MRS. CADDIE WINSTON HERRINGTON,
111 Erwin Street. Phone 426.

Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Mabel Claire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Watson, to Mr. A. J. Sewell of Mart takes place at the Watson home this evening at 6:30 o'clock. The happy pair will leave on the night train for San Antonio and McGregor, visiting Mr. Sewell's relatives at the latter place. Miss Watson has many friends in Palestine who regret to lose her, but who are happy with her in her new joy.

Kitchen Shower.

Miss Helen Grant entertained the Sewing Club Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Mabel Claire Watson with a kitchen shower. The parlors were pretty in white and gold, carrying out the bride's colors. Menu cards were presented each guest, to be filled out for luncheon, dinner and breakfast, the whole forming a book tied in white and gold, containing suggestions for the bride's future menus. Miss Grant, assisted by her guest, Miss Hughes of Temple, surprised the honoree by presenting to her in behalf of the Sewing Club a large dish pan in yellow and gold, containing useful kitchen utensils, which will delight the young housekeeper. An elegant luncheon was enjoyed. At the close of the happy afternoon the hostess presented her honoree with an exquisite bouquet of white asters tied in gold ribbon. Miss Anna Hughes of Temple was an honored guest.

Dining Room Shower.

Mrs. C. E. Appell entertained on Monday afternoon, complimenting Miss Mabel Claire Watson with a beautiful dining room shower. White and gold were profusely used, carrying out the bride's colors in every detail. A pretty honor seat was arranged in the dining room, all in white and gold. The honoree was asked to take the seat of honor. A table was just in front of her filled with daisies. Misses Doris Grant and Eleanor Watson were the dainty waitresses, and bore waiters filled with beautiful gifts for the dining room. The little girls were kept busy with the gifts—cut glass, linen, silver, china and everything pretty for my lady's dining room. After the pretty things were admired by the honoree and all present, the fascinating game of rook was enjoyed, at the close of which an elegant two-course luncheon was served. Mrs. Appell was assisted in entertaining by Mesdames J. F. Watson, Cad Williams and Lucius Gooch. The out-of-town guests were Misses Huffman of Galveston, Donan of Austin, Hughes of Temple and Mrs. Florence Bull of San Antonio.

Complimentary Rook.

Miss Georgia McMeans entertained Tuesday morning with six tables of rook in honor of Miss Mabel Claire Watson. The parlors were pretty in summer roses. At the close of the games a two-course luncheon was enjoyed. Miss McMeans was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Mattie McMeans, Miss Hughes of Temple and Mrs. Bull of San Antonio were out-of-town guests.

Crist-Oliver Wedding.

The following is from the Abilene Morning News. Mr. Ira Crist has many friends in Palestine who are glad of his happiness. He is a machinist and doing well at Teague. About 9 o'clock Wednesday night, July 13th, 1910, Rev. R. O. Bailey united in marriage Ira D. Crist of Palestine and Miss Ada G. Oliver of this city, the wedding taking place at the home of the bride's parents, corner South Sixth and Oak streets. Only a few relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties were present. The couple will leave August 25th for a visit in East Texas, and will visit the parents of Mr. Crist in Palestine before returning to their home in Teague.

An Invitation.

The following invitations are out, and the affair will no doubt be enjoyed by all attending:

120 Rusk street: Mrs. J. F. Wolff invites you to attend the lawn party given in honor of Misses Kathryn Adams of Jacksonville and Emma Blanton of Palestine, Thursday evening, July twenty-first, nineteen hundred and ten, from eight to eleven p. m. Kathryn Adams, Emma Blanton.

The Baratheas Class.

The following invitations were out this week. The Grace church ladies always have enjoyable entertainments, and last night this was largely attended and enjoyed:

The Baratheas Class of Grace Methodist church request your presence at their reception to be given at the home of Mrs. R. D. Long, 237 1-2 N. Jackson street, Tuesday evening, July nineteenth, nineteen hundred and ten, eight to eleven. A free will offering is expected. The pretty home was all in flowers and aglow with cheer and joy. Elegant refreshments were served and a nice sum realized.

Complimentary Breakfast.

