PLAYS THE GAME WITH CUNNING

Mr. Bailey is a politician, and he plays the game with cunning. But Mr. Johnson calls his hand in a statement he hands out from his Dallas headquarters, extracts of which are given in this issue.

And Mr. Johnson is undoubtedly correct in his diagnosis when he implies an effort on the part of Mr. Bailey to rally anti-Bailey men to Mr. Davidson by attacks on the former attorney general which he expects anti-Bailey men to resent, thinking thereby to divert votes from Johnson, because he knows Johnson is the strong man in the race, and the man most likely to beat Colquitt. By an attack upon Mr. Davidson Mr. Bailey expects to be able to deflect votes from Johnson to Davidson, in which case Davidson's vote will be increased and Johnson's vote decreased, making

Edward R. Taylor.

New York State Expert on Water Conservation.

Edward R. Taylor of Penn Yan, N. Y., is a chemist and scientist who has given much time to the study of the conservation of water. He believes that the power from the great barge canal now being built by the state of New York could be utilized to much advantage.

didacy by reason of their allegiance and fidelity to prohibition to become alienated from each other and to fly at each others' throats? Will prohibitionists be misled? It is shrewdly calculated, if not shrewdly designed, to bring further dissension into the ranks of those who have set their hearts upon the hope of seeing Texas under the stainless flag.

"I am fortified in my apprehension that this is a hollow issue which has been adroitly brought into this campaign as a diversion from the real issue, when I remember that the Waters Pierce Oil company was first driven from Texas under the administration of General Crane and when H. Clay Pierce was criminally prosecuted at that time in the district court of McLennan county under District Attorney Cullen Thomas for operating a trust in Texas, Senator Bailey did not then insist upon the criminal prosecution of the trust magnates in our state.

"If the cause of prohibition has its throat cut in this contest we will have the knives with the brand of passion and of prejudice. They will not be in the pocket of Mr. Colquitt, for he cannot get his hand on the throat of our cause; they will not be in the pockets of the whiskey traffic, for they cannot reach it with their blades; but these knives with blood stains on them will be in the pockets of men who have been for prohibition, but who hold personal politics higher than principle, who are led by passion and not by reason; who would rather follow after the ambitions of a man than the flag of their party. Let the people of Texas beware and be on guard in these, the closing days of our final struggle. This may be our last charge for a number of years. This game of personal politics and political manipulation has resulted in the sad spectacle of the whiskey traffic with its unholy hand upon the legislative department of our government; it has imperilled the very power and capacity of the people to rule; and is now engaged in a desperate effort to further strengthen its stranglehold upon the people of our great state.

"Let us be steady and firm; let us not lose our heads; let us keep our powder dry and trust in God. I expect to go straight forward with a firm hand on the banner which represents the hopes and the aspirations of the best men and of the women of Texas, and under whose folds the children of Texas will find security from the fangs of the deadly serpent. As I write this, great numbers of the politicians of Texas are assembled to lay plans and devise means for the destruction of our cause. These are the men who have been exercising the political power in our state, dealing out your offices and manipulating the politics of your state; the people are at home at work, producing the wealth that is to make our state great; bringing into existence the products which are to feed and clothe the nation; my trust is in them, and reposing in that trust I go forward for the remaining two weeks of this desperate and complex struggle."

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL.

Even the Houston Post has seen the handwriting on the wall. It says: "The anti-prohibitionists of South Texas who have identified themselves with the small Davidson group ought to sit down and face the situation. Either Colquitt or Cone Johnson will be the next governor of Texas." So! Now those prohibition demagogues who do not want to see the

Faith in Houston's Future

IS THE KEYNOTE OF

Magnolia Park's Wonderful Growth

Every man who has built a home in Magnolia Park has done so in the firm faith that the enormous increase of values in the next few years, due to the completion of the Houston Ship Channel, will give him big profits on his investment. That is why

The Building Growth of Magnolia Park is the Sensation of Today in Houston.

Houses are springing up all through the Park as if by magic. The monthly payments on a lot and house in Magnolia Park amount to just about the rental a man of family is required to pay further up town. 75 per cent of the purchasers of lots in Magnolia Park are residents of Houston. Could any proposition have a more convincing indorsement. See your local agent today.

state of Texas turned over to the whisky element should line up and make Cone Johnson, the prohibition democrat, governor.

