Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Mabel Claire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Watson, to Mr. A. J. Sewell of Mart, on Wednesday evening, July 20th, 1910, at 6:30 o'clock, presented a beautiful home scene. The Watson home on May street was beautifully adorned for the sweet bride. Her colors were white and gold, and her favorite flowers daisies; these were in every available place, and seemed like stars peeping through, with their golden centers. The bay window of the front parlor formed the marriage altar. A large arch of smilax and daisies with ferns and pot plants in the background, was a pretty picture. At the wedding hour Rev. Jas. Kilgore of the Methodist church stood just inside the arch, awaiting the bride's coming. Mr. Sewell, attended by his best man, Mr. Potion Park, of Mart, entered, joining the minister and awaiting his bride. Miss Jewel Dubose at the piano, Miss Frankie Mobley violinist, accompanied Miss Allee Patrick in the bridal song, "All For You." Miss Patrick never sang sweeter, and as the sweet notes faded away Mendelssohn's wedding march began and the bridal train came gracefully down the stairs. The matron of honor, sister of the bride, Mrs. Cad Williams, gowned in yellow mesaline draped in gold lace, carrying an arm bouquet of daisies led, followed by Miss Vivian Watson, sister of the bride, in beautiful lingerie gown, carrying daisies; then the little sister, Eleanor, as flower girl, scattering daisies as she came. The bride followed, escorted by her father, and she was as beautiful as a dream in white satin, en train, draped in lace, with a bridal veil and bandeau of pearls, carrying an arm bouquet of bride's roses and maiden hair ferns. Rev. Kilgore gave the beautiful ceremony, Miss Dubose playing softly all the while "Spring Song." After congratulations, all were invited to the beautiful dining room, where Mr. Park, best man, read numbers of telegrams of congratulations from all over the states. The attention was next drawn to the table where the bride's cake was placed at the center piece. It was a large heart-shaped mystery box, all in white crepe paper, surrounded by daisies with numberless streamers floating from it. Each guest plucked a daisy, drawing from the box a large slice of cake in an envelope, wrapped in the fortune of each. Miss Sadie Ash drew the envelope containing the ring, Miss Mattie Cad Gardner drew the needle, Miss Willie Pearl Gardner drew the dime. After the beautiful cake had vanished the wedding repast followed, consisting of individual hearts of delicious cake and cream, with a daisy on each cover. Punch was served throughout the evening by Misses Mattie Cad Gardner and Terese Keelan of Huntsville. Miss Sadie Ash had charge of the register, all present writing their names in the beautiful book. After a while the bride disappeared, returning ready for the wedding trip, gowned in a handsome tan shantung suit, en suite. As she came down the stairs she threw her bouquet, all reaching to catch it. It fell on Miss Allee Patrick, and she submits to her fate. Good-byes were said and the happy pair left, followed by rice, old shoes and the dearest love and best wishes that friends and loved ones can give. They will visit San Antonio and McGregor, the latter place the home of Mr. Sewell's parents, returning to Mart they will establish housekeeping, where the home is waiting them furnished throughout.

The bride is one of Palestine's favorite daughters and has had beautiful showers of love and gifts from her friends.

Garden Party.

Mrs. J. F. Wolff entertained Thursday evening with a garden party in honor of Miss Kathryn Adams of Jacksonville and Miss Emma Blanton of this city. The front porch was beautifully arranged for a musical program, the piano was decorated in cut flowers and pink and blue crepe paper furnished the color scheme everywhere. Japanese lanterns of blue and pink gave light to the lawn and porch; the moonlight was delightful also. An interesting program was rendered. A praphophone also furnished music all evening. Delicious refreshments were served, and a happy evening passed. Mrs. Wolff was assisted by her honorees and Misses Pearl Taylor and Emma Bowen in entertaining.

Elkhart Party.

Judge and Mrs. B. H. Gardner, Mrs. Roy Sewell, Howard Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kerr of Corsicana formed a party for Elkhart Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Kerr were honored guests.

Sunday school, of which Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Gooch are teachers, surprised the Gooch household and their guests, Misses Huffmaster of Galveston and Donnan of Austin and Mr. Hu Huffmaster of Houston, with a beautiful party. Hurricane Season Close at Hand.

New Orleans, La., July 22.—Now is the West Indian hurricane season, or the time of year which the weather bureau designates the "period of maximum frequency for gulf storms." As the season approaches extra precautions are being taken in the matter of arranging for prompt and efficient storm warning service along the Gulf coast.

Under direction of Chief Willis Moore of the United States weather bureau, stations along the gulf coast this year will not only use the mails, telegraph and telephone, but will enlist swift tugs and mounted messengers to convey warnings to remote points.

