Cheapness vs. Quality

In the matter of food you can't afford to sacrifice Quality for Cheapness. Economy is right and good but inferior food products are dear at any price.

REACHING UNSAVED

DECISIONS FOR CHRIST AND RIGHTEOUSNESS IN THE UNION REVIVAL LAST NIGHT—A HELPFUL MESSAGE.

The union revival at the Congregational church is beginning to reach the unsaved. Decisions, for Christ were witnessed last night, after many prayer meetings were held in the homes of every ward in the city by praying women who are members of the different churches, and by the ministers and other men at the Y. M. C. A. in the morning and at the church in the evening before the gospel service began.

Rev. H. Howard Davis, former pastor of the Grace Methodist church, now the assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A., preached one of the best sermons that has been delivered during the revival meeting, and the young and old people, and all classes of people, were so helpfully included in the message of the glorious gospel of the blessed triune God that there was no trouble to get people to decide for Christ as a blessed personal Savior, who pleads with all alike, saying, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

The following is a brief outline of the sermon delivered:

The 21st chapter of the Revelation is a picture of the New Jerusalem or heaven as revealed to John on the Isle of Patmos. It is not the where or the what of the kingdom of Christ that we should concern ourselves about, for Christ said "I go to prepare a place for you," and that should be enough. We should, however, concern ourselves more than we do about reaching that place and pointing others to it. The chapter tells us that heaven stands "four square" to the world's needs, and no man can say that the gates are closed to him, for on each side of the city are three gates that stand open and ready to receive. The text says "On the east three gates, on the north three gates, on the south three gates and on the west three gates." The fact that the east gate is mentioned first is significant. While Christ was on earth he "took up young children and blessed them," and the east gate is open always to the young—to those on the sunrise side of life. And it is here God intends us to accept Him, that our lives may be given to Him instead of to evil. But as many fall to accept on this side of the city, we must follow them as they divide and pass, the one on the north with the cold, distant and emotionless nature, and the other on the south, whose nature is sunny and whose life is overflowing with evil or with good—the impetuous nature—who hates bitterly or loves much. As we follow them the three gates are open to each, and the invitation made to come. Finally, they all come to the western side; some are still without "hope and without God in the world," but as they turn and look at the city they still see three gates and a side of the city as large as before, inviting them to come with cares and burdens so long carried alone, and find rest to their souls. The gates were open when John saw, and they are now, but a day will come when they will be eternally close. "Now is the accepted time, today is the day of salvation." Hear the "Spirit and the bride say come, and let him that heareth say come, and he that is athirst come and take of the water of life freely."

There will be another good service at the Congregational church tonight, beginning promptly at 7:30. Mr. M. R. Shelton has charge of the singing, and his prayerful way of conducting it is proving of great value to the meeting. Reporter.

FOR WOMEN AND HOME.

A pinch of soda stirred into milk that is to be boiled will keep it from curdling.

To blacken brown boots rub the blacking well into the shoes with a raw potato and then polish.

If light kid gloves are not too badly soiled they may be cleaned by rubbing them thoroughly with cracker crumbs.

To keep tins bright, wash well with strong hot soda and water; when dry polish with a cloth and a little powdered whiting.

To make silk that has been washed look like new, put a teaspoonful of methylated spirits to a pint in rinsing water and iron while damp.

Parsley may be kept fresh and green for several days if it is put in a covered earthen jar in a cool place. It will last longer than in water.

When pumice stone and lemon are unavailable, wet the ends of common sulphur matches and rub the ink-stained fingers with them. The spots will soon disappear.

Wringing out a cloth in hot water and wiping furniture well before putting on furniture cream will result in a high polish and will not show finger marks.

Renovate black velvet hats by placing a small piece of butter in the palm of the hand and gently rubbing the surface of the velvet with it. This will restore its freshness.

To clean a black felt hat, first brush the hat free of dust, then add a tablespoonful of strong ammonia to five tablespoonfuls of cold tea and rub the mixture into the felt with a flannel cloth.

If it is desired to use gelatine, soak it in a cool place for an hour in cold water. This will prevent it having any disagreeable odor and will make it dissolve much quicker in any hot liquid.

To clean ivory carvings or bric-a-brac make a paste of sal volatile, prepared chalk and machine oil. Apply to the ivory; when dry add a second coat and allow it to remain on over night. Then rub off and polish.

To restore black cashmere wash the material in warm suds in which a small quantity of borax has been dissolved. Rinse in very deep blue water and iron while damp. If this is carefully done the material will look like new.

A good skin food is made by melting together white wax, one drachm, spermaceti one drachm, lanoline two ounces, oil of sweet almonds four ounces and ten drops of attar of roses. Melt the first four ingredients together, beat until cool, then add perfume.

When washing dishes or glasses which have contained milk or milky puddings, rinse the receptacles in cold water before dipping them in warm or hot water. If this is done it will be found much easier to remove the curd of the milk adhering to the glass or dish.
