EL PASO PLAYERS ARE MAKING GOOD IN TRY OUTS WITH FAST COMPANY

Wingo Anderson Makes a Hit With Cincinnati Reds. Grindie With the Angels on the Coast.

In spring the young fan's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of baseball. Just now the fans' fancy is turning in the direction of the major league training camps where the big leaguers are getting the kinks out of their legs and are warming up for the pennant race. Unusual interest is being taken in the league teams this year because there are a number of ball players trying out in fast company who have either worn an El Paso uniform or have played in the Cactus league teams. This interest crystallizes around Wingo Anderson, the left handed phenom who was the single feature of the 1909 season in the southwest.

Anderson with "Reds." Anderson is with the Cincinnati Reds and at Hot Springs, Ark., and his work is being watched by the local fans as closely as it was last season when the Texas pitcher was summoned to El Paso. The Cincinnati Enquirer, which has Jack Ryder covering the doings of the Reds for the sport page, had the following to say of Wingo's work recently: "Then came Wingo Anderson, the stocky and determined youngster from Texas. Wingo gave an exhibition of nerve which made the American leaguers look up. He led off the third inning by hitting the first man up. The second man doubled and the third singled, yet the enemy could tally only once in the round. With this handicap to go on, the Texas settled down to business, refusing to imitate the Wright brothers in any respect, except intelligence and skill. He fanned big Jerry Freeman, got Bill Bradley on a bouncer to the box, and pitched off Joe Delehanty with ease. In the next inning Wingo retired the side in order, and then he was sent to the stable to rest up for another day. Anderson, though rather below the average in height, is very powerfully built, and handles himself well in the box. His crippled right hand doesn't appear to bother him either in fielding or hitting. Griff likes his style and appearance, and will give him a thorough trial."

Griff likes his style and appearance, and will give him a thorough trial. Batting Hard. Wingo Anderson bats right handed and looks like some other. He posed out one to center field fence, of which Joe Delehanty made a great jumping catch, and he also sent Charley Hemphill back to the boundary for a long ball. This boy has plenty of nerve and he may turn out to be one of those who will stick with the club. Griffith tried out four pitchers in this contest, and of the four pitchers Wingo had by far the best record, and the other three were such well known veterans as Griffith, Spade and Hosp. It looks as if Wingo will succeed in getting one of the regular places on the staff and that if spite of the fact that Griffith has 16 candidates for places on his pitching staff. Griffith Pleased. Manager Clarke Griffith is more than pleased with the way in which Wingo Anderson of the Cactus league is showing up in the practice games here. Griffith smiled when he saw the way the youngster worked out, and turning to one of his friends, said: "I guess you certainly have a job as scout for us when he gets through playing with the Giants." Madhuson touted Anderson high to Griff when he was in Cincinnati a few weeks ago. Anderson's arm was given a rest in the game today, Griffith preferring that he merely keep it in first class condition and work out with one of the extra catchers while other men are in the box. Grindie With Angels. Another boy that played here last year was Grindie. In the first game played between the Chicago White Sox second team and the Los Angeles team, Grindie caught the last four innings for the Angels and his record as shown by the tabulated score, was: At bat, 2; runs, 2; hits, 2; put-outs, 4; assists, 1, with no errors. One of his hits was for two bases. Tuesday With Browns. Frank Treadwell, who played the keystone sack for Caranese the last part of the season is under contract to the St. Louis Browns and right now seems to have the inside track for the position of regular guardian of the second sack. The St. Louis papers have the following to say of this player's ability: "The first day's work-out of the Browns with Jack O'Connor at the helm developed a feature, so unexpected and gratifying that it has attracted the attention of the press. O'Connor, who was chucked and then chucked some more. He vowed to himself to keep the matter a secret, but decided, after more mature deliberation, to 'unbosom himself and 'come clean' with it. He said that which will cause the bland smile of Bob Hedges to become even more bland than usual if such a thing be possible, and the entire baseball public of old St. Louis may also 'beak in' on the giggle, because all will be interested. Hist. Here's the secret: O'Connor has a youthful infielder in his squad whose envying about the second corner in the inaugural practice showed him to be a far more valuable player than the pilot had ever dreamed it possible for him to be. The player is peppery little Frank Treadwell, whom the Browns' management secured by way of the draft from the Houston club last fall. Frank is a St. Louis boy, and is sure a lallapalooza. Treadwell showed only one weakness in the first work-out, and this O'Connor attributed to over-anxiousness. He said he could prescribe a remedy which would overcome the evil. The youngster comes in on a grand ball like a streak of grassed lightning and overruns many chances which go his way. He works to either side in true major league style, possesses the happy faculty of being able to tag the runner and, while it is entirely too early to pass judgment on him, he looks like a fairly good hitter and a permanent fixture on the Browns' machine. LANDLUBBER WHIPS SAILOR. Oakland, Cal., March 10.—Gumboat Smith, the sailor fighter, was knocked out here last night by Jim Barry, of Chicago. The landlubber landed a hefty uppercut on the chin just as the far was rebounding from the ropes, where he had been sent by a whale tail punch. It all happened in the 10th round.
