

FAREWELL VISIT TO KING

Paid By Duke of Connaught, Who Will Go to Capetown to Open First Union Parliament.

(Herald Special.)

London, Oct. 8.—His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught paid a farewell visit to the king today preparatory to departing for South Africa to open the first union parliament at Capetown. The royal party will sail from Southampton on the steamer Balmoral Castle, which will be escorted by the cruiser Defense.

The Duchess of Connaught will accompany her husband to South Africa. His Royal Highness will be attended by a numerous suite which will include Lord Hamilton of Dalzell (Lord in Waiting), Sir Francis Hopwood (Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies), and Commodore R. Erskine Wemyss (Aide-de-Camp and Extra Equerry to the King.) Also traveling by the same steamer will be Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who is to be the fraternal representative of Canada at the opening of the parliament, and Sir Richard Solomon, who is High Commissioner for South Africa.

The Balmoral Castle is the newest and finest of the boats that run to South Africa. For the purposes of the royal tour the steamer has been almost wholly refitted and a special suite of elaborately furnished apartments has been arranged for the royalties. Both the steamer and the escorting cruiser have been equipped with wireless outfits so that the duke may keep in constant touch with King George. The duke is taking out with his many messages from the king addressed to personages with whom King George has come in contact, and he will also confer various distinctions in the king's name in the course of his state progress throughout the union.

According to schedule Capetown will be reached on the last day of this month. After a week's stay there the royal party will proceed to Bloemfontein and thence on to the Victoria Falls, Salisbury, Bulawayo, Pretoria, Johannesburg and Durban.

Who Are "They?"

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
We all have a way of saying "they say" this or that of some person or some thing and accepting it ourselves as authentic when some one says "they say" to us.

But if we stopped to inquire into the exact source of the information, either we would be unable to trace it back to any one other than the elusive individual, "They Say," or we will find back of it the unkind gossip of some enemy.

And just because "they say" fails to put the blame of a falsehood on any one person's shoulders it really is the most dangerous of statements and one of the hardest to refute.

So let us beware of believing "they say" stories. Let us treat lightly all gossip introduced by the words "they say." Or if this gossip makes us suspicious of its object—and it is natural and human that it should at times—let us suspend judgment until we know. In other words, let us do the object of "they say" the justice to investigate until we find some one who is in a position from actual knowledge and whom we can trust, to make a positive statement over his own name as to the truth or falsity of the "they say" story.

The writer has been led to pen this little lesson in practical fairness by reading a little book issued by the Coca-Cola Company of Atlanta, Ga., entitled "The Truth About Coca-Cola." That truly delicious and wholesome beverage has for so long been the subject of "they say" stories in which all manner of untrue and detrimental things about Coca-Cola have been circulated that the manufacturers have been forced to issue their book giving authentic information about this beverage. And the information therein contained does not rest its case on any "they say" statements, but bases its arguments on analysis and statements of chemists and scientists occupying the highest positions in America.

This is a most interesting book—a fine study in dignity in refuting falsehoods—and a book of information that all should read. You will find it well worth your while to write and ask the Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, Ga., to send you a free copy.

LENGTH of service is what really determines the value of a suit or overcoat.

It is our contention that garments tailored by the best Craftmen and made from the highest grade of imported fabrics will certainly outwear and ultimately prove more economical than those which cost less at the outset.
