Injured by Fire.

The many friends regret exceedingly the misfortune of Dr. T. E. Marshall and Miss Lonelle, his daughter. The latter was standing too close to the grate Sunday morning and her dress caught fire. Dr. Marshall's hand was badly blistered, but we are glad to say that no serious results are to follow.

Death of Marshall Wright, in France.

Sergeant Major William M. Wright, better known as Marshall Wright, has made the supreme sacrifice and given his life for his country. His aunt, Mrs. Nannie Hewitt has received official notice from Adjutant General Harris at Washington that he died on the 8th of March of meningitis. He was located at Toul, in North France, and was chief clerk of the Judge Advocate General of the Second Army, whose headquarters were at the city of Toul in France. He had been promoted to the position of regimental Sergeant Major, a very responsible position, and had charge of the office and records of the Judge Advocate General, Col. Morrow. He has just returned from Italy, where he had been on a fourteen day's leave of absence by permission of General Bullard.

Sergeant Wright left the Lebanon Law School, where he was a student of law, and volunteered for the service, on Jan. 1, 1918. He was mustered in as a member of Co. I, 8th Field Battalion, Signal Corps, on about the 7th of January, at Fort Leavenworth, and was then sent, with his battalion, to Camp Green for training. They were sent to France about June 1, and soon thereafter went on the firing line, and were engaged in the severe battles around Chateau Thierry, and Sergeant Wright went "over the top" at Chateau Thierry, with his battalion. He was gassed and also received a slight wound in the knee, in this battle. After remaining in the hospital for about three weeks, he was again ready for service, and was then detailed for clerical work in the 2nd Replacement Army. About the time of the signing of the Armistice, he was promoted to the position of Sgt. Major, and made chief clerk in the office of the Judge Advocate General, which position he held to the time of his death, having charge of the records of the office with several clerks and stenographers under him.

Young Wright was a bright, intelligent, ambitious young man, and his promotions came to him on his merits, without any outside assistance.

He was reared in Union City by his aunt, Mrs. Hewitt, and was a nephew of Judge W. H. Swiggart. After completing his education and taking a special business course, he worked in the office of Judge Swiggart as his stenographer for a short while. He was then tendered the position of clerk of the Circuit Court at Union City, by Judge Jones, to fill a vacancy in that office, but being under age, he could not accept the appointment. He was then made Deputy Clerk under Esq. Howard, and discharged the duties of this position for nearly two years, in a most acceptable manner. In the fall of 1917 he resigned this position and entered the Lebanon Law School as a student of law; but about the first of January, 1918, he gave up this work, and volunteered for the service in the army. It was his desire and purpose to resume the study of law, as soon as he was discharged from the service. He was ambitious to become a member of the bar; and his friends anticipated that he would have a successful career in that profession. He had an unusually bright, quick mind and gave promise of a useful and successful career in his chosen profession.

The news of Marshall Wright's death was so unexpected, and came so suddenly, that his relatives and friends were greatly shocked. His death casts a gloom over this community. He was only 23 years old, and his last letter to Judge Swiggart, written from Genoa, Italy, was full of buoyancy and hope, and indicated that he was enjoying his trip in Italy. His untimely death is another of the costly sacrifices which our community has been called on to make in the great war for liberty and right.

The relatives of Sgt. Wright have our deepest sympathy, and the sympathy of the entire community, in the sad bereavement which they have sustained by the death of this promising young man.

Half Your Living Without Money Cost

We are all at a danger point. On the use of good common sense in our 1919 farm and garden operations, depends prosperity or our "going broke."

Even at present high prices no one can plant all or nearly all cotton, buy food and grain at present prices from supply merchant on credit, and make money. Food and grain are higher in proportion than are present cotton prices.

It's a time above all others to play safe; to produce all possible food, grain and forage supplies on your own acres; to cut down the store bill.

A good piece of garden ground, rightly planted, rightly tended and kept planted the year round, can be made to furnish nearly half your living. It will save you more money than you made on the best two or three acres of cotton you ever grew!

Hastings' 1919 Seed Book tells all about the right kind of a money saving garden and the vegetables to put in it. It tells about the farm crops as well and shows you the clear road to real and regular farm prosperity. It's Free. Send for it today to H. G. HASTINGS CO., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

Mrs. Smyth G. Allen,

Dear Sir:
You ask me what I think of the Cleveland Tractor. I can only say that as for myself I think it is the only practical tractor for the farmer. My reason is this. It is so simple and so easy to handle, and you can put it in a place that a horse can go, and many places he can't go. There is not much to it, and what there is, is power.

As for the actual weight it can pull, I do not know. I pulled a separator for my neighbor, G. C. Frost. He said that weighed 18,000 lbs., and the rear wheels were miring near 6 inches in the ground, and pulled it up a very steep grade and I could not tell that it was behind me.

I went over 24 acres of wheat land last fall, both ways, with two 8-foot section harrows behind it, a two-man log on each harrow, and a 16-foot log behind the harrows, in 14 days, and used 15 gallons of gas. 11 to 12 gallons of gas will break about 8 acres of ground on an average.

You can do anything almost with the Cleveland Tractor—plow, harrow, disc and log, and turn as short almost as you can with a team.

Yours respectfully,
A. D. BRUCE,
Fulton, Ky., R. 3.

P. S.—When you have the demonstration let me know and I will try to come down.