Mrs. P. H. Hughes entertained at 9 o'clock breakfast Friday morning in honor of Mesdames T. W. Smith and H. R. Moore, who have returned from their summer visit to the "old states." The breakfast room was fresh and fragrant in summer flowers. The covers of the honorees were beautiful in sweet peas. Breakfast was served in five courses. It was a delightful occasion, and a reunion of friendship and love, after a separation of a few weeks. Covers were laid for the hostess, her honorees, and Mesdames E. J. Ezell and J. G. Barry.

Moonlight Social.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Word Nance was an interesting place Monday night, the occasion being a lawn social given by the classes of missionary workers and Bible students taught by Mrs. Mary Melton of the Baptist Sunday school. A large crowd of young folks enjoyed the occasion. A watermelon feast was a specialty, and fun afterwards. The classes are composed of young men and ladies, and is a large number.

Will Visit Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. George Burkitt contemplate sailing from New York August 9 for a several weeks' tour in Europe. They will land at Londonderry and visit Mr. Burkitt's old home in the northern part of Ireland. They will visit England and the continent and witness the "Passion Play" at Oberammergau, which will be the second time they have seen the play, having witnessed it ten years ago. From Sunday's Houston Post.

Dance.

Miss Emory Sweetman, City Hall, Tuesday evening, July nineteenth, nineteen hundred ten, dancing. Miss Raffeld, Mobile, Ala. R. S. V. P. These dainty invitations were received this week, calling the friends of Miss Emory Sweetman to a pleasant affair, given in honor of Miss Raffeld of Mobile, Ala. The city hall was arranged tastily for the occasion. A cozy corner was on one side in rugs, chairs and tabourettes. Here delicious punch was served by Mesdames J. T. Sweetman and H. Martin. The grand march was led by the honoree, Miss Raffeld, and Mr. Jim Huff. They were followed by Miss Sweetman and Mr. Jesse Hamilton, and then by more than sixty, all in beautiful evening costume, the fair young graduates and school girls and the handsome boys of Palestine. There were sixteen dances and eight extras. Dainty programs were furnished. Miss Keelan of Huntsville and Mr. Fulsham Parks of Mart were out-of-town guests. The chaperons of the evening were Mrs. J. T. Sweetman, Mrs. Julius Pearlstone, Mrs. John Nall and Mrs. H. Martin. This was a beautiful, brilliant affair, giving pleasure to a great many friends of Miss Sweetman.

Misses Onida and Lizzie Barnes are visiting at Cleburne.

Mrs. Pitluck, formerly Miss Michelson, of Bay City, is visiting in Palestine.

Miss Busch Smith, with Hodges Dry Goods company, is taking her vacation at Sherman.

Miss Beulah Scott of Greenville is visiting Mrs. H. A. Watts. Mrs. Watts invites her friends to call.

Miss Keelan of Huntsville and Mrs. Florence Bull of San Antonio are guests of the Watson home for the wedding.

Mr. Fulsham Parks of Mart accompanied Mr. Sewell to Palestine and will be best man at the Sewell-Watson wedding this evening.

Almost a Collision.

Having narrowly escaped a collision of my buggy with an automobile last Sunday afternoon, I feel disposed to publish a thought in connection with the incident. Had this collision occurred the result probably would have been disastrous, possibly fatal.

I was driving south of the railroad on Magnolia street, ascending the slope in front of the residence of Mr. John Young. Hearing the whistle of an automobile I turned my horse from the middle of the street to the right, leaving ample space on my left for the auto to pass. But instead of taking the left that vehicle was driven to my right into the very narrow space between me and the sidewalk. I was still going further to the right when I saw the auto spinning by me at a rapid rate, leaving me hardly time to pull my horse to the left sufficiently to escape being run into in a way that would undoubtedly have resulted in a frightful catastrophe to me or my daughter or her infant child, or possibly all of us.

Now I have inquired of several city officials, attorneys and civilians to learn the rule governing the passing of vehicles in the street. The result of my inquiry leads me to believe there is no rule for those traveling in the same direction. We all know the rule when vehicles meet, "Keep to the right as the law directs."

This would seem to be also the rule for the foremost vehicle. Because this driver thus moving would leave the road properly open for any vehicle that might chance to be coming the other way. Meanwhile the driver in the hindmost vehicle is able to see the foremost one has gone to the right, leaving him a clear space on the left, and if any other vehicle is seen coming the other way the hindmost driver can check his speed, remain in the rear of him in front till the meeting conveyance is past and thus avoid all confusion and all danger.