She Laughed at a Joke.

New York, July 22.—Mrs. Cecelia Goldberg, a bride of a few days, gave a birthday party last night, and laughed so heartily at a joke told by her husband that she dislocated her jaw. Her husband, after several vain attempts to remedy the trouble, called a policeman, who in turn summoned an ambulance surgeon. It required three hours' work to set the injured member. The police failed to report what the joke was.

TEXAS FARMERS

Will Meet at College Station July 26, 27 and 28.

College Station, July 22.—Preparations for the meeting of the Farmers' Congress have commenced at the Agricultural and Mechanical College, and Captain C. O. Watkins, superintendent of buildings, has a force of men at work getting things in shape for the occupancy of the dormitories by the large number who are expected. Professor D. W. Spence will have charge of the assignment of quarters and following the custom he inaugurated last year, he will arrange it so the swine breeders will be together, the corn growers together and so all down the line for each section. Comfortable apartments will be provided for the ladies who will attend.

James Hayes Quarles has charge of the arrangements for the press. A large room with plenty of tables and chairs will be arranged for the newspaper workers and there will be courtesies for all editorial department representatives who will attend.

This year there is rapid transit between Bryan and the Agricultural and Mechanical College. The interurban line between the college and the town, a distance of five miles, will operate a half hour service between the terminals, so as to give all who want to visit Bryan an opportunity to do so. This interurban will also result in more Bryan people visiting the Farmers' Congress than heretofore.

The congress will be larger this year than ever before. There will be a meeting of county school superintendents this year, which is a new thing in the Farmers' Congress work.

Traffic Demoralized.

Montreal, July 22.—Traffic on the Grand Trunk is somewhat demoralized as a result of the strike of conductors and trainmen. President C. M. Hays is bending every effort to settle the differences with the men. It has been reported that President Hays was due to be given a title by the government for his conduct of the road's business in the past. The strike may somewhat delay the adding of sir to his name. While an American, Mr. Hays has won the confidence of the English and Canadian directors of the Grand Trunk system.

Sign Causes Arrest.

Cleveland, O., July 22.—Because he placed in the window of his saloon a sign reading "This is John D.'s Place," John D. Schnapps was arrested yesterday. The complaint was filed by Frank F. Marmann, who says he is a friend of John D. Rockefeller. Marmann says Mr. Rockefeller is known as "John D.," and he asked what the oil man's Sunday school pupils would say if they chanced to pass the saloon and saw that sign. Schnapps argues as his name is John D. he has a perfect right to use it on his sign.

Enameled Iron Ware Trust Alleged.

Washington, July 22.—Sixteen concerns are manufacturing sanitary enameled iron ware and the officers located in the states were proceeded against today by the department of justice in a bill in equity filed against them at Baltimore, Md., under the Sherman anti-trust law. The concerns are charged with being a combination in restraint of trade, it is said, to control 85 per cent of the output of bowls, bath tubs, lavatories, drinking fountains and other sanitary enameled iron ware.

To the Public.

Having bought out the interest of A. B. Hodges in the grocery business, I desire to thank our many customers and friends for their liberal patronage. I shall continue the business in the future as in the past, handling nothing but the best of everything to eat. Give me your next order.

NEGRO SHOT, BODY BURNED.

Swift Vengeance Followed Killing of a Belton Constable.

Belton, Texas, July 22.—Five hundred citizens headed by Sheriff D. C. Burke surrounded a corn field at 3:30 this afternoon, closed in on the negro, Henry Gentry, and shot him dead. He refused to surrender. A rope was then thrown around his neck and he was dragged from his hiding, loaded on a wagon, brought to Belton, dragged nude around the public square and burned in front of the court house. A mob of a thousand then attacked the jail to get his brother and another negro. Sheriff Burke guarded the jail while Hon. Lon Curtis appealed to the crowd to disperse, as the guilty negro was killed. After much persuasion the crowd left. More trouble is feared.

"Assistant President" of the United States His Job

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

To be assistant president of the United States is better than being private secretary to the president. This is the new job for Charles D. Norton, who is officially known as secretary to Taft, but is known among the politicians and friends of Taft as "assistant president."

Mr. Norton, who was an insurance agent in Chicago a few years ago, has been assistant United States treasurer until he took up his new duties. The political leaders of the Republican party advised President Taft, according to Washington gossip, that he needed a good "press agent," a "sort of an assistant president who will see that you get an even break," as one politician put it. This is Mr. Norton's job among other things, and his friends declare he will more than make good.
