THE LESSON OF THE ELECTION.

Of course there is a lesson in the Tuesday's vote by the nation. There always is or should be a reason for results. In this instance it is the unmistakable answer of the American people to the question Roosevelt raised as to his new nationalism. It is a reconfirmation of the principle of state's rights and a clear-cut repudiation of the Hamiltonian doctrine of concentration. It is also a rousing protest on the part of the American people against the high tariff. It is a warning to the members of congress, whether democrats or republicans, that the masses are getting tired of paying unreasonable profits to the special interests. In short, a new era is at hand, and the man or public official who undertakes to play the same old game of ignoring the rights of the people will find that he will be counted out. In the meantime we have given our first would-be-emperor a run for his money, and driven him back to Oyster Bay, where he probably feels like the biggest oyster in the bay.

SUSPICION MAY BAR TRADE.

Is it the case of being suspicious of too big a bargain? A gentleman who has studied the situation carefully says the biggest drawback to selling East Texas lands is that they are offered too cheap. He argues that a man from one of the older states, who is accustomed to hearing land priced at a stiff price, gets suspicious when the East Texas lands are quoted to him at their present prices.—Palestine Herald.

It may be East Texas lands are offered too cheap. We doubt, however, if raising prices will add to sales. The thing to do is to show what the land will raise and that the crop will net a percentage upon a higher price than that asked. There can be no getting away from a proposition of that sort.—Austin Statesman.

FRUIT PALACE FOR EAST TEXAS.

The San Antonio International Fair and the Texas Cotton Palace at Waco open Saturday, and both promise to be good shows. Next year to this list should be added the Texas Fruit Palace at Palestine.—Palestine Herald.

The idea is tiptop. All that you need now are some energetic citizens to carry the plan through. As East Texas is distinguished for its production of fruit, berries and garden truck, so a fruit palace at Palestine, or any other city of that section, would prove of distinctive interest to the people of Texas. Every one of these fairs and exhibitions is of value to the city and sections in which it is given.—Galveston News.

Mayor Callaghan of San Antonio was a guest of the Press Club of that city at a banquet tendered Governor Campbell on the occasion of his recent visit, and the mayor took occasion to unload his spleen on the San Antonio papers while there. In return for his trouble the papers roasted him to a queen's taste. It is none of our fight, but the mayor should not have accepted the invitation if he did not feel that he could attend and observe the proprieties of a guest.

This from the San Antonio Express: "Now if Tennessee could secure the services of Thomas Mitchell Campbell of Texas as chief executive, with a contingent of the Texas rangers, they might be assured of the enforcement of the liquor laws to the letter." And there is not a trace of sarcasm in the comment.

The population of El Paso is a distinct surprise to the people of the state, and that city on the western border jumps into fifth place among the Texas cities. And with this flattering showing some of the people out there are wanting to cut loose from Texas.

Tuesday's election left Texas' tariff plank in a rather deplorable condition. Even the people in the republican states repudiated the high tariff, and it can hardly be supposed that democratic Texas will stand for it.

Even lovable Bob Taylor could not prevent the democrats of Tennessee from administering a rebuke to Patterson and his gang. Bob will go back to the United States senate, while Patterson can go to the—any old place—so far as the people of Tennessee are concerned.

The new nationalism as well as protection seem to have gotten a stiff jolt in the Tuesday elections. The people demand the doing away with special privileges to the special classes.

Woman's suffrage, judging by the returns from Tuesday's election, is still far from popular in this country.

Hats off to "Peggy O'Brien," the wife of Martin Littleton, both former Texans. The wife made a campaign for her husband in New York and landed him.

The Galveston Tribune has contributed a valuable editorial on the art of resting. Appropriate just now, because there will be so many politicians in need of just such information.

Anderson county is moving along. In the recent road tax election the indications are the county has cast a progressive vote. This people need to step ahead.

Roosevelt having failed to get a "look-in" Tuesday should be able to render more efficient service to the Outlook in the future.

Come on Tyler. Palestine owns about forty acres of park lands within the city limits, and is going to beautify the parks.

The Dallas Times Herald says nobody loves a fat man—in Ohio.

Thanksgiving will be thanksgiving this year—to the democrats.

GREAT PLAY OF RANCH LIFE.

"The Squaw Man" Will Appear at the Temple Monday Night.

A press notice says: "The Squaw Man," H. E. Pierce & Company's great play of western ranch life, will be the attraction at the New Temple Theatre on Monday, November 14. The selection of this drama of the west will meet with wide approval in Palestine and the production, itself, promises to be one of the most pretentious that will be seen here during the present season. "The Squaw Man" is a genuine American play, replete with virility and strength. Edwin Milton Royle, the author, has skillfully combined his ingredients of dramatic interest with the proper mixture of comedy, and has succeeded in evolving a rare play wherein swiftly alternating laughs give place, frequently, to moments of intense pathos. The management has furnished a complete scenic production, the same as was used in Chicago and New York, which will be used, in its entirety, during the engagement.

WEATHER BULLETIN.

Published By Authority of the Secretary of Agriculture.

For Palestine and vicinity until 7 p. m. Friday: Tonight fair, colder; Friday fair, warmer.

Temperature: Lowest last night, 60; highest yesterday, 81.

Weather Conditions.

