

A DESPERATE TRAIN ROBBER

Makes a Wild Dash for Liberty.

ESCAPES FROM THE OFFICERS

At Nashville After a Thrilling Ride in Stolen Vehicles and on Horseback.

Special to the Herald.

Nashville, Oct. 28.—One of the most extraordinary incidents in the Nashville police annals, took place yesterday morning shortly after 10 o'clock. A commonly dressed fellow, having the appearance of a cowboy, entered the store of Newman & Co., dry goods merchants, on College street, near the street railway transfer station. He purchased a few articles to the amount of $2.00, and presented a $20 bill in payment, asking for $18 in change. There was not cash sufficient in the house to meet the demand, so a messenger Mrs. Newman was sent out for the change. She had some trouble in procuring it and in the meantime her attention was called to the bill, which showed that it was on the Bank of Montana some of the greenbacks taken from the express train in the Great Northern $50,000 robbery at Wagner, Montana, recently. She thought of the robbery at once, and had a telephone message sent to police headquarters for an officer.

Detectives Dwyer and Dickens were detailed to go to Newman's store. On their arrival there they accosted the stranger, asked his name, and where he was from. His answer not being satisfactory, Detective Dwyer placed his hand upon the man's shoulder, saying, "We are officers, and you are under arrest."

But the Westerner was dead game. Quick as a flash, and without a word, he pulled out a brace of forty-five calibre pistols, holding them in either hand, and demanded the officers to let him pass. A desperate hand-to-hand encounter followed, no one getting the use of their pistols. The strong Westerner threw the officers aside, in some unaccountable manner, and made a sensational dash into College street. He jumped into an ice wagon, where three negroes were sitting, and demanded them to leave. Two were out in a jiffy, but the driver refused to give up until his life had been threatened. The desperado grasped the reins, and when he reached the driver's seat, under a heavy fire from the officers, made a Tam O' Shanter dash for the square and across the Cumberland river bridge, narrowly escaping a collision with other vehicles. Those who knew nothing of the encounter, thought it was a run-away team.

The bandit coolly decided upon his next move. Knowing the ice wagon was slow, he concluded to take charge of a buggy, drawn by a strong bay at corner of First street. He ran his team across to a feed store near by, knocked down a fire plug, contrived to break one of the horses' legs by tripping him with the reins, and told a negro standing by to take care of the team. He ordered the negro out of the covered buggy and took possession.

He went at a frightful rate after this, across the country, over fences and other obstructions. When the horse was tired out he confiscated another one he saw hitched near the river. Being closely pursued by a large number of officers, he finally abandoned his horse, and when last seen he was going at a foot pace east, at break-neck speed, above Shelby Park.

Penitentiary bloodhounds were put on the trail, but could not track him, as the path had been traveled by the officers. That end of the county is up in arms.

The man is said to be no other than George Parker, of many "aliases," the criminal bank robber, highwayman, cattle and horse thief. It is thought he is in league with the Williams woman, and has been here since the time of her arrest.

The man threw away a wallet containing $1,000 in ten and twenty-dollar bills of the Montana Bank.

Still at Large.

Nashville, Oct. 28.—The train robber who made such a bold break for liberty yesterday has not yet been captured.

WERE IN MEMPHIS.

Harvey Logan, the Train Robber, and Annie Rogers.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 28.—Harvey Logan, the ringleader of the gang who robbed the Great Northern express train of $25,000 on July 3, spent two weeks here from Sept. 26 to Oct. 10. He was accompanied by the woman, Annie Rogers, alias Maudie Williams, who is now under arrest at Nashville. When they came here on that date they registered as "R. T. Moore and wife, St. Joseph, Mo.," and spent money like princes as a part of their scheme for exchanging the unsigned bank notes for good money.

The woman bought goods to the amount of $150 from a leading dry goods store, the payments always being made with new large bills, no matter what the amount of the purchase was. The identification of these people as having been here is complete by means of photographs to-day shown to the people with whom they dealt.

PARKER, THE BANDIT.

He Crossed the River, and That Was the Last Seen of Him.

Nashville, Oct. 29.—Like a bird of passage George Parker, alias "Butch" Cassidy, the dare-devil bandit, has flown from the very grasp of the Nashville police department. He is still at large, and nothing has been heard of him.

Early yesterday morning came information that the bandit, following his dash through the streets, over fields, telephone poles and deep gullies, had

EIGHT COMPANIES OF ARTILLERY

May Be Sent to the Columbian Arsenal.

GEN. MILES FAVORS THE PLAN.

Would Cost the Government But $9,000 to Convert the Property Into an Artillery Post.

The Washington correspondent to the Nashville American says: "The chances seem favorable for the conversion of the arsenal at Columbia, Tenn., into an artillery post. Eight companies of artillery were to have been located in Kansas, but an investigation proved that the cost of fitting up the post there would amount to $50,000, whereas the Columbia Arsenal property could be converted into a post for only $9,000."

