Mrs. C. E. Trevathan has returned to Union City to locate among her friends at home. Mrs. Trevathan is now associated with Dr. H. B. Morton in the practice of osteopathy, medical and suggestive therapeutics. The partnership was formed at Brownsville where Dr. Morton resides. Dr. Morton is one of the reputable physicians of Brownsville, and the arrangement affords both the advantages of osteopathy and the practice of medicine, a combination which is sometimes, probably oftentimes, very much desired. Dr. Morton will be called to this city when needed. Mrs. Trevathan has been located for some time in Weakley County, where she has treated a large number of patients with excellent results. She is well known in this city among her friends, and has already received a number of calls since her return.

School of Expression.

The Martha Fowlkes School of Expression in connection with the City High School will be opened Sept. 7, an announcement of which appears in another column. Miss Fowlkes returns to Union City where she is well known, indorsed by the highest authority as follows:

"Miss Martha Fowlkes has the right ideas, and the true philosophy of self-development. She differs from the ordinary teachers of expression, just as the genuine in everything differs from the imitation. Miss Fowlkes' interpretative powers and genuine love for the work, added to a magnetic personality, make her the artist that she is."—Bath Lowery, Impersonator and Lecturer, Jackson, Tenn.

"Oxford, N. C., Dec. 26.—No more artistic or classic program could be rendered than that presented by Miss Martha Fowlkes, reader, at the Oxford Seminary last Friday evening. Each number was voted the best in turn until the program closed, leaving the audience loud in their praise and applause. The striking individuality of Miss Fowlkes' work was particularly evident in her Browning number, while Tennyson's Bugle Song displayed the wonderful depth and range of her beautiful voice."—Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer.

Important Meeting

Mr. Foster Hume, district superintendent of the Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Company, is to be here Saturday and meet with the stockholders of the Obion County Telephone Company at 10 o'clock. The stockholders and all interested friends are called to meet at the above-stated time at the courthouse to confer with Mr. Hume in regard to better service, better instruments, more through lines between the towns within the county for free service and a satisfactory farmers' rate. If these and other matters can be properly adjusted the Obion County Telephone Company may consider the advisability of not building at present. W. G. REYNOLDS, Pres. Obion Co. Tel. Co.

Swallowed a Door Knob

Mr. Sam Cloys, who lives northeast of town in the vicinity leading to Jordan, a few days ago killed a six-foot snake and, discovering a large lump in its body about midway between its head and tail, cut the snake open expecting to find a frog or a rat. Nothing of the kind, but a plain white door knob. The knob had been left in a hen's nest, and this, together with the fact that some eggs had been missed, accounts for the loss of the door knob.

Popular Excursion.

The I. C. R. B. Co. will run a special excursion train from Covington and intermediate points to Louisville on Tuesday, Aug. 31, 1909, returning Thursday, September 2. The train will pass Gibbs at 10:30 a. m. and the round-trip fare will be $3. Separate coaches for white and colored will be provided. No baggage will be checked for this train and no tickets will be sold on the train. This is a great opportunity to visit Louisville at low rates.

The Cotton Gin.

The Union City Ginning Company will have its cotton gin and building in this city completed in a few days. The machinery will be installed and everything ready for business long before cotton picking time. The gin is located north of the Union City Canning Co.'s cannery. The greater portion of the building is now completed.

Tent Meeting at Troy.

Rev. Meadows, of Trenton, is in charge of a union tent meeting now being conducted at Troy. The meeting is largely attended.
