

A SCOLDING WIFE.

Got a scolding wife, have you? Well, it's your own fault, ten to one. Women are all naturally amiable, and when their tempers get crossed it's the man that do it. Just look at yourself as you came home last night. Slamming doors, and kicking everything that laid in the way, right and left—because—well, you couldn't tell for the life of you what it was for. Suppose you'd been laying your face under embargo all day to those who cared nothing about you, smiling and nodding, hemming and hawing, and wanted to get where you could enjoy a little superlative ill-humour.

Wonder your wife was cross, getting supper with a baby in her arms? Why didn't you take the baby, and treat it, and please it? "Room was all in confusion"—why didn't you put it to rights? "You want a little rest!" So does your wife, and she gets precious little, poor woman. You are at your shop—walking briskly through the sunshine in this bracing weather—reading the paper—meeting friends and acquaintances—sitting cozily in the office. She is at home with clinging arms dragging about her neck, laying, but still wearisome at times. She is dependent upon the call of a neighbor for a little break up in her monotonous life, or the opening of a window upon a stunted yard for what fresh air she can get. Take up man alive, and look into this matter! Put on your best smile the moment your foot touches the doorstep. Treat the littler room to a broad grin, and your wife to a kiss. Give the baby some sugar-plums, and little Bobby a new picture-book to busy his bright eyes with. Tell that poor, tired-looking woman that you've brought her a nice book to read, and that you're going to stay at home evenings. Our word for it, apologies will be plentiful, supper will come on like a miracle, everything will have an extra touch. At times there will be something very like tears in the good woman's eyes, and her voice will be husky when she asks you if your tea quite suits you. Of course it will to a charm.

It may be a little silent that evening. You miss the complaining tone, the scolding and fault-finding, but your loss is her gain; she is thinking of the long past, but considers upon the whole that she is a happier woman tonight than she ever was in her whole life before.

Give the new plan a fair trial. Gradually, as you return, you will find the house in perfect order. Old dresses will be remodelled, and your wife appear as good as new. Home will grow more and more pleasant, and the brightest smile upon your features during the day will be a recollection of the thought that evening is coming with its pleasant chat of wife and little ones.

Scolding wife, indeed! If you men did as you should, wouldn't such a wife be an anomaly?

STOP THE MURDERER.—All persons are requested to aid in apprehending Russell J. Bragg, who murdered his father-in-law, Joel Thompson, in Elbert county on the 21st inst.; after murdering said Thompson, and severely stabbing one of his daughters, fled, and has not since been heard of. A liberal reward will be given for his apprehension, that he may be brought to justice.

Said Bragg is about 30 years old, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, fair complexion, eyes light yellow, hair chestnut and more, and a small black spot between his eyes, and has a scar across his left hand, above his fingers.

All lovers of law and order are requested to keep a look out for said Bragg. He will probably arrive for western Georgia or Virginia. —Southern Banner.

GAINES THOMPSON.

THE TIMES—GOOD ADVICE.—The Providence Journal offers the following sensible advice to manufacturers, but it is applicable to all classes engaged in business, and it is worthy of careful consideration:

The best thing for the manufacturer is to make the best of the present favorable state of business, to draw themselves into as close quarters as possible, to apply their profits to the payment of their debts, and not to be misled into the folly of extending themselves beyond their present prospects of payment. They are dependent for their temporary prosperity upon the manufacturing and commercial prospeer of Great Britain; they are at the mercy of the foreign market; and they will have bitter cause of repentance if they forget that dependence, and act as though the present higher price of goods was the legitimate result of American business.

Now is the time to prepare for the coming storm. The country owes an enormous debt to Great Britain, and that debt is—almost the only substantial representative that we have to show for this debt. The rest has been consumed. When the foreign creditors, from sudden alarm, which comes in business matters, no one knows whence, or from commercial depression, or stringency in the money market at home, call for their pay, there will be hard times here. Investments made here under present prices will not pay the debts that they create; property will be sacrificed, and fortunes lost, and good men ruined. —Now is the time to prepare.

ABSTINENT DIET.—The necessity of persons becoming their own physicians when the bodily functions are slightly disordered is well illustrated in the Domestic Receipt Book.

Many cases of illness, both in adults and children, may be readily cured by abstinence from all food. Headaches, disordered stomachs, and many other attacks are often caused by violating the laws of health, and in consequence, some parts of the system are overloaded, or some of the organs are clogged. Omitting one, two, or three meals, as the case may be, gives the system a chance to rest and allows the clogged organs to dispose of their burdens. The practice of giving drinks to clear out the stomach, though it may afford the needed temporary relief, always weakens the system, while abstinence secures the good result without doing any injury.

Sadler, whose tragic death at Petersburg, Va., was yesterday mentioned, left his will in his cell. He told the other prisoners that he intended to escape or else kill for men and himself. He had a six barreled revolver concealed about him when committed. He had been a respectable citizen of New Brunswick, N. C.

