

FILLING STATUARY HALL

Handsome Statue of General Lew Wallace Will Be Unveiled at Washington Next Tuesday.

(Herald Special.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—All arrangements have been concluded for the unveiling next Tuesday of the handsome statue of General Lew Wallace presented to Statuary Hall in the capitol by the state of Indiana. The statue, which is the work of Andrew O'Connor, the American sculptor, is slightly over life-size, and with the pedestal, stand about ten feet high. The base is a square block of Indiana limestone, and bears the inscription: "Lew Wallace, Soldier, Author, Diplomat."

At the unveiling exercises James Whitecomb Riley, "the Hoosier Poet," will read an original poem. William Allen Wood will present the statue in behalf of the commission, and Governor Marshall will accept it in behalf of the state. Addresses are expected from Senator Beveridge, Hussein Klazim Bey, the Turkish ambassador, and W. H. Andrews, the delegate in congress from New Mexico.

The statue of General Wallace is one of five to be placed in Statuary Hall this winter. Virginia recently placed in the hall statues of Robert E. Lee and George Washington. South Carolina has sent a statue of John C. Calhoun, and Idaho has placed in the hall a statue of Geo. L. Shoup, who represented that state in the United States senate from 1890 until 1901. The statue of Senator Shoup is the first one erected by any of the states west of the Missouri in honor of one of their sons, although each state in the union has the right to be represented by two such statues. Should all of them avail themselves of the privilege it would soon become necessary to make an addition to Statuary Hall, which was formerly the hall of the house of representatives. The total number authorized is ninety-two.

Up to the present time there are only thirty-five statues in place. The statues now in the hall or to be placed in it this winter are as follows: Samuel Adams of Massachusetts, who was prominent in the agitation that brought about the revolutionary war; Ethan Allan of Vermont, known to history as the hero of Ticonderoga; William Allen of Ohio, who was a member of congress, senator and governor; Stephen F. Austin of Texas, who led the movement which resulted in Texas separating from Mexico; Thomas H. Benton of Missouri, for many years in the United States senate; E. P. Blair of Missouri, soldier and statesman; Charles Carroll of Maryland, a signer of the Declaration of Independence; Lewis Cass of Michigan, soldier, statesman, diplomat and governor of Michigan Territory; George Clinton of New York, first governor of New York state and twice vice president of the United States; Jacob Collamer of Vermont, senator and postmaster general; J. L. M. Curry of Alabama, statesman, diplomat and educator; Robert Fulton of Pennsylvania, who made the first successful steamboat; James A. Garfield of Ohio, president of the United States; Nathaniel Greene of Rhode Island, general in the revolution; Jno. Hanson of Maryland, president of the Continental Congress; Sam Houston of Texas, who fought for the independence of Texas; John J. Ingalls of Kansas, United States senator; John E. Kenna of West Virginia, United States senator; Phillip Kearney of New Jersey, a soldier of the Mexican and civil wars; William King, first governor of Maine; Robert E. Lee of Virginia, commander of the Confederate army; Robert R. Livingston of New York, member of the Continental Congress; Oliver P. Morton, war governor of Indiana; Pere Marquette, sent by Wisconsin, missionary, priest and explorer; John Peter Gabriel Muhlenburg of Pennsylvania, soldier and statesman; Francis H. Pierpont of West Virginia, first governor of that state; Roger Sherman of Connecticut, a signer of the Declaration of Independence; James Shields of Illinois, soldier and United States senator; John Stark of New Hampshire, one of the heroes of the revolution; Richard Stockton of New Jersey, signer of the Declaration of Independence; Jonathan Trumbull of Connecticut, first governor of that state; George Washington of Virginia, first president of the United States; Daniel Webster of New Hampshire, states-

NEWS OF COMING WEEK

Interesting Forecast of Next Week's Happenings Sent Out From the National Capital.

