Bill the Rebel. Riel Captured—His Appearance.

Winipeg, May 16.—News arrives here this morning from reliable sources that Riel, the rebel leader, was captured yesterday by Denton's troops. His followers are scattered and it is believed the rebellion is ended.

Riel was captured Friday noon three miles north of Batoche by three scouts, named Diehl, Thorne and Armstrong. He appeared uncomfitted, but he had not been shot. He was taken to Gen. Middleton's headquarters.

Another Account. St. Paul, Minn., May 16.—A special from General Dyer's Crossing, via Clark's Crossing, May 15, says: The report that Riel had been captured is confirmed, but he has not arrived yet. Many reconnoiters are giving up their arms and the rebellion has been entirely ended. William Dyer, E. J. Hovick and J. H. Armstrong, three scouts, captured Riel noon. He was on the road three miles north of Batoche and was in company with three young men, all of whom were armed. He appeared uncomfitted and Dyer said to him: "I am surprised to see you here."

Riel said he was coming to give his sword to the family of a man across the river. While talking to him Dyer's scouts were each coming up and Riel becoming afraid of being shot begged his captors to take him into camp themselves, and accordingly Dyer went off for his horse but when a little distance away Dyer's scouts got close and Hovick and Armstrong took Riel on one of their horses and taking unobserved roads will bring him to camp this evening.

Gen. Middleton gave orders that the men should keep in their tents when Riel comes in as he is afraid of some personal enemy of Riel will shoot him, many having sworn to shoot him at sight.

Riel is crossing. Gen. Middleton's Crossing, May 16.—Riel was brought in at 10:30 this morning. No denials were made, and he walked quietly to Gen. Middleton's tent. Riel and his kind on Friday and Wednesday night on the bluff on one of their horses of Batoche. He wished for a fair trial, and asked Armstrong whether he would grant a civil or military trial, and he would grant a civil trial. He said he was afraid of the soldiers, and also that his wife and family were with the half-breeds' women near by. Riel appears careworn and haggard. He has lost his hair, grows long, and is dressed in poorer fashion than most of the half-breeds captured. While talking to Gen. Middleton, as well as when he was taken from the tent, his eyes rolled from side to side with the look of a hunted man, and he evidently was the most frightened man in camp, and in constant fear of violence at the hands of the soldiers, but there is no danger of such violence.

Served Him Right. Elton, N. Y., May 16.—Hugh Riley, of Elton, who was sent to jail for driving over the public highway all the width of Texas, as you have to go to grade your cattle on the lands thereof. I do not know of any law that effects as which does not intend to drive a man out of his own land. I do not know of any law that gives its men of north Texas control of that entire country to the exclusion of everybody else. This country has been stolen from the men who were here first, and the prosperity of the live stock business of Texas depends largely on what a decision is made regarding it. I would not advise any man to do it, if it is a desperate way and, if possible, agree upon a rule. If you don't do this the stockmen of south Texas will work out a rule and you will have to submit.

A Tribute to Jefferson Davis. Referring to the probable exit of Jefferson Davis from the stage of history, a gentleman in the following address to the fallen chief: It is true that he was President of the Confederacy, and that he did all in his power to carry the cause which he represented, but should be credited with high patriotic purpose, and also with an honest desire to do his best for the South. That the South has not deserted its position, and has never been doubted in broad and thoughtful minds. The people in that section acted accordingly, and poured out their blood as freely as if it were their own. It is not only our duty to do so, but it is our duty to bear these things earnestly in mind, as the hero is passing his hour on earth. All of us ought to be fair and generous in our judgment as to what his great talents, his inherent patriotism and his sincere devotion to what he believed to be the true interests of the people.

War Threatens Them to America. The war threatenings in Europe have caused a stampede of emigrants toward America. Not only are people leaving Great Britain, Ireland and Sweden, which are not directly concerned, are contributing hundreds of families to the throng bound America. No stronger indication of the state of mind of the Old World could be given. The people do not want war. It is now as it has always been the kings, lords and princes who long for bloodshed, and who hope to advance their selfish schemes by turmoil. America has room for millions more of the liberty-loving people of Europe who are being driven out of their homes by the kings and lords, and who are these days those who remain on that continent will change their tactics. They will remain at home and it will be the kings, princes, dukes and lords who will emigrate.

Stockmen's Convention. J. M. Simpson Makes the Opening Address—Conference Committee Considers the Trail Question.

Dallas, May 16.—The Stockmen's convention, ninety-six members present, was called to order in the Merchants exchange at 10 o'clock a. m. yesterday by Mr. J. M. Simpson, of Dallas, president of the Texas Live Stock association, who proceeded to pronounce moderator, saying: "Do not forget the fact that the absence of several cattlemen from this movement does not affect their standing. When it comes to the cow they probably have a more right to drive over the public highway all the width of Texas, as you have to go to grade your cattle on the lands thereof. I do not know of any law that effects as which does not intend to drive a man out of his own land. I do not know of any law that gives its men of north Texas control of that entire country to the exclusion of everybody else. This country has been stolen from the men who were here first, and the prosperity of the live stock business of Texas depends largely on what a decision is made regarding it. I would not advise any man to do it, if it is a desperate way and, if possible, agree upon a rule. If you don't do this the stockmen of south Texas will work out a rule and you will have to submit."

