MOSES OF TO-DAY.

Child Found in Drift of Weeds on the Mississippi River.
Hickman, Ky., June 25.—The baby that was found in the drift of weeds in the Mississippi River a few miles above here near Columbus, Ky., has not been identified yet. Jake Evans and his assistants found it while making their haul from their fishing outfit in the river. The little fellow, apparently less than six months old, was crying loudly when found. He was securely fastened in the bottom of a skiff on a luxurious rug of Oriental design. On a piece of stationery, indicating that the paper was originally purchased from a Cairo, Ill., firm, were these words: "He is another Moses. Please be kind to him." This is a clue that may lead to his identity. The words were written in a feminine hand. A nursing bottle had evidently been placed in the child's mouth, for the half exhausted contents were silent evidence of the last motherly act of the one who sent the modern Moses on his perilous trip down the Father of Waters. The fishermen disrobed the child of its clothes and substituted plainer garments. A gold safety pin and an under garment with a trace of a monogram embroidered which could be taken for "M. S. W." or "W. S. M." the local authorities believe may lead to the discovery of the person who deserted the child.

Everybody goes to Dahnke's for lunch.

Marriage Failed.
Love laughs at locksmiths, but Cupid don't poke any fun at the law, as Bailey McIntosh and Miss Mary Ryan, of Wickliffe, Ky., found out Friday evening when they applied for marriage license.

The girl innocently stated that she was 14 years of age, whereupon the County Clerk refused to issue the license. The young man wanted to journey on to Trenton, but the girl had given up the idea of entering the married state and expressed her desire in tears to return home. Chief of Police Frank Par-due advised the young man to defray the expenses of the girl for the night and for breakfast and dinner Saturday and money for a return ticket, and this McIntosh willingly agreed to, so the little lady was given in the charge of Mrs. Heath-cock, landlady of the Brackin Hotel, and was nicely cared for until Saturday, when she was put aboard the Mobile & Ohio train for her home.

McIntosh acted the perfect gentleman all through, and no blame is attached to him, and he intended to return home at once, but was advised that he might get into trouble should he return without the girl, so he remained until she could go. He did not seem much troubled about the girl backing out, and remarked that he didn't believe it was a match anyway. The girl is large for her age, and had she stated that she was 16 it would have been believed.

Nashville Man Shot.

Hickman, Ky., June 25.—Emmett Smith and Will Douglass, negroes, engaged in a pistol duel yesterday as the passengers were leaving an excursion boat from Cairo, Ill., shooting E. Riley, white, foreman of the Cumberland Telephone Company, of Nashville, and two negroes, none fatally. The affray started in a crowd of several hundred people, but the principals were uninjured. Both were captured and placed in jail. Although there was some fear of lynching, nothing has materialized.

The Ghosts Entertain.

The supper and entertainment given by the Willing Workers of the Baptist Church last Friday night, was a very unique affair. Wagner's Orchestra was present and rendered some very beautiful numbers. Another most interesting feature was the part played by the ghosts. There was a violin solo by Ghost Sandling, accompanied by Queen Elizabeth. Miss Annie Laurie Griffin appeared as the ghost of Little Red Riding Hood and recited. Mr. Lea Garth sang a song from The Burgomaster. Miss Donnie Rainey as one of the ghosts recited. Miss Annie Laurie Caldwell also gave a recitation. The refreshments were ice cream and cake and the entertainment was enjoyed immensely by a large crowd.

ELECTRIC BOLT

Knocks Several Men Senseless and Does Other Damage.

Hickman, Ky., June 25.—Lightning struck the railroad track, on which there were quite a number of men coming from the Mengel Box Factory. Three of them, W. P. Hunt, Will Hammond and Albert Evers, were shocked and fell to the ground, while several others fell to their knees. Mr. Hammond was thought to be dead for some time and medical aid had to be summoned. He was partly paralyzed for a few hours, but soon recovered.

About five miles from town a hay stack on the farm of Mrs. A. J. Jeffrey was struck and burned, making a loss of $80. A tarpaulin over the hay, and worth $22, was also burned. Another storm struck here last night, both the wind and a heavy hail striking here at the same time.

This morning about 5 o'clock, while a rather severe storm was raging, lightning struck Hickman College and tore away a part of the cupola. The loss will not be very heavy.

DROPPED DEAD.

James J. Jones Dies Suddenly Near McConnell—Fell From Horse.

Jas. J. Jones, one of the most prominent farmers in Weakley County, died suddenly Sunday morning at his home near McConnell. Mr. Jones, in company with a small negro boy, had been to his wheat field recapping some wheat shocks which had been uncapped during the storm of Saturday night. After the work was finished Mr. Jones mounted his horse, the boy climbed up behind him and the two started for the house. (When about 400 yards from the house Mr. Jones suddenly complained of being sick and almost simultaneously fell from the saddle to the ground. He expired instantly, being dead when assistance reached him.

Mr. Jones was 66 years old. He lived a long useful life and his sudden death is greatly deplored by his large circle of friends. Deceased was a brother of Mrs. W. C. Croft, of this city, who, with the other relatives, has the sympathy of the many friends. The burial occurred Monday at Old Bethel church yard.—Fulton Leader.