From a disregard of this apparently just and simple rule, this chauffeur missed by perhaps less than one foot running into my wheels, and at a speed that would undoubtedly have been fearful in its results. My object in making public this incident is not to express any ill-feeling, but to call attention to a matter that seriously needs regulation. Let our city council pass an ordinance requiring automobiles to pass on a certain side, either to the right or to the left. Then the public can feel that if they veer to the side indicated they will not be run into unless it be done by some one reckless of all danger to the lives of others on the highway.

HE NEEDS THE MONEY

HOUSTON MAN WILL ENDEAVOR TO ANSWER TEN QUESTIONS LEFT BY HIS FATHER AT TIME OF HIS DEATH.

(Herald Special.)

Tecumseh, Neb., July 20.—Nothing has ever put the curiosity of the citizens of Tecumseh under a greater strain than the mystery of old "Scotch" Wilson's missing heir, which is to be solved by an unusual test before Judge Livingston of the probate court tomorrow. The claimant, who asserts that he is John Wilson, Jr., the son of old "Scotch" Wilson, will, tomorrow, be given an opportunity to prove his identity and to establish his claim to the $30,000 which old Wilson left to his missing son, provided he should turn up within five years after the death of the testator and prove his claim by answering, to the satisfaction of the court, ten questions which old Wilson had written down and sealed and deposited in a safety deposit vault.

Old "Scotch" Wilson died about five years ago and ever since that time the mysterious package in the safety deposit vault kept the curiosity of the citizens at a high pitch. It is safe to say there were not two residents who held the same theory concerning the nature and purport of the ten questions. Every possibility was discussed from every imaginable point of view and for five years the mystery of the test questions formed the all-absorbing topic of conversation and contention in Tecumseh.

The general interest in the puzzle increased tremendously when, a few weeks ago, a man appeared in this city who claimed to be John Wilson, Jr., the missing heir of old "Scotch" Wilson. He stated, in reply to questions, that he had lived in Houston, Texas, for more than twenty years under the name of Alonzo Wilson and that he had assumed that name to make it impossible or at least more difficult for his father to find him. He is an attorney and also a civil engineer and has worked for the Southern Pacific railroad for many years. He had heard of his father's death about two years ago, but did not wish to return to claim the inheritance waiting for him. But his wife and daughter had finally persuaded him to claim the estate for their sake and he had consented to come to Tecumseh and establish his identity through the prescribed test.

Old "Scotch" Wilson, the testator, was one of the oldest settlers in this locality. He owned a fine farm and by shrewd investments accumulated a considerable fortune. He was a man of many prejudices, stubborn and intolerant and frequently quarreled with the members of his family and his neighbors. It was about thirty-six years ago that the old man had a particularly severe quarrel with his son, John Wilson, Jr., and drove the equally stubborn boy out of the house. The boy left Tecumseh and was never seen or heard of since that time. One year later the old man relented and began to regret having driven his only son into the world. He made strenuous efforts to find a trace of his son and spent the greater part of his fortune in this search. But the search remained fruitless and the old man died without having found a trace of his son. Shortly before his death the old man made a will in which he provided, after his own style, for the possibility of his son's return. He deposited $30,000, the bulk of his fortune, in the Tecumseh bank, to be held in trust for his son for five years, ending July 21, 1910. The old man, realizing the danger that an impostor might claim the fortune, wrote down ten questions and the answers to them, sealed them securely and entrusted them to the executor of the estate, A. C. Sullivan, with the provision that the money should not be paid to any claimant who did not answer these ten questions to the satisfaction of the judge of the probate court. In case no claimant should appear and answer the questions before the expiration of the five years the money is to go to the nephews of the testator.

Blind Football Players Have a Good Team

This photograph shows the famous football team of the Kentucky Institute For the Blind at Louisville. Eight of the regular team are totally blind. Their percentage of wins over strong opposing teams is excellent. The only favor they ask in a game is that when the ball is put in play the opposing team shall indicate the fact by shouting the word "Pass." Of course kicking the goal after a touchdown is eliminated. The team is in charge of Professor B. B. Huntton.
