Tennessee Pig Club Boys Make Fine Record

Davidson County Youth Wins First Place. Nearly 2000 Enrolled

There were 1,874 boys enrolled in the pig clubs in Tennessee in 1921. Reports showing the results accomplished by 893 boys were collected by the county agricultural agents. They fattened 499 hogs for the market and raised 554 purebred gilts to be used as brood sows. From 199 sows raised the previous year, a total of 2,597 pigs were farrowed. This included a spring and fall litter from each sow making an average of 7 pigs to each litter.

Reports of this kind are convincing that the value of the pig club work is inestimable. A few boys are being given an insight into the work of producing purebred swine for breeding stock. Large numbers are improving the stock kept on small farms and are using this improved stock for greater and more economical pork production.

Summer Sanders and His Champion Pig. He Won First Place in the State Pig Club Contest and Won Free Trip to International Livestock Show at Chicago.

Since a great many purebred hogs have been produced the past few years in the pig clubs the general grade of hogs in many localities has been materially improved. As a result of this, the boys have learned that well bred hogs are more suitable for pork production in the same way that they are better for breeding stock. It is believed now that the greatest opportunity for the pig club boy is in the production of pork, and their interest is gradually turning in that direction.

At practically every county and district fair last fall there was an increased number of pork pigs shown by club members. One hundred club members in Montgomery County fattened a carload of club pigs and shipped them to the market. It cost $1,412 to produce the hogs and get them to market, while they sold for $1,938, leaving a net profit of $526. The state pig club contest was open only to the boys who raised pork pigs. The state champion prize which was a free trip to the International Livestock show at Chicago was won by Summer Sanders of Davidson County.

PRODUCTION OF BEEF CATTLE INCREASING

A change is coming over the business of beef production. The farmers of Tennessee are more and more taking up this great industry that for many years was accorded to the range districts of the west. The conditions influencing this change have been taking shape for a number of years and will continue for no brief period. The farmer for the benefit of his farm and the safety of his bank account is raising cattle. It is the safest course. It will increase the fertility of his acres. It will insure "money in hand." As yet there are thousands of farms that have not become a part of the expanding effort in beef production, but the tendency is in the right direction. Beef production on the farm is on the increase and happily the value of good blood has been generally acknowledged so that the quality of the product will make its appeal to the more discriminating buyers.

The farmers must be producers rather than speculators. A good many reasons exist for this, not the least of which is that of permanency and the betterment of the soil and the improvement of the farm. The opportunities for expansion are found largely on the home farm or in the home community. The days of alluring opportunities elsewhere have passed. From now on it is constructive effort that will win. Speculative opportunities are remote and uncertain but intelligent, persistent effort on the good farms of Tennessee beckons to all who own or operate the land.

Beef production plays its fundamental part in this permanent farm prosperity.
