ITEM OF MUCH INTEREST TO ALL--The United States Congress has authorized Messrs. J. P. Dromgoole & Co., regular practicing physicians, of Memphis, Tenn., to prescribe for the various diseases of the country, and after a long bedside experience they now offer the public a class of Family Medicines which for merit, beauty and cheapness, cannot be excelled on this continent. These medicines are neither secrets nor patents, and as physicians everywhere use them in their practice they immediately command public esteem and confidence. They are highly eulogized, sell rapidly at all points, and we earnestly advise every family to buy a supply of the valuable remedies. See advertisement in another column, headed "Great Southern Preparations."

Numerous anonymous letters have been received through the Columbia post-office within the past few days addressed to various citizens, and containing scolding threats of burning the town. Great excitement prevails, and should such a calamity occur the people are firmly resolved to try the virtues of hemp, steel, and lead as antidotes to negro incendiarianism.

A Good Thing. On the receipt of twenty-five cents and a red stamp, information will be given by which the person can make money. Address D. H. W., Box 106, Pulaski, Tenn.

Giles County Responds. The citizens of Giles will meet those of Lawrence and Wayne counties at Bodenhamer's mills, on Thursday 23d inst., to interchange views upon the prospective Railroad from here to Lawrence and Wayne. Addresses may be expected from Gen. Brown Maj. Jones, Gen. Gordon, Col. Ross, Hon. J. P. C. Reed, Jno. A. Tinnon, and distinguished orators from Lawrence and Wayne. A preliminary survey of the road will be made previous to that time by Mr. T. M. Topp, Gen. Geo. W. Gordon and assistants, and a report made at this meeting. We hope Pulaski will be fully represented in this meeting, as her interests are to be greatly affected in the location of the terminus of this road.

A Negro Butchery. Three Men Killed by Negroes.

On Sunday night, two or three negroes entered a room in which a young man named Freeland was sleeping, on the farm of his father, James Freeland, some three miles from Columbia, and before he could make any resistance, buried their knives in his throat, cutting it from ear to ear, and then proceeded to mutilate his body in a most horrible manner, afterwards escaping.

Monday morning a negro man and a negro woman were arrested and brought to Columbia, on charge of having murdered young Freeland. The woman is said to have been lodged in jail, but her accomplice was immediately seized by a party of white men, who carried him out of the place and are believed to have lynched him somewhere in the woods not far from town. One of the negroes supposed to have been concerned in the murder of young Freeland is still at large.

Two other white men, it is alleged, have been similarly murdered since Sunday morning.

Music. J. L. Peters, music publisher, New York, has favored us with the July number of the "Musical Review, the monthly 'Glee Hive' and the 'Parlor Companion'."

The Review contains an unusual amount of interesting musical literature, calculated to entertain and edify the devotees and admirers of the divine art, together with several splendid musical compositions. "No crown without the Cross," a sacred song, is well suited to church music, and the accompaniment suited to the organ. "Going Home with Willie," is something new in the ballad line and will soon be popular. "Strawberries and Cream," by C. Kinkel, just out, and is a love of a March for piano. "Heavenward," Valse Angélique, by G. Vibre, is truly angelical.

The miscellany of the Review is splendid and we will give clippings from it in our next. The price of the Review is only $2 per year.

The Glee Hive contains fourteen pages of music, consisting of sacred and secular glees, trios, quartettes, opera choruses for mixed voices, to which is added accompaniments for the piano. Price $3.

We wouldn't be without the "Parlor Companion" for three times the price of subscription. It contains each month fine selections from the various operas, together with a choice collection of dance music by the best writers, arranged for flute and violin, with piano accompaniment. It is a work long needed, and every flute and violin player should subscribe for it. Price $3, 12 per year.

The committee designated by the National Democratic Convention to present the nomination to candidates, did so at Tammany Hall on the evening of the 10th. Gen. Morgan, Chairman, made the formal tender to Governor Seymour and General Blair. Governor Seymour accepted the nomination, stating that the resolutions were in accord with his wishes. He said that from the evidences everywhere shown, the Democratic party would triumph at the next election.

General Blair accepted the Vice Presidential nomination, pledging himself to adhere to the principles enunciated in the platform.

An enthusiastic meeting was held outside the Hall, which was addressed by Messrs. Seymour, Cox, Blair and others, all foreshadowing the triumph of the Democracy.

In the Senate on the 13th, the bill discontinuing the Freedmen's Bureau after the first of January next, was passed.

The House amendment to the Electoral College resolution came up and was concurred in, and the bill goes to the President. In the House the joint resolution excluding from the Electoral College the States lately in rebellion, was read. The amendments reported were also read, as follows: "Provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed to apply to any State which was represented in Congress on the 4th day of March, 1867." After an exciting discussion the amendments were agreed to and the resolution passed. Let everybody come to the grand rally Saturday, and let us have one more long, loud, Democratic shout for our Presidential candidates. The crops are all drying up in Giles.
