

CHURCH CENTENNIAL

Cumberland Presbyterian Church is One Hundred Years Old Today. Its History and Progress.

(Herald Special.)

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 4.—Through out the south and in all other parts of the country where congregations of the Cumberland Presbyterian church are to be found, celebrations are being held today in honor of the centennial anniversary of the denomination, which was given birth in a little log cabin in the backwoods of Tennessee on February 4, 1810. From every pulpit of the church centennial sermons are to be preached next Sunday, and the anniversary will be further observed with appropriate exercises under the auspices of the educational, missionary and other societies maintained by the church.

The origin of the Cumberland Presbyterian church is to be found in the great religious revival which swept over Kentucky and Tennessee at the beginning of the nineteenth century. There existed at the time a great need of additional ministers in that section. As a consequence the Presbytery of Cumberland, which had been formed from the Presbytery of Transylvania in 1802, licensed and ordained a number of young Presbyterians who had not received the required classical and theological training for the ministry. This action, which was taken on the recommendation of Rev. Mr. Rice, the oldest Presbyterian minister in Kentucky, was contrary to the rules and traditions of the church and aroused considerable opposition. The synod of Kentucky refused to sanction the act and dissolved the Cumberland Presbytery in 1806. This decision was partly confirmed by the general assembly, which withheld its sanction of the new movement but manifested a willingness to recognize the Cumberland Presbytery as an independent organization.

Differences of doctrinal belief also entered into the controversy, especially with reference to so-called "fatalistic teachings" of the confession of faith. This finally resulted in the withdrawal of the dissatisfied members and the formation of an independent presbytery, called the Presbytery of Cumberland, in 1810.

It was on February 4, 1810, that the first presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian church was organized in what is now Dixon county, Tennessee, but which was then known as Cumberland county. Three ministers, Finis Ewing, Samuel King and Samuel McAdow, were the organizers. King called in McAdow at his old log cabin and laid the question before him of forming an independent presbytery. McAdow spent the night in prayer and on the following morning announced his readiness to join the organization. It was agreed that the adherents of the new church should recognize as their standard of doctrine the confession of faith of the Presbyterian church, but provision was made to meet the objections of those opposed to the so-called fatalistic teachings.

The new church grew in three years to a synod composed of three presbyteries and numbering sixty churches. The first synod was formed November 3, 1812, at Lebanon church, Christian county, Kentucky. On Oct. 27, 1828, at Franklin, Tennessee, the first synod adjourned sine die, after it had divided itself into four synods preparatory to the organization of a general assembly.

The general assembly held its first meeting in Princeton, Kentucky, in May, 1829. In the preceding year the church had established a college in Princeton, which was afterward removed to Lebanon, Tennessee, and chartered as Cumberland University.

Here Are Two Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course it is understood that in none of these cases were the hair roots dead nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

GETS NEW LEASE OF LIFE

Jacob Oppenheimer, inmate of the California State Prison, is a Happy Man.

(Herald Special.)

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 4.—One of the happiest men in the big prison at San Quentin is Jacob Oppenheimer, whose life would have been ended on the gallows today but for a writ of error granted almost at the eleventh hour by the state supreme court. The fight to save Oppenheimer's life has been carried on vigorously for the past three years and not until the supreme court of the United States has had an opportunity to pass upon the validity of the California statute under which he was sentenced to death will his fate be finally determined. While trying to escape from San Quentin, Oppenheimer slashed a trusty with a breadknife. At the time he was serving a life sentence for killing his cellmate. He was sentenced under a law which provides the death penalty for a life-term convict who attacks a guard or fellow-convict.

CAPTAIN LOOSE, WHO SAYS HE MANUFACTURED POLAR DATA FOR DR. COOK.

The most recent sensation in connection with the Dr. Cook polar controversy is the affidavit made in New York by Captain August W. Loose declaring that he was employed by Cook to figure up some polar data before his records were sent to Copenhagen. Loose is an expert navigator. He says he believed Cook's figures were tangled and went to him with a proposition to furnish scientifically correct data to be sent to the Danish society at Copenhagen. His contention is that Cook did not pay him what he agreed to for the work and he gave the story to the newspapers.

You will be surprised when you see Sealshipt Oysters. More surprised—and delighted—when you taste them.

In buying Sealshipt Oysters, remember that there is no "liquor"—nothing but solid meat. The "liquor" is what spoils common oysters. It is melted railroad ice.

If you ordinarily buy oysters by the quart, get only a pint of Sealshipt.

Come into our store and see our silent salesman. While here ask for a copy of our book, "Seaside Oyster Dishes." It gives many shore recipes.
