Joseph M. Weber Presents the Lasting Modern Comedy With Music

What Galveston Said:

"The vocal character of this play, its absolute cleanliness and its high dramatic and musical quality makes it one that a person can not afford to miss. The success which it scored is thoroughly merited, for the drama itself is good, and the presenting cast an excellent one."—Galveston News.

"It is only at occasional times now that some dramatist among the hundreds on Broadway offers a play which wins instant attention. 'The Climax' has been one of the few exceptions. Last night Galveston people emphasized the good opinion of other cities. It gave to the play, the players and the production the strongest evidence of appreciation."—Galveston Tribune.

What Houston Said.

"'The Climax' by Edward Locke, the incidental music by Joseph Carl Breil, is one of the most artistic plays seen in Houston this season. The drama is good and the actors are of unusual excellence."—Houston Chronicle.

"'The Climax' is one of the season's most delightful comedy-dramas, and for genuine pleasure which its presentation gives one it is entitled to be classed with 'The Music Master,' which until now has been conceded the most pleasing offering of the season at the Prince Theatre."—Houston Post.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Servant in the House."

It is with mixed feelings that a critic undertakes a review of the above play as seen at the Temple last evening. On the one hand the cast was all that could be asked for and the lesson of the play is undoubtedly worth while, being an endorsement of the sentiment that there is good in every heart if it can only be aroused, and the characters were all men and women of the world. But on the other hand we are not sure that the end justifies the means by which the lesson is taught. We leave this phase of the matter with those who saw the play. As a play—simply a reproduction on the stage—nothing was left to be desired. The cast, as said above, was strong, and the action runs smoothly and is impressive, but after all something is to be desired that is not given; or possibly something is given that is not to be desired. At any rate, we are at a loss to know whether we approve or disapprove the play. Think it over.

The performance was interrupted by one of the performers, undertaking a very difficult role, who felt called upon to reprove some boys in the audience.

Delightful Love Story.

A press notice says: The theatre-goers of this city will be delighted to learn that Joseph M. Weber's comedy drama, "The Climax," by Edward Locke, with incidental music by Joseph Carl Breil, will be the attraction at the New Temple Theatre on Monday evening, February 7. "The Climax" is a story of Bohemian life, and one whose freshness of idea, crisp humor and incessant charm will maintain it in high favor. The brightness of the lines, the wit, the seeming incongruity of the situation, and surely not least, a delightful little love story, is said to make the play entertaining in every way.

Mayne and Mayne.

The management says: Mayne and Mayne, vaudeville sketch artists, did not arrive in time to appear at the New Lyric last night, their train being several hours late, and the management had to secure the services of Hodges and Nelson, contortionists and equilibrists, now in the city preparing to go in vaudeville, who put on a high-class contortion act that proved to be very entertaining.

Mayne and Mayne will positively appear on the program tonight in advanced vaudeville, introducing some high-class singing and dancing. This team carry their own dancing floor, and are said to be "past masters" in this line of work.

The feature film in motion pictures tonight will be "The Tower of Nelse."

On Tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at 4 o'clock the potato matinee will take place at the Lyric, the boy bringing the largest Irish potato to receive a solid silver prize.

NATURE'S GIFT FROM THE SUNNY SOUTH

During the Civil War, cotton growing was so profitable that it is said the natives of India purchased silver plow-shares with which to till the cotton fields. Yet, under the stimulus of highest prices, India could raise only three million bales; the South produces over twelve million bales each year. It will be seen therefore that in this product of nature, the South stands supreme. Not less important is the oil of the Cotton seed which, when refined, ranks in purity and wholesomeness with the choicest olive oil and, in the form of Cottolene, yields a cooking fat superior to lard. Cottolene is vegetable—so pure, wholesome, economical and efficient, that it is truly one of Nature's best gifts from the South.

Relatives Write For Particulars About Burial of Cynthia Ann Parker.

The Latimer & Ezell Undertaking company received a letter from Lawton, Oklahoma, yesterday, making inquiries about the burial place of the lamented Cynthia Ann Parker, and asking about removing the body to a cemetery there. The letter said the body was buried at Posterville, in Anderson county. There is a romantic history written around and about the life of Cynthia Ann Parker, who was captured by Indians at the Old Parker Fort in Leon county, west of this city, and who lived for many years among the Indians, marrying one of the big men of the tribe. A great deal has been written about this pioneer woman in the press of the country. It is said that some of her relatives are interested in having the remains removed to Oklahoma, where a monument will be placed over her grave.

KATIE FRICK, BLIND DEAF MUTE, AND HER TEACHER.

The state of Pennsylvania has set aside a fund for the education of little Katie Frick, the blind deaf mute whose case promises to rival that of Helen Keller. Katie is now in the Mount Airy Institute for the Deaf and Dumb at Philadelphia, and the rapidity with which she learns is a marvel to scientists. She was taught to count by the use of small wooden blocks, the blocks being ranged in a row and the numerals they represented being pronounced by the teacher while the child held her finger tips to the teacher's lips.
