William Henry Crain.
From the Laredo News.
As a pleasant companion and a good story teller, few men are equal to Tom Ochiltree, and no one knows better how measures are lobbied through congress. The republicans once elected him as our representative. No congressman was offener with President Arthur, or more gladly welcomed, than ours. Ochiltree knew every prominent and influential man in Washington, and they all liked to meet him and hear him talk. But the rest of the Texas delegation were politically opposed to him, and during his whole term he accomplished nothing for the district. To discharge the sitting member, and begin the training of another who is certainly not his superior in any way, would not be the part of good sense. But our experience with Ochiltree should teach us that, even if the republican had ability and training for the position, it would be foolish to elect any but a democrat. Mr. Crain expects to get the appropriation for our public building when congress reassembles in December, but who knows what effect it would have on the temper of the present democratic house if Laredo should turn over and help elect a republican? Mr. Crain has worked hard for our federal court, and if re-elected, with the advantage of his past experience, will leave no stone unturned to secure it from the next congress. The election of any one else would postpone that measure indefinitely. Just at present W. H. Crain is the most effective agent we could possibly send to Washington, and no one with the interests of Laredo at heart will fail to vote for him.

Considerate Democrats.
Washington, D. C. Oct. 28.—Ever since the campaign fairly opened a democratic banner has been flying above Pennsylvania avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. It was taken down to day by the club that floated it on account of the fact that a funeral cortege bearing Mrs. Harrison's body to the Pennsylvania Depot will pass that way. It was thought that so emphatic a reminder of the campaign would be in bad taste. The republicans comment very favorably upon this consideration of the President's feelings.

The Holy Father Expresses Sympathy.
Rome, Oct. 26.—The Pope was deeply interested in the illness of Mr. Harrison and expressed much sympathy for her in her sufferings. When the gravity of the malady was declared his Holiness sent to the distinguished patient the apostolic benediction. He was very much grieved when informed of her death.
He (speaking of his sweetheart):
There is one thing, she has no enemies. She (in astonishment): No enemies? Why I thought you said she was beautiful.—Cape Cod Item

Cleveland's New Home.
New York, Oct. 28.—Mr. Cleveland has been even more quiet since he went to live in his new house at No. 12 West Fifty first street than he was at the Victoria Hotel. He does a good deal of work in the working hours of the day, but he has not as many callers and goes out more. To-day he was at his office part of the day. The house is not yet fully finished, but the drawing room is almost the only one where there still remains something to be done. This is on the first floor and the dining-room is just beyond it. The fitter was putting the last touches to the gas fixtures to-day. Everything is exquisite, very neat and shows a refined taste, but there is no great luxury displayed in the house.
One thing cannot but attract attention in the drawing-room. It is a small chair. It is not large enough to hold Mrs Cleveland, and one cannot but regard it as a sort of state chair for Baby Ruth.
The dining-room is a cozy one. The wall paper has a large blue figure on a white ground. A large old-fashioned mahogany clock stands like a sentinel in the corner, and two mounted elk's heads adorn the wall above the modest but artistic sideboard.

OF GENERAL INTEREST.
Rev. Thomas Dixon, jr., a prominent New York Baptist divine, was arrested and fined $155 for killing 31 song birds while hunting.
The Indian troubles at Temosichic, Mexico, which excited for almost a year, have ended by the complete annihilation of the Indians. The Mexicans lost 300 men in the last charge.
H. C. Milles, who killed a man named Miller at DeWitt, Mo., several years ago, was arrested in Crockett county, Texas, where he was known as Pete Thomas.
The Inman Line will change its route so as to make Southampton a port of call instead of Liverpool. It will be the first line of American steamships to sail out of Southampton since the war.
By the explosion of a locomotive boiler Engineer Harry Monroe and Fireman Wm. Church were blown into atoms and Conductor Frank Black mortally wounded at Pelos, near Birmingham, Ala.

No Politics To-morrow.
New York, Oct. 26.—The republican State Committee to day sent the following message to the chairmen of the different county committees:
The funeral services for Mrs. Harrison take place on Friday October 28. We recommend that all meetings arranged for that day be cancelled.
"At last," said the author to the sociable man, whom he met on the train. "I find someone has read my book." "Yes," replied the stranger, "I didn't skip a line. I was proof-reader in the office where it was printed."—Whashington Star.

WIT AND HUMOR.
"She confesses to some twenty odd years, I believe." "Of course there are an equal number of even ones included."—Indianapolis Journal.
Customer: Have you any fresh maple sirup? New Grocery Clerk: No'in; but I can mix some up right away for you.—New York Journal.
It would probably be hard to convince a bantam rooster that his crowing doesn't have a good deal to do with making the sun rise—Ram's Horn.
Snagg: Miss Blunder tells me she is reviving her German again? "Well, I don't see how it's possible when she murdered it so horribly."—Chicago Inter Ocean.
A valued correspondent of the World writes from historic Lexington: "Kentucky democrats are full of hope." Full of hope! And is this the same Kentucky of which the eloquent McKenzie said at the Chicago Convention, "she makes an article of whiskey so fine that a judicious consumption of it has made intemperance a virtue?"

An Eternal Desire.
Fort Worth Gazette.
We publish in another column a list of the "skunks," "traitors," "dogs," "renegades," houndst id genus omnes" who are supporting Clark for governor compiled by the Tyler correspondent of The Dallas News. The list might be extended into the thousands. When roaring Richard Coke starts to kill these men off he will have a job that will end only with his desire to hold office.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 27.—The magnificent ovation tendered Judge Clark at Dallas has been the chief subject of conversation and comment here to day. It is conceded that Texas has never known a grander demonstration. Its effect, so far as Fort Worth is concerned, is to cement the Clark phalanx more closely, and the countless friends of judge are imbued with renewed vigor.

Chairman Matlock was at the desk bright and early this morning. To the News representative he expressed himself as confident that Judge Clark would be elected by a majority of at least 50,000. He does not base his opinion simply upon the success of the Dallas ovation but, rather upon assurance which he is daily receiving from all parts of the state that the followers of Hogg are becoming convinced that the aspirations of their leader are not in accordance with the best interest of the state.

A story comes from Connecticut that a flash of lightning ran down a man's back and drew all the nails from his shoe, without hurting the man in the least. Now he is going to vote for Harrison, because a republican told him that McKinley nails saved his life.