The following committee on resolutions was appointed: W. R. Cavit, C. C. Loving, George West, W. F. Laws and J. B. Hamilton, who, after a recess of ten minutes, reported the resolutions, represented as follows: The Texas Live Stock association, the Southwest Live Stock association, the San Antonio and Guadalupe Stock association, the East Texas Live Stock association, the Central Texas Live Stock association, the Colorado and Cheyenne Live Stock association, the Panhandle association, the Cheyenne and Arapaho Live Stock association, and the Indian Territory.

The committee recommended that a number of cattlemen present, not representing associations but interested in shipping and driving be invited to participate. The report was adopted, and subsequently an motion of J. S. Leonard of the T. and P. association, was admitted as a delegate.

Col. Hughes, of Dallas, introduced the following resolution: That a committee of eight be appointed to consider and report on the question whether it is practicable to lay out a trail from Herold and other points to the capital lands in the northwest, over which cattle can pass from southern Texas to the northwest, and, if practicable, to report and recommend a trail that in their opinion will not prove injurious to the cattle interests. The resolution was adopted, but reconsidered on the objection being raised that such association should be represented on the committee.

A resolution was then offered by Mr. CAVITT that the number of the committee be increased to twelve—one from the representation of every association present—and to a protracted controversy, in the course of which the issue at stake was defined.

Mr. W. A. Towere, of Colorado City representing the Cheyenne and Arapaho association of the Indian Territory, took the position that the committee should be appointed from the territory through which it was proposed to drive the cattle, he contending that stock-drivers in southern Texas were not familiar with the ranges, water courses and other features of the territory.

Mr. C. C. CAVITT, of Bryan, dissented from the report of the committee, and he contended that the matter should be looked at from the broad standpoint of Texas interest, to which end he contended the committee should be drawn from every portion of the state.

After some further discussion, devoid of interest, an amendment by Mr. Lindsay of Sherman, was adopted that a conference committee of five each from northwest and southwest Texas be appointed to consider the practicability of a trail.

The president appointed the following as such committee: Northwest Texas—Messrs. Lindsay, Towers, Nelson, Slaughter and Gunter. South West Texas—Messrs. West, Hamilton Cavit, Wood and Newsum.

R. P. STURGIS & CO.

The convention took a recess until 3 p. m., to give the committee time to report.

At 5:30 p. m. Mr. Lindsay, from the committee, appeared and stated that the committee had not come to an agreement but hoped to be able to report by 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

A committee was appointed to wait on Lieutenant-Governor Gibbs, with an invitation to address the convention.

Adjourned to 10 a. m. to-morrow. Adjutant-general King arrived at noon as a look-see, but is reported to have given much moral and doctrinal aid toward securing an adjustment of the difficulty.

Two propositions were brought up at the meeting of the committee at night, one proposed a trail through Groer county, and thence due north to the neutral ground and thence to Kansas or Colorado. The other proposed a trail leads through the Stake Plains, close to the New Mexico line. The latter, owing to the total absence of water, is considered impracticable, and it is probable that the former will be recommended to the convention to-morrow.

Southern Texas had only a few representatives present.

Escaped Convicts. Governor Ireland Offers a Reward for the Librators.

Austin, May 16.—The governor yesterday issued his proclamation, reciting that it has been made known that on the 14th day of May, in this county of Brazos, unknown persons did release a number of convicts in the lawful custody of the state at Clay camp, and that said unknown persons are now at large, and are fugitives from justice. He therefore offers a reward of $200 each for the arrest and delivery of the said unknown persons to the sheriff of Brazos county, inside the walls of the county jail, or further offers full pardon to any one or two of said convicts who will put the state in possession of sufficient evidence to secure the conviction of the parties planning and engaging in said release.

The two strangers who released the convicts were riding good horses, one a black horse branded Spanish brand, and the other a bay. Each wore light wood hats of the cowboy style, with a leather band around them. One of the men is about five feet ten inches high, light complexion, about 28 years old. The other is a young man, very heavily built, and about five feet six inches high, with a very small mustache. The other one is smooth shaven. They rode cowboy saddles.

The Method of Escape. The following dispatch from Allen farm gives a minute account of the escape. Thursday afternoon about 9 o'clock two men, armed with Winchester rifles, surprised, or, as they call it, "mugged" one of the guards having charge of seven convicts—white men and Mexicans—on the farm of Capt. Tom Clay, three miles from here. The two strangers then armed the convicts with guns and large-caliber revolvers. After arming them, they marched to another part of the field and repeated the same game with the other guards, who each had eight convicts, and armed the latter with six-shooters.

The convicts then mounted the best nudes, after being armed, when they fired several shots at some of the guards, who retreated in a demoralized condition. There were two honorable exceptions. Assistant Sergeant Wasser, who showed remarkable bravery, and whose horse was shot from under him; and no less a commander could be said Guard B. F. Lee, who, after having twenty-six shooters and a Winchester put in his face, gave them to understand that he was not going to back from them, and then one of the convicts wanted to kill him on the spot, when a member of the old investment company will be come individually liable for the old debts, which amount to $300,000. The case excites great interest here and is only one of the many suits now pending against the old Texas investment company.
