GRAND OPENING BY CARROLL E. CHARGE

switch at the Gamboa dike, which in turn set in motion other apparatus furnishing the current which exploded the charges.

Single Wire Carries Spark.

From Washington to Galveston, Texas, 1,555 miles, a single wire carried the spark. There it was taken up instantaneously by sensitive repeating instruments and sped over the cable along the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico to Coahuacoalco, Mexico, 750 miles further. From that point it sped overland across the isthmus and Tehuantepec, 185 miles to another cable station at the bottom of the Pacific ocean, where other sets of sensitive telegraph instruments snatched it up and hurried it 766 miles through another cable to the bottom of the Pacific ocean to San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, a cable station. There other delicate machines transferred it to still another cable and shot it 718 miles more to Panama.

Reaches the Dike.

When the spark emerged from its long submarine journey it took the overland telegraph wire to the Panama Railroad company and completed its mission at the Gamboa dike. Originally it had been intended to set off the charge at 9 o'clock in the morning, but president Wilson granted a request for change to accommodate points having Pacific coast time.

The electric current started by president Wilson exploded the thousands of charges of dynamite which have been buried in the 200 feet of dike which stood between Gatun Lake and the famous Colaba dike.

Oceans Not Actually United.

The Atlantic and Pacific oceans were not actually united today when the Gamboa dike was destroyed, and the waters of Gatun Lake were allowed to flow into Culabra cut, as the lake and cut at the normal surface of the water, 85 feet above the level of the sea.

The destruction of the Gamboa dike however, removes the last obstruction to the navigation of the great part of the canal by light draft vessels and opens a direct connection between the great Gatun lake, which already is practically ready to discharge vessels into the Atlantic through Gatun locks and the Pacific division.

The waters of the lake rushing through the broken dike at Gamboa, sweep through Culabra cut until they reach the great locks at Pedro Miguel, which mark the beginning of the descent from the top level of the canal to the Pacific.

Dredges Enter First.

The first craft to enter will be the great dredges, whose work is to clear and deepen the channel. The presence of small craft in portions of the canal, however, does not set mean ocean-to-ocean navigation. This will be first possible when each link in the canal has a sufficient depth of water and all the locks are working.

Dike is Blown at 2:04 p. m.

Panama, Oct. 10.—The Gamboa dike was blown up at 2:04 o'clock this afternoon.

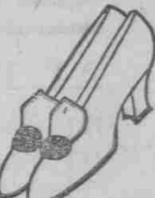

Dike Successfully Exploded.

Panama, Oct. 10.—The Gamboa dike was exploded at 2:04 p. m. this afternoon. The destruction of the dike was successful in every way.

SENSATION IN THE ORNER CASE

the Maese incident and Maese was brought before the grand jury here.

Maese's Statement.

The statement of the witness, Maese, to the grand jury was as follows:

"About 10 days ago a Mexican came to me and told me if I would testify in the Orner case to the effect that while I was employed in a drug store during February, 1911, a man named J. D. Lee came to me and purchased some arsenic that I would be paid $100 for it. I told my employer, Mr. Peak, and he reported the matter to the authorities immediately. The authorities came to see me and instructed me to go through with the matter. I was later telephoned by a lawyer, who said he wanted to see me. I made an engagement to meet the lawyer in my room, in the rear of the Peak undertaking establishment, which meeting was to be Saturday night, October 4. The lawyer phoned me on Saturday night, saying he would call on me Sunday morning.

"I reported all this to the authorities, who came to my room and installed some kind of a machine. On Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock Charles Owen called on me and I brought him back to my room. At that time the cellar below my room was full of sheriffs and other officers and they had an operator who was to take down everything that I said in my room. Mr. Owen asked if I worked in a drug store in February, 1911, and I said I thought I did. He said he wanted me to come and testify in the Orner case to the effect that a man named J. D. Lee came and bought some arsenic of me, telling me he wanted to poison a dog and that I sold him the arsenic, and that shortly thereafter Lee came back to me and said for me not to tell anybody I had sold him the arsenic, as I might get into trouble.