The colored man is still living. Starved—was killed instantly, as was also Sadler.

Our Government lands cost one dollar an acre on an average and champagne two dollars a bottle. How many a man dies landless, who during his life has swallowed a fertile township, trees, and all!

WHAT A COUNTRY!—H. C. Nicholas, who left Indiana for Oregon last spring, wrote home to his father on the 10th—November from Oregon City, and in his brief epistle exhibits quite an extravagant idea of the new country.

"Such animals as are here I never heard tell of. Cattle when they lie down it is as much as they can do to rise again. You talk of your fat hogs and horses, but have never seen any. They run out altogether; the owners don't see them once a month. Wheat will weigh 90 lbs. to the bushel; two heavy crops from one sowing. I have seen a field of rye that looks thrifty, that there has been three crops taken from one sowing, and it still looks thrifty. Two crops of potatoes are taken from one planting in one year. Onions are almost as large as my head. A farmer works hard but one third of his time. It is very healthy here, except some places on the Columbia river, where the people have the ague. Steamships and sail vessels come to Portland city, on the Willamette river, which is a larger place than Oregon City. The boats run to San Francisco in four days. Flour is worth from 30 to 40 cents per lb. in the mines, and 20 to 25 here. A common laborer gets from $2 to $2.50 and boarded; and $3 in the mines. A man or a woman that don't get rich here is not sharp. A great many are leaving and coming to Oregon; the low wages in California won't justify them in staying there. Those that have been here any length of time are well off. Land can be obtained by settling on it for four years.

THE SOAP PLANT.—The soap plant, so called, grows all over California, on high hills as well as in the valleys. The leaves make their appearance about the middle of November, or about six weeks after rainy season has fairly set in; the plants never grow more than one foot high, the leaves and stalks drop entirely off in May, though the bulbs remain in the ground all the summer without decaying. It is used to wash with in all parts of the country, and by those who know its virtues it is preferred to soap. The method of using it is merely to strip off the husk, dip the clothes in water, and rub the bulb on them; it makes a thick lather, and smells not unlike new brown soap. The botanical name of the plant is Phacelium pomarillanum. Besides this plant, the bark of a tree, Chelaria saponaria, is also used in Southern California for the purpose of washing. Several other plants have been used in various countries to substitute for soap. All of these contain considerable quantities of oleaginous and alkaline principles in their composition, on which their value depends. —Hagg's Instructor.

According to the returns of the assessors of New Orleans, there has been a decline in the value of property in the city of three millions three hundred and ninety-two thousand three hundred and forty-two dollars within the past year.

The Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company have determined to construct one hundred miles of double track immediately, sixty between Baltimore and Cumberland, and forty between Cumberland and Wheeling. One hundred thousand dollars of additional locomotives and cars have been ordered for the proper equipment of the extension. To cover the expense of these improvements, there will be a new issue of two and a half million dollars in bonds of the company.

TWO MORE STATES GOSE FOR THE WIVES.—said George as he met Isaac with the information. Isaac looked wise and responded, "Kentucky and Tennessee." "No, no, my boy, but two more are conceded to us by the democrats, without a question—they give them today." "Pray what are they?" "Why the state of Arizona and the state of Mississippi," Isaac grinned horribly a chafly smile, while the crowd laughed at the news. —Boston Post.

We observe that Mr. A. G. Bamson, of New York, the well known projector of the guano expedition to the Lobos Islands, is about to appeal to Congress for indemnity. His bill of particulars is formally made out, and he estimates his damages at the comfortable little sum of $2,500,000, which he will ask to have paid him out of the public treasury.

Madam de Stael lived, and we may say died, in the belief that revolutions were effected, and countries governed, by a succession of clever pamphlets. This is very near the truth. The powerful newspapers of the day, with what is called the leading articles, are nothing more than a succession of clever pamphlets. It is said that three newspapers in France effected the revolution of July, 1830.

HOW TO PRESERVE HEALTH.—Medicine will never remedy bad habits. It is utterly futile to think of living in gluttony, intemperance and every excess, and keeping the body in health by medicine. Indulgence of the appetite, and indiscriminate dosing and drugging, have ruined the health, and destroyed the life of more persons than famine, sword and pestilence. If you will become regular in your habits, eat and drink wholesome things, sleep on mattresses, retire and rise very regularly. Make free use of water to purify the skin, and when sick, take counsel of the best physician you know and follow nature.

HOGS BY THE MILLION.—The Louisville Democrat has the following startling statistics of the swine business of the West: Ohio, in 1850, produced 1,964,770 hogs. Kentucky, " 2,861,163 " Illinois, " 1,915,950 " Indiana, " 2,263,776 " Tennessee, " 3,114,014 "

Total, 12,119,730

This is coming it pretty strong—a fat hog to every man, woman and child in the Union.

"Hollo! I say, what did you say your medicine would cure?"

"Oh! I'll cure everything—head anything." "All well, I'll take a bottle, maybe it'll heal my boots; they need it bad enough."