(Herald Special.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—The week gives promise of much interesting news furnished by a wide variety of happenings in many parts of the world. The situation in Nicaragua is still regarded as interesting, while nearer home there will be the proceeds in congress with possibly further developments in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. In Canada the Dominion parliament will resume its session following the Christmas recess, and will at once take up the much-discussed navy bill. It is expected the discussion over this measure will be the most important ever held in the Canadian parliament, the point at issue being whether Canada shall contribute Dreadnoughts to the British navy or start a navy of its own.

The exciting election campaign in Great Britain will absorb public attention on the other side. The pollings will commence Friday and will increase in number day by day. It is expected the result of the election will be pretty clear by January 21, though the whole of the seven and a half million electors will not finish polling till January 28.

Boston will hold its first election Tuesday under its new plan of city government, one of the principal features of which is the nomination of candidates by petition. With four candidates in the race for mayor, the campaign, to continue through the coming week. The exhibits this year are more numerous than ever before. They comprise a total of 323 displays, of which there are 54 exhibits of complete cars, besides 246 exhibits of accessories and parts and 23 motor cycle exhibits.

FOR JOHNSON MEMORIAL

Commission in Charge of Plans For Erection of Memorial to John Johnson Met Today.

(Herald Special.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 8.—The commission in charge of the plans for the erection of a memorial to the late Governor John A. Johnson held its first regular meeting today in this city. Several suggestions in regard to the memorial were discussed. Some of the members of the commission are understood to favor the erection of one large memorial in the state capitol, while another element has suggested the creation of two memorials, one in the capitol, the other in St. Peter, which was the home of the late governor. It is expected the memorial fund will reach a total of $25,000.

campaign has been one of the most exciting ever witnessed in the Hub.

Criminal trials will figure prominently in the news of the week. Mrs. Jeanette Stewart-Ford, who is charged with blackmail in connection with the $643,000 embezzlement from the Big Four railroad by C. L. Warriner, is to be placed on trial in Cincinnati. The trial of Patrick Calhoun, millionaire president of the United Railways, charged with bribery, is scheduled to be resumed in San Francisco Monday. Binger Hermann, ex-congressman and for years a prominent factor in northwest politics, will probably be put on trial in Portland for conspiracy to fraudulently obtain government lands. Following the trial of Hermann, others indicted on the Oregon land-fraud charges will be put on trial.

Balloting will begin in the Mississippi legislature for United States senator to fill the place made vacant by the death of Senator McLaurin. During the week the legislatures of New Jersey, South Carolina and several other states will convene.

The international aviation meet in Los Angeles and the meeting of the board of stewards of the Grand Circuit in Detroit will be among the events of interest to the followers of sport.

BALD AT TWENTY-FIVE.

Mr. Armstrong Tells How He Grew Hair in a Short Time.

Dear Sirs: "I was told of your great remedy, Parisian Sage, that it would grow hair on bald heads, so I got a bottle and tried it, and it is fine. I am a young man, and only 25, and was completely bald on the top of my head, and now I have hair one inch long, with the use of only one bottle. I shall certainly keep on using it until I have a good head of hair, which I have no doubt it will bring."

—Oscar Armstrong, engineer, Belleville Horseshoe and Rolling Mill Co., Belleville, Ont., August 21, 1909.

To the readers of the Herald: The Gironx Mfg. Co., American makers of Parisian Sage, wish to state that they do not guarantee Parisian Sage to grow hair on bald heads, because in most cases the hair root is dead. In the case of Mr. Armstrong the hair root was not dead, and knowing as we do the astonishing hair growing virtue of Parisian Sage, we see no reason why it should not grow hair on the head of Mr. Armstrong.

But we do guarantee Parisian Sage (and so does Bratton), to stop falling hair, dandruff, and itching scalp, in two weeks, or money back.

Parisian Sage is a daintily perfumed hair dressing, not sticky or greasy, and is used extensively by ladies who desire brilliant and luxuriant hair that attracts and fascinates.

Large bottles, 50 cents, at druggists everywhere, and at Bratton Drug company.
