CHARGES AGAINST JUDGE M'CORMICK NOT SUSTAINED.

The President Appoints Him to the Position to Which He Aspired—Anti-Silver Men Exceedingly Sore Over Their Defeat—Cabinet on Bering Sea Matters.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—In the department of justice it is said that all the charges made in the Bankhead resolution against Judge McCormick were not only maturely considered by the chief executive, but that a special agent was sent to Texas to inquire into them when the name of Judge McCormick was up as a candidate for the place on the circuit court of appeals.

The result of the investigation was perfectly satisfactory to President Harrison with McCormick's character. He then appointed him to the position to which he aspired. Since then there has been no change in the views of the president in regard to the appointee. It was thought that the charges amounted to nothing more than might result either in the withdrawal of his name or a refusal on the part of the senate to confirm him.

His friends in Texas have been extremely active of late, as not only the Texas members of the house, but the Texas senators are daily in receipt of endorsements from citizens from every part of the commonwealth. Some letters are still received urging an investigation, but the majority declare him to be innocent of everything said against him and testify to his high character as a judge, a lawyer and a citizen.

The Anti-Silver Men Are Very Sore over their defeat and say that the speaker in forcing the matter on the house before the proceedings of Saturday were read and approved, was guilty of conduct which will greatly injure the party in the east.

Much interest is now manifested in the course the Republicans will pursue in regard to the matter. Boutelle said he desired the silver question brought up that the Democrats of the east should know exactly where their party stood in this matter. This is all right, but the Republicans have it in their power, aided by the anti-free coinage men, to force the committee on rules to bring in a rule to stop the debate. The free coinage men do not desire to resort to such a rule if possible to avoid it.

The bill will pass the house, but not by a big majority. Senator Coke had the senate to pass the bill allowing parties to build jetties at Ropes Pass.

The sketch and plans of The Dallas Public Building have been approved by the postmaster-general and are now in the interior department.

The sketch and plans of the Fort Worth building have not yet been submitted to these officials. The architects have not yet been submitted to these officials. The architect's office assures Judge Abbott that the contracts for both buildings would be let between now and the middle of May.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—A number of papers were presented by the vice-president and referred.

Mr. Higgins called the attention of the committee on foreign relations to the resolution offered by him some time since on the subject of the Nicaragua canal. He desired it referred to that committee. So ordered.

The calendar was then taken up and a number of measures acted on. The joint resolution to provide for international bi-metallic agreement was laid aside without action. A bill passed authorizing the construction of jetties, piers and breakwaters at private expense in the Gulf of Mexico at the mouth of Ropes Pass, Tex.; also to establish a military post at Little Rock, Ark.

The pure food bill was taken up as unfinished business, the question being on Mr. Coke's amendment to strike out sections 7 and 8.

Mr. Faulkner moved to amend the seventh section by striking out the words "that every person manufacturing or exposing for sale or delivering to a purchaser any drug or article of food" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "that every person who manufactures for shipment or delivers for transportation from any state or territory to any other state or territory any drug or article of food and every person who exposes for sale or delivery to a purchaser any drug or article of food received from any state or territory other than the state or territory in which said drug or article of food and such article is in original unbroken package" shall, etc. The amendment was agreed to.

A vote was then taken on Mr. Coke's motion to strike out sections 7 and 8 and the motion was rejected.

Mr. Cockrell moved to strike out section 9 and it was agreed to. [It is declared a violation of the act to be held to imply knowledge and intent on the part of the accused.] The second and other sections were amended so as to restrict the application to original unbroken packages.

Mr. Morgan moved an additional section providing for the prosecution of cases in any district court of the United States and for the seizure and confiscation of the articles by process for condemnation. The proceeds to be paid into the treasury. Agreed to.

The bill was then ordered printed before passage.

House.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—In his prayer the chaplain feelingly referred to the death of Representative Kendall of Kentucky.

As a mark of respect to the memory of Representative Kendall the house adjourned.

The Treaty Considered.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The senate in executive session considered the arbitration treaty received from the president. The text of the treaty was read in full and there followed an animated but no acrimonious discussion of the document. It soon became apparent the treaty was to receive severe and formidable opposition. This opposition took several forms and there are at least three different views on the subject. On one hand a body of senators resented bitterly the idea of ratifying any arbitration treaty. They held the right of the United States to the waters acquired from Russia was beyond question and it would be a cowardly surrender on the part of this government for it to consent to submit its right to the uncertain decision of foreign arbitrators.

A considerable number of senators appeared to believe the approval of the treaty to be a distinct gain in the diplomatic battle, as it committed Great Britain to a recognition of the fact that the United States had a claim to jurisdiction of the waters of Bering sea under the Russian title, a point which she has heretofore steadily refused to allow.

