ROOSEVELT INSURGENTS

PLAN FORMING TO DRAW ROOSEVELT INTO HEART OF CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE STAND-PATTERNS THIS FALL.

(Herald Special.)
Washington, D. C., May 24.—With "Roosevelt and insurgency" for a battle cry in the fight for re-election this fall, the house progressives are planning to sweep Roosevelt into the midst of a terrific campaign. Secret information on which the insurgents based their assurances of Roosevelt's active support against "Cannosim" is available for the first time today. The situation revives an unpublished report made by the insurgent caucus in March, 1908, by a committee composed of Nelson of Wisconsin, Madison of Kansas, and Gardner of Massachusetts, charged with the mission of obtaining the indorsement of Roosevelt for the insurgent policies in the closing days of his administration. The following statements were included in the report: "March 3rd Roosevelt proposed to give Nelson a letter indorsing the fight on Cannon expressing himself in sympathy with the progressive movement." Roosevelt is quoted in the report as saying: "Cannon has been the greatest obstacle to my efforts to secure good legislation during my administration." In the afternoon of March 3rd the insurgent committee called on Roosevelt and Nelson outlined a line of attack upon Cannon, asking Roosevelt to officially indorse the move. Roosevelt then declared his sympathy with the Police are now convinced that the bomb was intended for the king, who was at the time on his way to the palace. Callemayer killed himself when pursued by the police. Another bomb was exploded in a church at Caransea and three worshippers were killed and sixteen injured. The bomb throwing is believed to be the result of a concerted movement by the anarchists.

(Herald Special.)
Chicago, May 24.—The trial of Lee O'Neil Brown, the minority leader of the Illinois legislature, charged with bribing Representative White to vote for Senator Lorimer, opened before Judge McSurley today. embarrass Taft. After a conference lasting two hours Roosevelt said he would write a letter to be used among the members of the house without reserve, but refused to release such a letter for publication. The letter to be a complete indorsement of the insurgent program. When the committee left the White House it was understood Roosevelt would write the letter next day. The committee called as per agreement, while the inauguration preparations were on, and Taft was present with Roosevelt when the committee arrived. Roosevelt greeted the committee, and on shaking hands with Nelson, said: "I am sorry, but I have reached the decision that a letter at this time would be unwise, from what Taft has said to me." He then took Gardner and Nelson to Taft and plead with him for some time to help the insurgents. Taft, after listening to the arguments, turned the matter off in a joking way. Since that time Roosevelt has not spoken in a political way. The insurgents have written to him repeatedly, but all of Roosevelt's answers have been guarded carefully.
