TO ADVERTISERS.

THE NEWS will take advertising with the understanding that if it has not a larger local circulation than any daily paper published in Waco, no charge will be made for the advertisement.

Come to the court house tonight.

The Clark rally tonight is going to be something immense.

Pick your winner for the suburban handicap tomorrow at Cameron.

The Clark workers are the patriots. There is no spoils in this fight for them.

The brave little Picayune, of Palestine, is making a gallant fight for George Clark for governor.

The race between Clark and Hogg is a handicap. Clark carries the pennant—it is a Confederate record.

The train from Waco to Cameron tomorrow as it flies through the pastures and fields, with streamers flying the band playing and the boys yelling "Turn Texas Loose."

The Dallas Times-Herald is the stick-to-it-est paper in Texas. It said Hill would win and although Tammany has long ago given up, the Times-Herald still says it will be Hill. It is doing the same thing with Hogg.

The Dallas county convention endorsed Cleveland but left the delegates to the State convention free to act as they chose about instructing our delegates to Chicago. The point is Dallas don't want Hill at all, and will only accept a Western man in case Cleveland was considered to weak to win.

Texas in possibilities and glorious promise is too grand to permit a man to throttle her just because other governors have been re-elected. Texas would not owe Governor Hogg anything if he had made a good governor, and it would not be just to ourselves to permit him, to wheedle us into giving him a second term.

THE NEWS desires to urge the friends of Judge Clark in this city to allow nothing to prevent their attendance at the Clark Club meeting tonight at the court house. Some of them are too sanguine of Judge Clark's chances in this fight and are seemingly unconscious of the fact that Waco is expected to honor her candidate by a large attendance at Cameron to-morrow. It will not do for a single man to say to himself, "Waco is all right, and it is not necessary for me to demonstrate my fealty to him." If everybody takes that view of it there will be disappointment to Judge Clark and to his earnest workers who are in the fight to win. Other citizens have given him an ovation every time he visited them and the eyes of the entire state are on Waco today and they will be fixed upon that special train tomorrow and every man will be counted. Will you be one of the number? This question is addressed to every Clark man who reads THE NEWS this afternoon. What is your answer? It should be "I will." Now meet with the Clark club tonight at the court house and record your name as one of the friends of our candidate who will stand up and be counted tomorrow when the special train pulls out for Cameron. The noble fight Judge Clark is making and the determined efforts of his friends in all the other counties of Texas to push his claims to a successful issue aiding him in carrying the banner of pure Democracy to the ramparts of the enemy should appeal to every man in Waco, and the best way to answer that appeal is to drop everything and go to Cameron. Your duty is imperative do not shirk it.

COTTON MILLS IN THE SOUTH.

An investigation now being made before a committee of the Massachusetts Legislature," says the New Orleans Times Democrat, "sheds some light on Southern cotton mills, and gives the views taken of their competition by the New England manufacturers. The investigation is based upon a bill introduced in the Massachusetts legislature restricting the time of labor for women and children in manufacturing establishments to fifty-four hours per week. Against this a strong remonstrance was made by the cotton manufacturers on the ground that such a change would ruin them, as it was as much as they could do today to compete with the South, and any reduction in the hours of labor would put them at so great a disadvantage that competition would be impossible any longer. In presenting their objections to the bill before the committee, the mill owners and representatives have necessarily been compelled to review, to some extent, the competition of the South.

J. Howard Nichols, treasurer of the Dwight Manufacturing Company, Chicopee, Mass., testified that the operatives in the cotton manufacturing industry in Massachusetts are nearly all foreigners, to begin with; that much the larger proportion of these are women and children, and that the nature of the work and the necessities of the business call mainly for the cheapest class of labor. Mr. Nathaniel B. Borden, treasurer of the Barnard Mills, Fall River, testified as follows: "A weaver who could tend eight looms could make, under eleven hours, at wages then paid (before 1874) $10 to $11 weekly. In 1875 an eight-loom weaver could earn $8 and $9; in 1878, $7 and $8; in 1885, $6.25 and $7.25; and since 1888 about $8.50 to $9 weekly." It seems never to have occurred to these manufacturers that one cause of their inability to compete with the Southern mills is because of the restrictions placed upon our markets by a Republican tariff. In the attempt of the Republican wet nurse to invant industries to force a market at home the competition is increased and the only way out of the difficulty according to the infants is to import foreign women and children and work them ten or twelve hours a day. The remedy proposed by the Democratic party is to widen the market for our manufactures and learn the infants to walk.

HOGG'S CAMPAIGN THUNDER.

Governor Hogg never loses an opportunity to advertise himself as a stickler for the enforcement of the law. The Sherman Register exposes one of these efforts in the following: "Two days after the excitement aroused by the attempt to lynch the negro, Massey had subsided Gov. Hogg telegraphed our worthy sheriff to "do his duty and protect his prisoner." When matters were looking exceedingly blue for the sheriff and his deputies and a message from the governor would have had good effect, nothing came. The truth of the matter is that Hogg was in search of campaign thunder and thought this was a choice morsel. This same Governor Hogg, howled "punish the criminals" and at the same time refused to bear an officer's expenses to go after one of the blackest criminals in the country. The state was then too poor. The governor has worked this little racket heretofore and the people have caught on."

Sheriff McAfee of Grayson county is a man who needs no executive message to stimulate him to do his duty and it is the same way with the sheriff's of most all the other counties. Gov. Hogg however would like to pose as the only guardian of the peace and that there are no sheriff's in the state who have the nerve to do their duty in an emergency, without a message from him. He is not satisfied with assuming to direct the official movements of the sheriffs of Texas, but when he saw in the telegraph reports that there were a few Texans in Wyoming who were in danger of being mobbed for alleged crooked cattle jobs, he promptly reminded the governor of Wyoming of his duty in the premises. That this was done and paraded through the newspapers for political effect will not admit of a doubt. The governor's little racket as the Register says will not work. The people have caught on.

The meeting at Cameron tomorrow will be the largest ever held in Texas. The boys from the forks and the boys from the villages, towns and cities, will all be there crying "Turn Texas Loose."