Do not fail to hear Hon. Cone Johnson speak Monday afternoon.

"Clean and screen" is a good summer-time motto, and a number of towns are making it good.

The Herald is old business today. The local merchants have some good arguments for you, Mr. Reader.

Ladies are especially invited to hear Hon. Cone Johnson at the opera house Monday afternoon. He makes a speech without any offense in it.

Some of the Anderson county growers are figuring on from fifty to sixty bushels of corn to the acre. Yet, some people tell us this is not a corn country.

East Texas is simply smothered with peaches. Not for years has such a crop been seen here. It is a shame they cannot be equally distributed over the country.

Wonder if we could not import about one million of George Bailey's red headed widows to East Texas to help take care of the peach surplus? Peaches and cream are fine for red headed complexions.

Wouldn't this have been a peach of a year to hold a fruit palace in this good old town? We have fruit to feed the whole state and as many more as would have visited such a show. We really should take hold of this proposition.

And the land that produces this wonderful fruit crop can still be bought for a song. The man up north where the heat is killing people every day should investigate East Texas, the land of abundance and of cooling breezes.

The Herald is full of most important business announcements today, and the buying public should read the ads. The live merchants of the town are making special offers on summer goods, and the reductions are offered right at a time when many people need such goods.

Hon. Cone Johnson, democratic candidate for governor, will speak in Palestine at the Temple Opera House Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, discussing the issues of the campaign. The hour for the speaking was placed at 4:30 in order that the shop men could hear this gifted speaker, and Mr. Johnson and his friends will especially appreciate it if all of them will attend and hear the speech.

Really Roosevelt is not to blame for getting right in the middle of the republican political game again. He came home and went to his summer home and went to cutting tall timber and forking hay, when the boys began to pour in on him, and he had to talk or order them off the place. He could have let a tree or two fall on some of them, but the right man never came along at the opportune time for this.

Palestine is soon to commemorate the life and worthy deeds of that grand old man of Texas, son of hers and credit to the state, in the selection of a public playground. No cold shaft of marble of whatever noble proportions could equal in beauty and serve the people now and the coming generations as will this contemplated park. The bouquets are yours, progressive Commercial Club of Palestine, and may you make "Reagan Park" a thing of beauty and a joy forever.—Jacksonville Progress.

TO BE SOLD AT TAX VALUATION.

I have tried for some time to sell the brick store building occupied by Fenton & Burns at what I thought a fair price. Though I have had several interested, none have bought. I need the money just now to put into my new home and have decided to offer this property at $2,750, this being its actual tax assessment valuation. The building rents for $35 per month and you can figure out that it is a good investment. The store next door was sold to Mr. Noble several months ago at $4,000 cash, and was not in as good repair as this building. A perfect paper title guaranteed.

AT THE LEYHE PIANO SALE

EVERY DAY ADDS NEW SALES TO OUR LIST OF PLEASED CUSTOMERS.

The beauty of it is all know they have made a big saving on their Pianos, all the way from $50 to $100, owing to grade of piano bought. It's a pleasure to us as well as to the customer to be able to sell them pianos at prices to make us friends, for we only handle such pianos as we know will stand the test. Therefore, when we sell you one of these works of art we have not only made a friend but have laid a foundation for more business for the satisfied customer is the best advertisement on earth. So be sure and come in this week as our cut prices will only last this week on these beautiful instruments. We can satisfy the most critical in quality, and as to prices, every one that is fair and not perfectly blind to facts, will admit that we are the leaders in Texas on the small profit and quick sale plan. Others had to fall in line and make an effort to compete and others made no effort, just took their medicine and kicked and knocked on the Leyhe Company. But we go on selling more pianos today than any two concerns in Texas, just as though the knocks had never come.

Our pianos and liberal terms speak for themselves. Don't forget we have some nice second-hand pianos at bargains.

One Cable & Son Upright for $ 55.00
One New Upright for 178.00

And every piano sold is backed by a guarantee as strong as the government bond. No chances taken in buying a piano from the Leyhe Company. It's the largest house in Texas—twelve stores—all of them live wires—up and doing all the time, and our Palestine store is open at nights until 9:30.

While our sale lasts we extend an invitation to you to come in and see us, get our prices and terms and get acquainted whether you buy or not. Don't forget the place.