Gen. Miles strongly recommends Columbia for this post. Senator Carmack and Representative Brownlow have an engagement with Secretary Root to-morrow morning to discuss the matter.

Gen. Miles enthusiastically recommends the advantages of the Columbia Arsenal as an army post, and practically indicated his purpose to recommend that a battery of artillery be stationed there. Gen. Miles argued that the character of the country and the splendid horses it raises made Columbia a most desirable point for an army post.

Senator Carmack and Representative Brownlow expect to see Secretary Root to-morrow in regard to the Columbia Arsenal. They feel quite encouraged by the outlook.

MILES ENTHUSIASTIC.

Says Columbia is a Most Desirable Place for the Army Post.

Special to the Herald.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Senator Carmack and Representative Brownlow saw Lieut. Gen. Miles to-day in regard to the matter of the Columbia Arsenal.

TEMPLE OF FRATERNITY.

The Erection of a Beautiful Fraternity Building at the World's Fair Now Assured.

St. Louis, Oct. 29.—The Temple of Fraternity, the erection of which as a feature of the Louisiana Purchase exposition is now assured, will perhaps be the center of wider interest than any other structure on the exposition grounds, barring the department buildings. This interest is assured not alone because of the universal character of fraternal societies, but in part because of the beauty of the structure. Its architect, Thomas J. Prosser, has designed an adaptation from the Greek Parthenon. It is to cost $200,000, the raising of which has been started on an excellent basis. The temple will be 300x300 feet in dimensions, surrounded by grounds 500x700 feet. A committee consisting of some of the strongest men of the World's fair company began active measures last week to insure the raising of the necessary funds from among fraternal societies of the world. The World's Fair Fraternal Building association has been formally organized with William H. Thompson as treasurer, and other officers including Charles H. Huttig, Samuel M. Kennard, Corwin H. Spencer, W. H. Woodward, Charles F. Wencker, W. R. Elden and A. S. Robinson. Mr. Thompson, as grand treasurer of the Odd Fellows of Missouri, will take a prominent part in forwarding the interests of the association and its project. The other members of the association named are all more or less interested in fraternal matters.

DECIDED TO CLOSE UP.

The National Bank of Commerce of Omaha, Neb., Will Go Out of Business.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 29.—The National Bank of Commerce has decided to close up its affairs and has turned over $220,000 in cash to the Omaha National Bank to pay its depositors. President J. H. Evans of the Bank of Commerce gave out the following statement: "The bank is perfectly solvent and the only reason there is for closing is that the bank has a capital of $200,000, of which $150,000 is in real estate. This does not leave a sufficient margin with which to compete with the larger banks of the city."

The bank was established as a private banking institution in 1885. The bank has successfully weathered two financial storms. Its cashier is W. S. Raynor and George E. Barker is vice-president.

SHOT AND KILLED NEIGHBOR.

Ben Kimber, a Montana Ranchman, Kills Joseph Tennger, a Neighbor and Surrenders.

Townsend, Mont., Oct. 29.—Ben Kimber, a rancher residing near here, surrendered himself to Sheriff Pool, Sunday night, saying he had shot and killed a neighbor named Joseph Tennger. The men had been in a dispute over the right to a fence road. A quarrel ensued, resulting in Kimber shooting Tennger. Both men are well known.

DUKEDOM OF MANCHESTER.

Failure of an Heir to the Title the Duke of Manchester Will Not Go To the War.

New York, Oct. 29.—A dispatch from Hinton, Huntingdonshire, England, to the World says: "It is now feared, since the child of the duke and duchess of Manchester is a daughter, and not a son, Eugene Zimmerman, the father of the duchess, will not make the settlement expected. It is positively stated that the duchess has received nothing from her father since her marriage except the income from her dead mother's estate. Until a male heir is born Lord Charles Mantagu, the second son of the duchess of Devonshire (whose first husband was the present duke of Manchester's grandfather) will remain the heir presumptive to the title and estate of the duke of Manchester."

What a splendid type of tireless activity is the sun as the palmist describes it, issuing like a bridegroom from his chamber and rejoicing like a strong man to run a race. Every man ought to rise in the morning refreshed by slumber and renewed by rest, eager for the struggle of the day. But how rarely this is so. Most people rise still unrefreshed, and dreading the strain of the day's labors. The cause of this is a deficient supply of pure, rich blood, and an inadequate nourishment of the body. There is nothing that will give a man strength and energy as will Dr. P. R.'s Golden Medical Discovery. It does this by increasing the quantity and quality of the blood supply. This nourishes the nerves, feeds the brain, builds up enfeebled organs, and gives that sense of strength and power which makes the struggle of life a joy. The "good feeling" which follows the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" is not due to stimulation as it contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant. It does not brace up the body, but builds it up into a condition of sound health. It