Rain has occurred in the lake region and the New England states as the result of the movement of a disturbance which is now central over the eastern portion of the lake region. Another storm of considerable energy is moving eastward over the North Pacific states. It is causing general rains in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and in the northern Rocky mountain region. The barometer is relatively low over Southwestern Texas. There has been a marked rise in temperature in the North Pacific states and in some of the Atlantic coast states, while it is much colder in the Plains states. Portland, Ore., reports 1.68 inches rainfall. The indications point to fair and colder weather in this vicinity tonight and fair and warmer weather Friday.

DURAND HAVING TROUBLE

Of His Own In Trying to Please the Country at Large in Matter of Census Returns.

(Herald Special.)

Washington, Nov. 10.—Census Director Durand has been having more trouble of late than any officer of the government. Census directors always have trouble, and always expect it. Aspiring communities of the urban sort are seldom satisfied with the result of the federal enumeration of population. Local enumerations are rarely as nearly accurate as those performed by the now well-disciplined forces of the census bureau. They are usually over-counted, and the denizens of ambitious localities get themselves so used to the exaggerated estimates of their population that they get to believe in them, and consequently are greatly disappointed when the federal census people come along and make an approximately true return. Nevertheless, Director Durand is giving attentive heed to complaints, and has been showing a rare degree of patience in investigating the justice of all grievances. Any town or city which goes about it in the proper way and shows sensible cause for the belief that there has been serious error in the enumeration can secure a recount.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Kyrle Bellew is to revive "Raffles." Virginia Harned is to appear in a play entitled "The Woman He Married."

The play in which Charles Cherry is to star is called "A Gentleman of Leisure."

The electrical merry-go-round in the first act of "Three Twins" is said to have cost $12,000.

George M. Cohan's "Governor's Son" has been condensed into a one-act musical play for vaudeville.

Walter N. Lawrence resumed his theatrical management by introducing Thomas Jefferson in "The Other Fellow."

Maclay Arbuckle will soon appear in vaudeville in "The Welcher," a one-act play by Robert H. Davis, author of "The Family."

Elmer Grandin has written a playlet for vaudeville purposes called "The Great Passion," which will be used by his wife, Eva Mountford.

"The Nest Egg" is the title of the new play by Anna Caldwell, in which Zella Sears will star, the tour to open some time this month.

Sheridan Block, Wright Kramer and Stephen Wright have been engaged for "The Duchess of Suds," in which Miss Henrietta Crossman will appear November 21.

Richard Harding Davis' new play, with a young woman spiritualist as the leading character, will be produced by Liebler & Co. within a few weeks.

Florence Gear, who starred several years under Jules Murry's management, has gone into vaudeville with a new sketch, entitled "The Engagement Ring."

May Irwin is to have a new play by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, called "Getting a Polish." Rose Coghlan has also been engaged for the company.

Henry Arthur Jones, the noted English dramatist, is coming to this country to supervise the production of one of his plays by the Authors' Producing company.

Mgude Adams is making a record-breaking tour through the south in "What Every Woman Knows." In the meanwhile she is carefully studying her role in "Chantecler."

Gertrude E. Jennings, a daughter of Madeline Henneques, a former actress, has just written a new play, called "Between the Soup and the Savory," which has been launched in London.

The announcement is made that Eva Lang, a stock actress, is to star in "Tess of the Storm Country," by Rupert Hughes. Miss Lang says that her play will be ready before the winter season is ended.

W. Somerset Maugham, the English dramatist who has made such a success with his light comedies of English fashionable life, is coming to this country to see the American productions of his plays, "Smith" and "Mrs. Dot."

Harriet Ford, who, with Joseph Medill Patterson, wrote the sociological play, "The Fourth Estate," has just completed the manuscript for a new play based upon Judge Ben B. Lindsey's "The Beast and the Jungle." Liebler & Co. will produce the play.

EARL SISTERS COMPANY

Will Be the Offering at the Lyric Theatre Tonight.

The management says: The Earl Sisters company, comprising a trio of clever women performers, will be the vaudeville offering at the New Lyric Theatre tonight. They will present a pretty little comedy playlet entitled "A Story in Black and White." They have an act said to be one big scream, and they carry a complete set of their own scenery, which lends a distinct charm to the act. They are singers and dancers and producers of comedy imitations that never fail to please, and Lyric patrons are looking forward to a real treat when this little company make their first appearance in Palestine tonight.

"The Girl and the Bandit," a real western picture, will be the main attraction in motion pictures. There is no human virtue that is more universal in its appeal than bravery. The recital of a deed of daring will always cause our pulse to leap and our breath to quicken. In this film the Kalem company tell the stirring story of how a deed of daring at which the bravest man might hesitate was performed by a mere slip of a girl.

"Mamma's Birthday," the comedy film to be exhibited tonight, is a genuine comedy. Mamma has a birthday and also some company. The cook quits and general trouble comes up by the wagon load, winding up with an indication of burglars in the house, but it all worked out right in the end. It is to laugh.

Pity Your Poor Boy at College; Think How He Must Study

Pity the poor college boy! While you are at home, remembering that Tom must have a check on the first of the month, think of all of his troubles. You have only to worry over digging up the interest to pay on the mortgage, while Tom must stay up nights wondering if he is going to be invited to the next "hop" or if his team will clean up the rival college at football. Truly, the life of the college youth is a strenuous one. For example, each college must find some new way of celebrating—some new idea in creating a laugh or "pulling off high jinks" that will be talked about. An eastern college filled with some 2,000 students decided that it would be a grand young plan to burlesque the suffragettes, and as a result they robed themselves in clown clothes, borrowed or bought a wagon and marched through the streets of the college town singing funeral dirges.
