A DASTARDLY DEED.

A Boy is Caught Using Live Mocking Birds for Bait.

There was an act of cruelty and vandalism seen on the banks of the Brazos yesterday the like of which is fortunately rarely seen. A boy whose name is known was seen to bait his hooks with young mocking birds which he had taken from the nest. This embryo Nero would thrust the cruelly barbed hook through the bills of the little bird and would throw them quivering and trembling into the water as a living bait for cat fish.

The mocking bird is of a sociable nature and is always to be found in towns and near the residences. It is entirely harmless and is always singing his merry song both day and night. The human who could descend to so low a stage as to use any kind of live bait much less an innocent little fledgling should be severely punished. The act was witnessed by three other boys who were so horrified that they quit their sport and returned home.

Hughston Against Downes.

The case of A. Y. Hughston vs. A. Kirschner, which was tried in the county court yesterday afternoon, resulted in a verdict for the defendant. This was another of those suits for damages for selling intoxicating liquors to plaintiff's minor son, and, like in all others, has utterly failed to prove to the satisfaction of the jury the allegations in his petition.

There is yet one more of these cases to be tried and Hughston will doubtless be again knocked out.

A GOOD MOVE.

That is the kind of a move which is made by purchasers of our FINE FURNITURE AND CARPETS

For some reasons it's a better move than was ever made before. One very convincing reason is that not until now have we ever offered these goods at such figures. We have never felt that we could afford to do it and we don't feel that we can afford to do it now, but necessity knows no law and we are taking the bull by the horns. It's a poor rule that don't work both ways. What we didn't feel that we could offer, you certainly can't feel that you can afford to miss. Our goods are on the move and they must go, so don't miss this opportunity, but call at once and get our prices.

Mr. W. Y. Croddock, an aged and decrepit confederate veteran left for Austin on the noon train today where he will become an inmate of the Confederate Home. Mr. Croddock is said to have been a very brave soldier and is highly respected by all his old comrades who know him. He was a member of company "A," Twelfth Alabama regiment, Battle's brigade, Rhodes division, and was badly wounded at the battle of Seven Pines. Transportation and other expenses were kindly furnished by Pat Cleburne camp, C. V.

Charles Allen, a railroad man, came to the city yesterday very sick from bilious fever. The agent at the Cotton Belt passenger depot kindly furnished him a blanket and allowed him to lie on one of the benches in the gentlemen's waiting room. He is suffering much pain and when seen by THE NEWS reporter was without attention, medicine or money. Dr. Bev Caldwell was, however, subsequently called in and is interesting himself in getting the patient in the city hospital.

New Books.

"Not On Calvary." THE NEWS has received the above entitled book from the publishers, the Chas. T. Dillingham Company of 718 and 720 Broadway, N. Y. The author signs himself as "a layman" and gives the book as his plea for mediation in the temptation in the wilderness. In the advertisement it says that "not on Calvary is a new hope for those who have lost faith, a new light to those who wrongly believe that God ever sends suffering, a new peace to those who suffer through bereavement."

Like every other religious work, "Not on Calvary" has been assailed by some orthodox clergymen and by others endorsed. It in no way is opposed to religion, but on the contrary is a strong supporter. A quotation from the same advertisement noted above will explain how the work came to be written.

"Mr. Ingersoll recently asserted in an address that 'God could not be a loving Father and still permit slavery with all its cruelty to exist.' The little book 'Not on Calvary' reverently and successfully rebuts the sneer and asserts that God is not the author of suffering." The price of the book is 35 cents.

LIFE OF CHAS. H. SPURGEON.

Russell H. Conwell, L. L. B., D. D., L. L. D., has written biographies of Taylor, Garfield and Blaine. He has justly been called the Spurgeon of America, and has an auditorium in Grace Street church, Philadelphia, second largest in the world, Mr. Spurgeon's being the largest. The many grand works of benevolence and education founded by Mr. Conwell are evidences of his ability to grasp and present the best characteristics and peculiar powers of the world's greatest preacher, Charles H. Spurgeon, of whose secret powers of wonderful success Mr. Conwell knows more than any living man. To begin reading this best of Conwell's biographies is to insure its entire perusal. Of the entire six hundred pages each is replete with the best points of a great man's life.