The third party thought the treaty should not be approved finally without the addition of a clause renewing the modus vivendi. Some of the senators took the ground that while the treaty might be safely ratified by the senate the administration should be instructed in the event of the continued refusal of the British government to insure the protection of the seal during the course of the arbitration, to order vessels of the United States to seize every offending vessel without regard to nationality. They announced if trouble resulted from the adoption of this course they were prepared to fully support the administration, taking all the necessary steps to give effect to the existing laws of the United States for the protection of seals. After discussion had progressed in this strain for an hour the treaty was referred to the committee on foreign relations.

The Cabinet on Bering Sea.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The meeting of the cabinet was devoted almost entirely to the consideration of the Bering sea question with a view to deciding on a plan of action in case Great Britain adheres to her refusal to renew for the present season, pending arbitration, the modus vivendi of last year. There was smaller attendance than usual, owing to the absence of Messrs. Blaine, Foster and Noble. The matter was thoroughly discussed and it is understood it was determined to insist upon a renewal of the modus vivendi for the preservation of seals in Bering sea.

The president and every member of the cabinet present participated in the discussion, and the opinion was unanimous that the position assumed by the British government is untenable and not justified by the condition of the sealing industry. The argument made that the opening of Bering sea for the present season to the indiscriminate slaughter of seals by poachers would undoubtedly result in the serious injury if not total destruction of the industry and thus defeat the very object sought in the negotiations between the two countries.

Inasmuch as Sir Julian Pauncefote, British minister, had a conference with Wharton, who was acting secretary of state, it is inferred he was apprised of the president's earnest desire for agreement between the two countries respecting the present sealing season that will preserve the statu quo of the fisheries until the main question can be arbitrated. This government is desirous of reaching a prompt agreement in regard to the fisheries in order that it may be officially promulgated in advance of the departure of the sealing fleets now fitting out in this country and Canada.

Since the above was written it is learned that Acting Secretary Wharton delivered to the British minister the reply of this government to Salisbury's note, declining to renew the modus vivendi. This reply reiterates the position of this government, and insists on a renewal of the modus vivendi of 1891 for the coming season.

It is understood Sir Julian Pauncefote was cabled the entire text of the note to Salisbury.

The Eight Hour Law.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—A sub-committee on labor began the investigation of the subject of enforcement of the eight hour law and in what manner and to what extent the law had been evaded and disregarded by those charged with its enforcement as well as to whether any convict labor was used by the government in the construction of public buildings.

GOOD MEASURE.

Yes, good measure, pressed down and running over.

Some of these little proprietors of sarsaparillas put up in half-pint bottles are enviable of the increasing popularity of Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla, put up as it is in large quart bottles, and intimate that theirs is more concentrated. This is as false as deceit can be. A teaspoonful of Bull's Sarsaparilla contains more concentrated medicinal virtue than a tablespoonful of any other sarsaparilla made. A bottle of Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla contains six times the curative virtue of a bottle of any other blood purifier made. No exception is made. Now an invalid wants his money's worth. He wants good measure. Therefore, unless misled through ignorance, when his system needs a blood purifier, fer, when his system needs a tonic, when his system is breaking down from blood impurity or some wasting disease, he will demand of his druggist a bottle of Bull's Sarsaparilla, and on no occasion be persuaded to take anything that may be offered in its stead as being "just as good." There is no other remedy so good as Bull's Sarsaparilla for such diseases as scrofula, syphilitic affections, salt-rheum, itch, eczema, pimples, sores, rheumatism, lame back, swollen joints, aching muscles, nervous weakness, nervous debility, loss of appetite, loss of flesh, loss of strength, sleeplessness, premature old age, etc.

A GOOD

T. B. Woodruff, Jeffersonville, Ind., writes: "For ten years I had been an invalid. I became a chronic medicine taker. There is not a blood remedy or a tonic advertised that I did not try. From none of them did I derive any permanent good. I became discouraged. My system was full of blood impurities. My skin was covered in places with brown patches and little sores. My muscles had lost their strength. I was very weak. My appetite and digestion were miserable. I kept growing worse and worse until I began to use Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. I then began to rally at once, and grew stronger and stronger. I have now used probably 30 bottles, and my improvement in looks and feeling is so great I seem like another person. I am now well and strong, and give the whole credit of my recovery to Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla."

Your children will be more healthy, happy and pretty, if you occasionally give them Dr. John Bull's Worm Destroyer. Try them. Price 25 cents.

When you have chills and fever, if you want a sure cure and one that does not taste bad, take Smith's Tonic Syrup. It will please you better than quinine or any other chills medicine.