THE REASON WHY.—A gentleman, on hearing a lady praise the eyes of a certain minister, wrote the following:

I cannot praise the doctor's eyes, I never saw his glance divine. For when he prays he shuts his eyes, And when he preaches he shuts mine.

'T is well to leave something for those who come after us, as the gentleman said who threw a barrel in the way of a constable that was chasing him.

Idleness is the dead snail that swallows up all virtue, and the self-made sepulchre of a living man.

CLEAR SPRING ENGLISH SCHOOL.

A very thorough examination of the pupils of Clear Spring English School came off on the 17th inst. The manner in which the exercises of the day were conducted were satisfactory to the minds of all who were present. That Mr. S. P. Hale is a gentleman fully competent to instruct the rising generation in the different branches of a thorough English education. There were ten or fifteen students examined on English Grammar, and I can safely say (after witnessing a number of examinations at the best institutions in East Tennessee,) that they stood the most critical examination I ever witnessed. The examination on Arithmetic, Algebra and Geometry, was highly interesting and entirely satisfactory. In short, the whole examination proved that the teacher was competent and attentive, and that the students had entered energetically into the spirit of education, and had made a faithful session's march upon the beautiful hill of science. After the examination, compositions were read by a number of young ladies and gentlemen, all of which were truly interesting, and must have emanated from bright intellects and noble geniuses. The exercises closed with three original orations by young gentlemen, students of the institution, which were highly entertaining.

In conclusion, I can only say to those who wish to ascend the beautiful hill of science, and to inhale the salubrious atmosphere which continues to fan its ever growing summit, enter Clear Spring English School, place yourself under the care of S. P. Hale, make a proper effort, and success shall be your reward. A CITIZEN of MONROE.

For the Post.

Mr. Editor:—Some time since, in a number of your paper, there appeared a notice of a superior quality of Corn raised by your worthy citizen, Judge Keveson, and while I may only feel more attracted to the development of our real and certain commercial resources, and the tide of trade which has enriched other sections of the country, particularly Kentucky, will be thrown in our midst, and the great objects of society—peace and plenty—be enjoyed by all uninterceptedly. Upon the farming class depends all other branches of business in our own section; the cotton of the South being a medium through which our currency is supplied, the slightly dollar of the rich millionaire finally reaching the pocket of our farmer boy who feeds the pigs.

A SINGULAR MATRIMONIAL BARGAIN.—A singular matrimonial bargain took place, not long since in Missouri, in the vicinity of St. Joseph, which, within my memory, has not a precedent. Two married men who lived near each other, became, from reasons best known to themselves, dissatisfied with their own wives, and took fancy, each for the other's spouse. Matters being thus, their better halves were consulted as to exchanging, and expressed themselves willing to accede to any measures that would keep peace in the family. Each wife took her neighbor's husband, and have since lived contentedly in their new home.

Never trust a man for the vehemence of his assertions, whose bare word you would not trust a slave with more of swearing to a falsehood, than of affirming it.

FOR BREAD, wheat flour is recommended as a capital remedy. Plunge the burnt part into the flour, or bandage it loosely with plenty of flour next the skin.

That officer who arrested the man's attention has been promoted.

The following we commend to the attention of that heartless fellow, the newspaper borrower. It contains an ocean of truth:

"Newspaper borrowers are always the kindest critics. Their noses sniff pollution and their pure eyes water at error, which they steal to read, and then to obtain. Those who take and pay for their papers, always have a pat in their hearts filled with the milk of indulgence. It takes one of your stealing and borrowing fraternity to turn out the real bitterness of fault finding."

There is a boy, some eight years of age, in the Lunatic Department of the Commercial Hospital, Cincinnati, who was born deaf, dumb and blind. He lays on the floor most of the time, uttering piteous moans.

The scarlet fever, we understand, is prevailing to considerable extent in Cincinnati among the little folks, many of whom have died from its effects within the month.

Religious Notices.

In refutation of the silly notion entertained by some, that Astronomy must not be used in the pulpit, Providence permitting, on the second Sabbath of January, 11 A. M., I will preach a religious astronomical discourse, illustrative of the resurrection of the human body, as also of the power and efficacy of the Holy Spirit. First the solar and equinoctial regions, secondly the stars and nebulae, and in conclusion, so is the resurrection.

THE LIVER PILLS.

The Liver Pills of Dr. McLane were first used by him exclusively in his own practice. So efficacious were they in all cases of Liver complaint, that they became famous, and attracted the attention of the medical faculty, passed into general use. They act with great certainty and regularity; the patient almost immediately feels the benefit of his case, and is gradually restored to health. With some the effect is almost miraculous, frequently experiencing immediate relief after having, for months, resorted to drugs and medicines of another description, in vain. Diseases of the Liver are very common in this country, and are often of a dangerous character. Those who experience any of the prominent symptoms of this dangerous and complicated disease, should at once procure a box of Dr. McLane's Pills, and perhaps, thereby, be saved a world of misery.
