

Pears' Soap

It is a wonderful soap that takes hold quick and does no harm.

No harm! It leaves the skin soft like a baby's; no alkali in it, nothing but soap.

The harm is done by alkali. Still more harm is done by not washing. So, bad soap is better than none.

What is bad soap? Imperfectly made; the fat and alkali not well balanced or not combined.

What is good soap? Pears'.

All sorts of stores sell it, especially druggists; all sorts of people use it.

NEW YORK REBUKING HILL.

The charter or municipal elections in a number of counties in New York state March 1, gave the Democrats a black eye in nearly every instance. The towns of Oswego, Utica, Elmira, Newberg, Auburn, Peekskill and Corning were lost to the Democrats, and in the counties of Ontario, Saratoga, Monroe, Montgomery, Dutchess and Wayne, the Republicans gained a majority pervisors. In the town of Batavia, the Republicans elected one supervisor for the first time in twelve years. The cause of the land slide is evident upon its face, but the reports to the New York papers state plainly that the Democratic slump was a revolt against the Hill machine. In Utica the machine, knowing the extent of the opposition, nominated a pronounced Cleveland man for mayor, and did everything it could to counteract the impression that it was a Hill ticket, but it was no use. They "had it in" for the machine and slaughtered its ticket. In Elmira, Hill's home, the anti-Hill Democrats and the Republicans pulled together to defeat the machine candidate, and succeeded by a large majority. In Oswego the race for mayor took a triangular form, the Cleveland and Hill Democrats splitting and running two candidates for mayor. Allen represented the Republicans and received 1,882 votes. Bugler was the Cleveland candidate and received 1,816 votes. Mitchell was the Hill candidate and received 793 votes. Thus in Oswego the issue was squarely drawn and the Cleveland man got more than twice as many votes as the Hill man. The result of these elections is proof positive that Hills chances to carry New York is slim indeed. If, after such demonstrations the Democratic party ignores the West and thrusts the Tammany candidate upon the country it deserves defeat, and it will get it. Will the politicians about Washington who have been mesmerized by the great spoilsman take notice of the condition of things in New York? Hill having lost his strength in New York and having always been the weakest candidate ever yet proposed, outside of his own state it would be nonsense to put him on the ticket any where. Let Tammany quit her bulldozing after this and accept the inevitable.

The Houston Post intimates that it would be for Hill provided he will announce his betrothal. It says: "It is proper that every man should have a wife, and in the even and symmetrical development of society it is also proper that every woman should have a husband. Senator Hill is at present a bachelor, but if he were president it might be different. If it should become known that there was a lady in the case, every democrat in the country would be for Hill and matrimony." Not all, some would refrain through sympathy for "the lady" whom they would not wish to see embarrassed by a defeated husband.

The McGregor Observer is a Hogg paper and Brer O'Bryan after wading through his exchanges in tears, and much tribulation, at last observes a gleam of hope and with eyes cast upward and hands fervently clasped, he passionately exclaims: "The Houston Post, Bless its image, is coming around nicely."

The Waxahachie Enterprise puts W. H. Getzendauer of that town in nomination for Governor. Do we hear a second?

"Sworn to Before Me," Etc.

AVOCA, Ark., March 7.—Colonel Albert Peel of this place, while out prospecting for a mill site near Tuskahoma, I. T., a few days ago, met with an unexpected adventure. The day was warm—the first of the season—which seems to have aroused various sorts of wild animals, especially bears, from their winter's sleep. Of these latter wild beasts Colonel Peel encountered seven, and, for a moment, the sight almost paralyzed him. Fortunately, however, the colonel was "loaded for bear," having with him a Parker three-barrel gun. He opened fire first with his rifle barrel, following it up with both shot barrels. His range was close and his aim accurate. He killed three in quick succession, and the crack! crack! crack! of his reliable gun so terrorized the other four bears that they made good their escape, and it is safe to say that the colonel was perfectly willing to let them go. He was satisfied that he got three of the seven without getting hugged himself.

CHICAGO, March 5.—A horse whipping here last night led to a government investigation into alleged wholesale smuggling of imported dress goods. S. C. Wade, a young Englishman, soundly castigated J. A. Cummings, manager of Kate Reilly's fashionable dress making establishment in this city, claiming that Cummings had grossly insulted his wife who was employed in the place. He also alleges his wife and many other young women were induced to leave England by Kate Reilly's representatives, who promised them large salaries, and also induced them to smuggle large quantities of wraps and Parisian robes, which Mr. Wade claims was the object in bringing them over. He has laid this information before the authorities, who have been to the place and secured several robes which it is claimed Kate Reilly herself smuggled to this country. They propose to make an inventory of all the goods in the place and seize all that have not paid duty. Mr. Wade has given the authorities a list of names of women who have recently been brought to America by Kate Reilly, and who he claims brought over from $2500 to $5000 worth of dresses and wraps without paying Uncle Sam his fees.

Kate Reilly, or Mrs. Major Griffith as she is known in London society, is among the celebrated dressmakers of the world. In London she is the court dressmaker in Picadilly. Her husband is an ex-major of the English army and federal inspector of prisons. She also has a fashionable establishment in New York. Mrs. Wade says she was tired
