SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Patterson-Hooker.
One of the most interesting nuptial events of the season was quietly solemnized in the Idlewild Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon, when Miss Sarah Lucile Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm R. Patterson, became the bride of Mr. Thomas B. Hooker.
The Rev. William Crowe, D. D., officiated in the presence of members of the immediate family only, owing to illness in the family of the bride.
The edifice was simply but beautifully decorated in palms and ferns. The steps leading to the altar were sentinelled on either side by tall white wicker vases holding large white chrysanthemums, and the altar was banked in the large white blossoms. Marking the aisle, down which the bridal party passed, were white chrysanthemums tied to the pews with tulle bows.
A programme of specially selected bridal music was delightfully rendered by Mrs. Charles Andrews at the organ, who was assisted by Mrs. Arthur Falls on the violin.
The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was handsomely gowned in a tailored suit of deep blue velvet trimmed in fur, with which she wore a black velvet hat, also fur trimmed, and a corsage bouquet of Bride roses and valley lilies.
Little Miss Mary Gardner Patterson, sister of the bride, served as flower girl and ringbearer, daintily gowned in a flowered taffeta frock, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet, to which was tied the wedding ring.
Dr. William T. Pride attended the groom as best man, and Messrs Walter C. Chandler, Warren Stewart, James D. Collier and William T. Wynn, of Greenville, Miss., served as groomsmen.
Mr. Hooker and his bride left immediately for New Orleans, and after Nov. 1 will receive their friends in their new home on Galloway avenue.—Commercial Appeal.

The car's unusual roominess, the depth and softness of the real leather upholstery with its filling of natural curled hair, the design of the seats, and the bouyancy and sensitiveness of the self-lubricating springs, make you unmindful of the distance.
