Mrs. Harrison Gray Fiske.

The Gem Theatre presented to its patrons Wednesday night the photo drama, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," with Mrs. Fiske in the title role. This great reel was made under the direction of Daniel Frohman, with Mrs. Fiske in the part she created from the book, supported by the players of the Famous Film Co. Thirty years ago Minnie Maddern was a popular actress in the smaller circuits—strictly one-night stands. She was practically unknown to the leading play houses, and Frohman, Palmer, Daly and others of the leading managers were unaware of her prowess. Suddenly in the role of Tess she leaped to fame in a single night, and from that she became one of America's greatest actresses, considered by some of the critics without an equal in emotional work. The film shows the actress in the part which brought the reward of a lifetime of application and study to her art. Since that time she has created other parts equally if not more famous, notably the character of Becky Sharp, adapted from Vanity Fair. This is one of the most wonderful characterizations known to the stage. It is the soul and embodiment of Thackeray's genius. The film seen here is also a wonderful production, both in player talent and scenic investiture. It is one of the great films of the day, and quite a number were pleased with the presentation notwithstanding the condition of the weather.

The Truth About the Carnegie Library.

In the spring of 1910 the Union City papers published the statement that Mr. Carnegie had given the town $10,000 for a library. A short while after this, at Mrs. Seid Waddell's invitation, I joined her, Mrs. Massengill and Mrs. Page in a visit to the public school on some W. C. T. U. business. I did so readily, because I wanted to ask Mr. Nute (having been told he was the proper one to see) about a corner in the library for Southern relics, having gotten the idea from other cities and towns, notably Jackson, Tenn. This town is justly proud of her collection and was reported to be negotiating with Dr. E. B. Little for his valuable war relics, he preferring to let his home town have them if it could be arranged. I also had most valuable material entrusted to my care and was anxious to secure a safe and suitable place for them. When asked about this corner, Mr. Nute very readily gave his consent and approval—not the slightest intimation that he had not full authority. When the house was completed a strong committee was formed, composed of Miss Mary Lawson, chairman; Mrs. Irene Dahnke, treasurer; Mrs. Lula Edwards, secretary; Mrs. Waddell and Miss Mary Swiggart. At the first and only meeting, in the Sunday school room of the Methodist Church, it was planned to give an entertainment to make money with which to buy books for our Southern corner. Miss Lawson then saw Mr. Nute about the exact location in the building, when he referred her to Mr. Tisdale, who, he said, was the proper person to apply to, as he had no authority in the matter. At the appointed time Miss Lawson, Mrs. Gibbs and I met Mr. Nute at Mr. Tisdale's office and we all went to the building where we agreed on the corner for Southern relics, provided we furnished first-class cases for them, which of course we expected to do. At the same time we were given to understand that we could not meet there, so we stopped right then and there—not another committee meeting, nothing. However, I went to the Mayor and asked him many questions, the first of which was, "Into whose hands did the Carnegie money pass?" Sometime later a Parent-Teacher Association was organized here and Mrs. Waddell was asked by the chairman to ask permission from the Mayor to be allowed to meet in the Carnegie Library, as part of the work was to be the story hour for children, which, in most every place owning one, is conducted in the public library. She was refused. Hearing of this, I went to the Mayor for an explanation. He said: "Mr. Nute does not want you to," which brought on another pertinent question: "What has Mr. Nute to do with it?" His answer was, "He got the library for Union City."

We now began a correspondence with Mr. Carnegie to find out just how and for what purpose the library had been given. In the meantime we had received Nashville's equivalent, also Jackson's and Hickman's. The library at Hickman differed from the others in this, that it was gotten by the school board, elected by the people and accountable to them. This school board pledged $1,000 a year for the maintenance of their library, to come out of the school tax, as they are empowered to do. When finished, even to the steel plate bearing the date and the donor's name, it was opened to the public.
Some time ago Mr. Nute sent a statement to both town papers giving an account of Mrs. Pearl Williams Kelly visiting the library and her approval of all she saw—the use of one room as a schoolroom by day and a lecture room at night. As soon as I read Mr. Nute's statement concerning Mrs. Kelly, I called up the Mayor for permission to use that room for a lecture to be given under the auspices of the Obion County Historical Association. He was very courteous but asked for time to consider. The next evening he called me and suggested that I ask the school board or the superintendent. Whereupon I called Mr. Walker, who was also most courteous, but gave me no satisfaction. The next evening he asked me what the other members of the school board and the superintendent had said about it. I told him when the Mayor referred me to the school board I had no thought of asking anyone but the chairman of that board. So the matter rested, and I have so far not received an answer.
However, we found out from Mr. Carnegie all we wanted to know about the library, and the whole correspondence may and ought to be seen by every citizen having a particle of interest in the good name of Union City.

IS IT YOUR KIDNEYS?

DON'T MISTAKE THE CAUSE OF YOUR TROUBLES.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. An effective remedy for weak or diseased kidneys is Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of this vicinity are constantly testifying.

Thistlewood-Bondurant.

A quiet church wedding beautifully solemnized was that of Miss Blanche T. Thistlewood, of Mounds, to Dr. Flint Bondurant which took place Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the First Methodist Church.

The church was exquisitely decorated with white carnations, ferns, palms and Southern smilax, an altar being formed of tall pines and Easter lilies, before which the ceremony took place. The couple stood under a bower of smilax from which was suspended an immense wedding bell of white carnations.

At the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. Fred C. Galigher artistically rendered Mendelssohn's Wedding March. "To a Wild Rose" was softly played during the pledging of the vows and as the couple left the church Mrs. Galigher played Lohengrin's Wedding March.

The beautiful ring service of the Methodist Episcopal Church was impressively read by the Rev. J. A. Taylor, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, assisted by the Rev. M. H. Loar pastor of the church. The ceremony was very quiet on account of the recent death of the groom's sister, Mrs. C. L. Keaton, and was witnessed by only the immediate relatives.

The bride was unattended and was lovely in her going away gown, a handsome tailored suit of King's blue broadcloth. With this she wore a pretty blue and white embroidered chiffon blouse and a small spring hat of black straw trimmed with green satin quilling and tiny pink French roses. She also wore an exquisite corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley and sweet violets with feathery ferns.

The bride is the only daughter of former Congressman and Mrs. N. B. Thistlewood, of Mounds, and is a beautiful and popular young woman. She spent several seasons in Washington, D. C., with her father during which time she was prominent in social circles there. She attended the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music at Cincinnati, Ohio, a number of winters and belongs to some of the social clubs here.

The groom is the eldest son of Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Bondurant and is a progressive young physician. He is a graduate of the Cairo High School, a graduate of the Northwestern University and Medical College, a post graduate of the New York Medical School. He took a special course at the Cook County Hospital at Chicago and was for several months State Bacteriologist at Springfield.

Dr. Bondurant is associated with his father in the Bondurant Hospital and has lived in Cairo since childhood.

The couple left at noon for Chicago, where they will remain a week.

Announcement cards were received by friends of the couple, sent by the bride's parents on which it is stated that the
