For the PUBLIC LEDGER. The Last Drink! The Last Drop!

There is something sad and melancholy associated with the above caption. The last drink, or the last drop. To some it is a key-note of sorrow of the deepest kind, filling the heart with unutterable grief.

Signs. Members of Congress are beginning to see that Congress is not exactly the American Government. This is well.

Mr. Halstead, editor of the Cincinnati Commercial, thus writes about Fessenden: "Senator Fessenden has said within a day or two that he did not intend to perjure himself to please anybody."

H. L. GUION. ROYSTER, TREKVAULT & CO., No. 26 SECOND STREET.

Speculations as to the Verdict.

J. B. S., the Washington correspondent of the New York World, conjectures as follows: It has never been difficult to name the Radicals in the Senate who were almost certain to sustain the impeachment.

The Senators heretofore regarded as doubtful were Fessenden, Trumbull, Edmunds, Grimes, Fowler, Sprague, Ross, Anthony, Van Winkle, Norton, Harlan, Henderson, Sherman, and Morrill.

A very few of the Senators above named have been expected to judge this case according to law and equity, thrusting politics temporarily aside.

be ought still to be in the column of possible inculpables.

It thus appears that of twelve Senators whose votes are claimed or hoped for by the managers of the impeachment, and also by the President's supporters, hardly one can be claimed as certain for the President.

There remains, indeed, when this contradictory talk about Conservative Senators is sifted to the bottom, little else but hope to go by.

The announcement by Gov. Brownlow of his determination to call out the militia of the State to suppress disorder and preserve the public peace, is not a very favorable symptom of the workings of reconstruction in the model State in which the proscription principles which Congress has since embodied in the laws for other Southern States, were first put in operation.

The violence of political parties, the operations of secret societies, the feuds of families and factions, the animosity between the white and black races, the bitterness against the Brownlow government and the Brownlow policy have brought about a state of affairs in which life is unsafe, society is in constant disturbance and industry is seriously prostrated.

DRY GOODS. NEW GOODS, FROM BANKRUPT IMPORTER'S SALE!

THE CROWNING DISGRACE. Last week we commented with some severity on the conduct of the military towards certain friends and schoolmates of ours, at that time confined in a little six by nine dungeon in Selma.

Mr. Fessenden is still counted upon by the President's friends to vote against the impeachment. He is a very reticent man, but there is a report that he said at his boarding place, a few days ago, in the course of a general conversation upon the subject, that "within a fortnight he would be the most unpopular man in Maine."

Mr. Van Winkle is distressed even by the Radicals and is vilified by the sons of the party by the course expected from him.

But Mr. Sprague, although the youngest member of the Senate, is a man of rare more independence of character and judgment than he is usually credited for.

Think of it, friends of the North! Your Southern fellow citizens, for an insignificant offense—a miserable, petty misdemeanor—handcuffed like felons, treated like dogs, snatched from homes, friends and kindred, almost without warning, condemned to hard labor, an enormous fine, and sent far away to a distant and pestiferous dungeon by a set of egotistical tyrants on the perjured testimony of a thieving villain—to rot to wither—no, if need be, for no other reason at least than that doing Radicalism may revive and flourish on the blood of its political opponents.

There are hundreds of jails in, and adjacent to Alabama. There was no earthly need for sending these young men (although they had been steeped in guilt) outside of the State for incarceration and punishment.

They were sent to the Dry Tortugas, therefore, simply for sacrifices. Is it your will that we shall submit quietly to this and similar outrages now preparing? Is your spirit so basely contemptible as to lead you to thus insult, degrade and murder your fellow-countrymen?

Old Prices of Living. In these days of high prices it will be refreshing and tantalizing, as the case may be, to know the prices our English forefathers paid for their meats, bread and butter.
