him. The butcher figured the total cost of the hog wholesale, less the cost of the hams and shoulders retail, and found that the farmer owed him $2.60, which he insisted on being paid. So, you see, it is no trouble to see where the prosperity comes in.

BOARD OF TRADE TONIGHT.

President Silliman of the Board of Trade has called an important meeting of that organization for tonight, and urges that all members be present. The special business to be taken up is the launching of the button campaign, postponed from December, and the arranging of a list of premiums for the Boys' Corn Club of the county. The button campaign idea was originated several months ago, and was for the purpose of putting the men of the town into the booster class, by tagging them with a booster button, the proceeds from the sale of such buttons to be used as a special fund to take care of new industries offering to the city. In other words, the fund thus created is to be used as a working capital for this special purpose. The premium matter is in keeping with a promise made by the Board to reward the boys of the county who join in the campaign for more corn and better corn through the efforts of the corn club.

It has been some time since the Board of Trade held a good, live meeting, and it is about time the work was being started off again. The work was virtually suspended during the holidays, and during stock-taking time since then, but business people are through with their first of the year work now, and will have time to give to the public good.

Hon. W. C. Campbell has been indorsed by most of the county chairmen of this district as state executive committee member from this district. His appointment is almost sure to follow, and the selection will be a good one.

The farmers of this section should find it very profitable to patronize the local creamery. The creamery uses all the butter fat it can buy, and the experience of most people has been that there is more profit in selling the cream to the creameries than in making up the butter.

Hon. T. N. Jones, the tall, silent man from Smith, promises to come again in a few days with another political forecast that will cause many confusions to fade away. In reading after Jones, however, it is a good idea to keep in mind the fact that he is for Joe Bailey first and all the time.

Gentlemen of the Board of Trade, let's go after that Fruit Palace idea, with a view to getting the show going this summer. It can be made a great advertisement for Palestine and Anderson county and will be worth much more than the cost. That permanent fruit and timber show room is a good idea, with an annual festival in connection. Let's get right behind it and make it come through.

The personal liberty breathren of Houston held a big rally at Houston Tuesday night, and again declared amid much weeping and lamenting that the law had no right to prescribe to a man's appetite or prohibit it. The meeting was for the express purpose of indorsing Oscar B. Colquitt for governor, and this was done. Brethren Rienzi Johnston and Jake Wolters were the chief shouters, and they made good.

The Anti-Saloon League of Texas has indorsed the candidacy of the Hon. Cone Johnson for governor. There was nothing else to be done, as it is very clear on this beautiful March day that the Hon. Cone is the only prohibitionist in the field for the governorship. Beside being a prohibitionist, however, Mr. Johnson is a good democrat, a good citizen, and a strong man in every respect. Ask his friends at home about him. They know.

TWO CONVICTS ESCAPED

Life-Time Men Jump From Moving Train on State Road Near This City Last Night.

Last night, while two cars of state prisoners were being transferred from the state prison at Rusk to a point in South Texas, and were being brought to this city over the State Railroad to make connection with the I. & G. N., two life-term men jumped from the train while it was making some twenty or more miles per hour, and made their escape. At least they had not been recaptured up to the last reports this morning. The men who escaped are John Wilson and Peter Hall, negroes, who were serving life-term sentences. It seems the men were all chained together with one general connecting chain, and then around the neck in couples. In some way the two men who got away secured a file and filed the big chain, cutting themselves loose from the other prisoners, but still leaving them linked by the neck, one to the other. When the train was near Spring Park, and going at a good speed, one of the men broke the window next to him and crawled out, the other man following him. They hit the ground, and since then nothing has been seen or heard of them. Officers with dogs went from this city and tried to get on the trail, but did not succeed. There were one hundred and two convicts on the train, with a limited number of guards, and for this reason an effort could be made by those on the train to recapture the men.

Financial Agent Gus Barton of the prisons was on the train, and came on to this city.

HIS COUNTRY SWEETHEART

Will Be Presented By Newcomb and Williams at the Lyric Tonight.

The management says: Some very fine subjects in motion pictures were exhibited at the New Lyric Theatre last night. The one deserving of special mention was "The Child's Prayer," a pretty hand-colored Pathe film that told a story full of heart interest.

The juvenile vaudeville team of Cyril and Baby Lescale Arnold closed their engagement with a pretty comedy playlet that kept the large audience amused from the start.

Tonight Newcomb and Williams will appear in a comedy sketch, entitled, "His Country Sweetheart." This is said to be an act full of real, genuine, clean comedy that never fails to please. They have produced the act on some of the largest vaudeville circuits, and always "made good."

On tomorrow night they will produce a very laughable playlet, "The Villian and the Flower Girl," in which they will introduce some of the latest rag-time songs.

THE BROWNS PASSED THROUGH.

Large Crowd Gathered to Get Glimpse of the Players.

A large crowd assembled at the I. & G. N. passenger depot last evening to get a glimpse of the men who compose the ball team of the American League known as the St. Louis Browns. The Browns took supper at the Lindell Hotel, stopping here a half hour or more on their way to Houston, where they will spend several weeks getting in shape for the summer's work. "Rube" Waddell was along, as were also Powell and Howell, Bailey, Jack O'Connor and other celebrities.