Says He Was Given $10.

Mr. Owen told me to describe the man Lee as a man about my height and that he was dressed in overalls when he came in. He told me he would give me $50 for doing this and he gave me a nice cigar and $10. As he left me, he said he would send for me to come to Van Horn Wednesday night. After he left I went and repeated to my employer and the officers all he said, and the man who had the machine connected to his ears also made a statement which was exactly like mine. Mr. Owen told me he would give me the rest of the money when I got to Van Horn. I was instructed by the officers to insist on payment of the money before I went on the stand, which I did, but only got $10, and I am $10 ahead anyway, and then the nice cigar, too.

"I was sent for Wednesday and got to Van Horn Thursday. They wouldn't let me testify down there."

It is said here that some of the judges who have formerly tried the case were told that perjury was possible in the trials, and had got in communication with the district attorney some months ago, looking to a solution of the affair.

The authorities in El Paso finally concluded to take drastic action in the matter, and much money was expended in the case. The results of the use of the dictagraph were so successful and astounding that a regular operator was employed and the developments in Van Horn are but the first of a series of surprises, it is claimed, that are in store.

Orner Trials Cost $15,000.

So far at least $15,000 have been expended by the state and county in trying Mrs. Orner. While the case has been tried away from El Paso four times, El Paso county is still paying all the bills, for the reason that the alleged homicide occurred in El Paso county.

Testimony of Grand Jurors.

Court convened at 9 o'clock Friday morning. The state offered the testimony of the grand jurors before Mrs. Orner. They had testified with regard to her relations with Mrs. Orner. The defendant's attorneys objected to the testimony for the reason that the state could not impeach a witness on an immaterial issue and whether or not Delaney had had such improper relations with Mrs. Orner was immaterial to the case.

The state's theory was that it was material to show the animus of the witness. They had testified for Mrs. Orner, but the court sustained the objection, so neither James A. Dick, Putnam or Carré were out on the stand.

Both Sides Close.

The state then announced that it closed, and defendant closed. Under the new law the jury must be charged before arguments of counsel and the charge of the court must be submitted to counsel for the defendant to file their objections. The court merely charged was already prepared and was submitted to counsel for defendant and they asked for time in which to file their objections and exceptions to the charge. The court granted them until 1:30 p. m.

Defense Raises Point.

Counsel for the defendant raised the point that the 35d legislature repealed all laws which related to murder in the first degree and therefore that the defendant cannot be found guilty of anything. They had requested the court to submit to the jury the question of whether or not the defendant is guilty of murder in the first degree.

The penalty for murder under the law passed at the last session of the legislature is death or confinement in the penitentiary for any term of years, not less than five years, or both, under the old statute for murder in the first degree was death or life imprisonment.

For the first time in the history of the case no charge on circumstantial evidence will be given. Heretofore it appeared that circumstantial evidence was in the case, but with the testimony of Mrs. Orner, the effect that Mrs. Orner said, "I killed Little," it is now the theory of the state that such confession takes the case out of the realm of circumstantial evidence. This is considered an important point for the state.

Shortly after the defendant got seated in court Friday morning she began to cry and moan. The attorneys have agreed to close all arguments by 6 o'clock tonight.

The term of court here will end immediately on the final disposition of the Orner case, as there is no other business to be disposed of at this time.

COUNTY ATTORNEY RETURNS; WARRANTS MAY BE ISSUED

Sensational developments to be followed by immediate arrests are expected at any time as an outgrowth of the incident of the use of a dictaphone in connection with the Agnes Orner trial on at Van Horn, Tex.

County attorney P. R. Price, who was an attendant at that trial for several days, arrived in El Paso Thursday night and returned here at this time, he believed to be for the purpose of issuing complaints in the case and delivering warrants to Sheriff Peyton J. Edwards, for execution. The arrests in the case are not expected until after the conclusion of the trial. However, they may be made when the arguments, which are expected to be started today, have been finished. At present the case is being held open for Judge Dan M. Jackson, pending the arrival of additional witnesses who were sent to Van Horn Thursday night.

