Cottolene

Shortens your food—Lengthens your life

Physicians today are recommending Cottolene for dyspeptics, and others in a "run-down" condition. Never heard of them recommending lard for such a purpose, did you? Cottolene is a product of Nature, clean in source, making and manner of marketing. It makes food which the most delicate stomach can digest.

Cottolene is far superior to lard or cooking butter for all frying and shortening purposes.

Woman's World

A Noted Beauty Called "the Princess of the Golden Locks."

Men of many nations have pronounced the Princess Henry of Pless the most beautiful woman they have ever seen. She inherited her charms from her mother, Mrs. Cornwallis-West, who was regarded a famous English beauty when in her prime, less than a generation ago. The Princess Henry is a pronounced blond of medium height, slender and graceful, with gray eyes and a perfect complexion. In 1891, at the age of seventeen, she married Prince Hans Heinrich of Pless. The wedding caused a great deal of talk

PRINCESS HENRY OF PLESS AND HER SONS. because she was simply Miss West, a commoner. Busybodies immediately started to look up Miss West's family tree, and it was found that she was a direct descendant of King Henry III. of England. She is nicknamed "the princess with the golden locks," is very fond of yachting, hunting and sport in general, and the German noblemen hold up their hands in horror when she rides to hounds and shoots pheasants in the royal park at Furstenstein. Prince Henry is of the Silesian nobility and at his father's death inherited a fortune of $20,000,000. The latest craze of smart English society is tattooing, and Princess Henry of Pless is said to be skillful with the needle.

Where Matrimony Scores.

Dr. Jacques Berrillon, the eminent French physician and an acknowledged authority, announces the conclusion that matrimony is the greatest aid to longevity. He says if men and women would reach a good old age they must marry. This, he says, is established by statistics gleaned from all over the world. A married man or woman has, he says, thrice the chance of a good long run as a bachelor or a spinster. In further illustration of his contention that the wedded life is best for men he shows that the mortality among widowers is greater than the average among married men. So he recommends them to look out for a new partner—that is, at any rate, if they are under sixty. This is his advice to young men:

"Marry. You will do well, even from a selfish standpoint. But watch carefully over your wife's health, as even from this egotistical point of view her loss will be a terrible misfortune, for your life depends in a great measure on her own."

Dr. Berrillon finds that the mortality among widows is much greater than among married women of the same age. The death rate of widows from twenty to twenty-five years of age, he says, is twice that of married women of the same age.

But the doctor very gallantly finds that women have less need for men than men have for women. Men are less careful of their habits and are unable to live so near the ideal life when deprived, either by design or circumstance, of the watchful care of a wife. When we live under the rule of matrimony we gain. When people leave this inducement they suffer, he concludes.

New Grab Bag.

A new grab bag plan that is being tried this year with great acclaim on the part of youthful patrons of bazaars is called the "old lady with 100 pockets."

The old lady is a huge figure (which may be constructed over a large barrel by way of saving time), dressed in a hoopskirt or a wide countrified gown and bonnet and carrying a big cotton umbrella.

In her dress are hidden away 100 pockets, in each of which a little five or ten cent gift is tucked away. On the outside of each pocket is pinned a number, or this may be omitted there. The child paying his dime or nickel specifies what pocket he wishes the contents of, and this is immediately given him. Some one must be at hand, of course, to receive the money paid to the old lady and to deliver up the contents of her numerous pockets.

The Asparagus Cure.

The latest is the asparagus cure taken in Switzerland. The natives find it profitable, as is the case with most cures. But then anything for an excuse to go to Switzerland.

Corner Ball.

Four players stand on the four angles of a square and the four adversaries in the center. The ball is passed from one to another of the players in the corners and finally thrown at the central players. These last, if they can catch the ball, may fling it back. If the player in the corner hits a central player the latter is out, and vice versa.

The Thieving Maggie.

A few weeks ago a large tree in England in which several magpies had nested for years was blown down during a gale, and in a hollow which was unsuspected was found over $300 worth of articles stolen from various houses. The principal thing was a diamond ring worth $200. The largest article was a silver backed hairbrush.

All Together, Sing!

Sparrow, swinging on a branch, sang the softest trill.
Low and long it was, full of lovely meaning.
Robin, tugging at a worm, paused and wiped his bill.
Paused and perked his head, stood his feathers preening.
To sing his song it really seemed he had forgotten quite.
A bee that flew from rose to lily lingered in her flight.
Hummed and buzzed and hummed again, tried to give the keynote.
Wren, though busy with her nest, stopped to sing a wee note.
This reminded robin chirped cheerily and sang.
Sparrow trilled his very loudest, sang his sweetest, best.
Wren, upon the arbor perched, looking at her nest.
Sang with robin and with sparrow till the garden rang.

THEY WON'T BREAK.

The New Corsets Proof Against Bending and Stooping.

THE FLEXIBLE CORSET

Every woman who does her own housework and every woman who suffers from too, too solid flesh knows to her regret how easily corset steels break when she bends over. Here is a corset which is warranted to withstand the most strenuous exercising and hold its own unbroken.

The steels are made of some sort of spiral steel which rebounds with every motion of the wearer. They are something new and will be a comfort to womankind, as they are shapely and there is no outward appearance of "common sense," which mars so many of the hygienic garments.

A Typewriter and a Princess.

Times do change. Even a dozen years ago the thought of speaking of a typewriter and a princess all in one breath would have seemed shockingly incongruous.

But not so now. Princesses are very much up to date. They would every bit as soon bang away on a typewriter as to laboriously dip a gold tipped quill into a bottle of ink and indite their thoughts with laborious dignity.

No less a personage than Princess Mary, the only daughter of the king and queen of Great Britain, has recently learned to use a typewriter and will assist in typing some of her father's more private correspondence. The princess intends to learn stenography also and is keenly looking forward to helping her mother.

Bridge Prizes.

Silver sets for running ribbons of various widths through lingerie make excellent simple prizes for bridge or euchre. There are usually four "leaders," as the bodkins are called in each set, and in little brocaded covers, as they are, become attractive as well as useful. Another pretty trifle that every girl likes to have is a small housewife for her sewing bag. A tiny fancy emery cushion, a small pair of scissors, a needlecase and sometimes a gay bit of wax—all mounted and joined together—are desirable and not expensive.

So great is the fad for bridge scores of various kinds that they are always excellent prizes for men as well as women. Most elaborate are some of the newest pads and books, being bound in the gayest fashion and having small reminders of the trump so arranged as to change it after each hand. Pencils accompany them, and the cases may be used again when the original scores have been exhausted.

Smart School Blouse.

For school wear a plaid blouse is always good style worn with a dark skirt. The material may be either silk or one of the new worsted plaids that are as soft and silky as the latter fabric. These woolen plaids come with the name on them of the clan to which they belong, so if one is of Scottish descent they may sport their own particular "plaidie."

A FALL BLOUSE

The blouse illustrated has a narrow vest of navy blue taffeta with simulated buttonholes and small buttons covered with the silk which also edges the wide shoulder plait. There is little change in the new shirt waists except that most of them when not of wash stuffs have the long shoulder effect and are often made in one with the bodice portion.

A Mind's All Right, But—

It is all right for a woman to have a mind of her own if she keeps it to herself and lets the man think his is the only mentality in the neighborhood.

F. E. Barnes having resigned the agency for the American Live Stock Insurance, that company will be represented by Mr. B. F. Rogers after Oct. 1st, 1910. 3-6t
