When Not to Keep Books.

She decided that the only way to run a house economically was to keep a set of books, so she made all the necessary purchases, including a bottle of red ink, and started in.

It was a month later that her husband asked her how she was getting along.

"Splendidly," she replied.
"The system is a success, then?"
"Yes, indeed. Why, I'm sixty-eight dollars ahead already."

"Sixty-eight dollars!" he exclaimed.
"Heavens! You'll be rich before long. Have you started a bank account?"

"No--o; not yet."
"What have you done with the money?"

"Oh, I haven't got the money, you know. That's only what the books show. But just thinking of being sixty-eight dollars ahead."

"Um, yes. But I don't exactly see--"

"Why, don't the books show it?"
"Of course; but the money? What has become of that?"

"I don't exactly know," she said, doubtfully. "I've been thinking of that, and I think we must have been robbed. That's the only way I can explain. What do you think we had better do about it?"

He puffed his pipe in solemn silence for a moment and then suggested:

"We might stop keeping books. That's easier than complaining to the police."--Chicago Tribune.

What I Know About Cotton and Hardware

Several good crops and considerable speculative buying during the boom years of '89 and '90, a heavy surplus which has been growing from year to year, or, in one word "overproduction" is at the bottom of the present low price of cotton. Unfortunately many farmers and merchants who intended to hold their cotton for higher prices held and are holding it for lower prices. Of course the price of cotton will fluctuate as usual, but no high-priced cotton year need be expected until the surplus is used up. Relief will come in two ways. 1. The low price of cotton fabrics will stimulate consumption all over the world and will draw it into new channels. 2. Short crop years or smaller acreage, or both, will lessen the supply. These processes are slow. It may take 2 to 4 years to bring the cotton market into a sound condition. I have just received a car of steel goods such as hoes, rakes, forks etc., a car of horse shoes, the Burden, XL steel, snow, cowboy and toe weight patterns, a car of sheet iron, black and galvanized smooth and corrugated. My prices are rock bottom on these goods wholesale and retail.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. W. B. Morrison & Co. Druggists.