Grand Jurors Go to Van Horn.

James A. Dick and Ira E. Elder, members of the Dick grand jury, and W. H. Shelton, a member of the Stevens grand jury, were the witnesses that left for Van Horn Thursday night. Their report is that they were summoned after Tom Delaney, a witness for the defense testified on a cross examination Thursday morning that he had not seen Little with Mrs. Orner and had not testified before the grand jury that he did not see Little with Mrs. Orner. Mr. Dick and Mr. Elder to Van Horn, it is said, why Mr. Shelton is wanted because he is being held open for Judge Dan M. Jackson, pending the arrival of additional witnesses who were sent to Van Horn Thursday night.

SULZER IS PLAYED BY PROSECUTOR

"It fit to be the chief executive of this state and for whom it was 'absolutely impossible to even retain the confidence of the people.'"

The governor knew Judge Parker said when he signed the statement of campaign contributions placed before him by his secretary, Louis A. Streck, "that the statement was untrue."

"The man who read that list and examined it," said the attorney, "was not true. It does not help him to say he did the best he could. His master, William Sulzer, knew it was a lie."

Call Peck Story "Counterfeit"

Louis Marshall devoted several pages of his address to the testimony of Duncan W. Peck, superintendent of public schools, who swore that governor Sulzer had asked him to deny under oath that he had given him a $500 contribution. Marshall declared his history was "brass counterfeit" and accused Peck of having a strong motive for so testifying because of Sulzer's animosity. The governor's special investigator, however, described the regularities of a serious nature in the department. He said that Peck's testimony was "entirely untrue" and the destruction of the man who put him in office.

Cannot Charge Larceny.

Most of Mr. Marshall's address centered about the "money articles" in the charges against Sulzer. He stated that Peck, Mr. Marshall said no larceny existed because the money came into Mr. Sulzer's hands legally and that the charge of perjury was groundless because the law never required an affidavit on a matter of this nature. Furthermore, he argued, the governor thought the statement correct when he signed it.

"The corrupt practices does not make necessary the publication of campaign receipts, only when they are extended. Therefore the governor violated no law. 'No perjury was committed by him in signing this instrument because the expense statement, because the corrupt practices act does not require an affidavit on a matter of this nature, and the governor was voluntary.'"

How to Brown Hair Without Detection

Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Tint Hair Stain Can Be Applied in a Few Minutes Every Month.

There is a way of staining gray, faded, bleached hair any shade desired, from a beautiful rich brown to almost black, so that it is difficult, if not impossible, for even experts to detect that the hair has been treated in any way.

This preparation has the tremendous advantage over hair dyes of containing no silver, sulphur, lead or other poisons which invariably cause hair-dying. It has no odor, no oil, no sediment, and no grease, and does not rub off on the clothing. It makes the hair grow out fluffy and luxuriant.

A liberal amount as a laboratory trial package of this Walnut-Tint Hair Stain, together with a booklet on hair, is sent by Mrs. Potter's Hygienic Supply Co., 1939 Groton Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio, in plain, sealed wrapper, if you will send twenty-five cents in stamps or cash, and if it is desired to continue the treatment, full-sized packages may be obtained at drug or department stores for one dollar each package.

It is applied in a few moments with the comb, and it stains the hair evenly, from tip to root. It produces any shade desired, from a beautiful, rich brown, to almost black.

One bottle of this Walnut-Tint Hair Stain can last a year.—Advertisement.

PASSENGERS CAUSE OFFICER'S ARREST

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 10.—Passengers on interstate trains whose moral sensibilities are shocked by the actions of fellow travelers may have recourse to the law under the terms of the Mann white slave act.

Citizens of Phoenix who arrived by train from California points on Tuesday established a precedent when they complained to the United States marshal of the conduct of Robert Meall, a deputy sheriff of Los Angeles, Calif., said to be connected with the district attorney's office there, who was accompanied on the train by a woman. An investigation by the marshal resulted in the arrest of Meall for alleged violation of the Mann act.

Meall was arraigned before a United States commissioner here today and held to answer. His bond was fixed at $1200.
