

THE DALLAS HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY. HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY. DALLAS, TEXAS, DECEMBER 3, 1896.

OFFICE OF THE DALLAS HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY. DALLAS, TEXAS, DECEMBER 3, 1896.

IN THE COUNTY COURT-HOUSE

Where the Body of William's Favorite Son is Visited by Reverent Thousands—The Procession on Hand—President Will Not Go.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—Unarmed soldiers kept up their lonely watch all last night in front of the residence of the late Vice-President Hendricks.

A STRONG PARADE FOR HIM.

By 8 o'clock there were a thousand persons present, mostly working people, and the crowd had increased to such proportions that it was found necessary for the police to keep a passageway for those who were called to the house.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

As THE HERALD ceases with this issue you are earnestly urged to send in all dues up to December 1, 1896, at the earliest possible moment, as the undersigned collect all subscriptions part due.

THE HERALD JOB OFFICE.

THE HERALD JOB OFFICE will be continued at the old stand, corner Main and Murphy streets, where all kinds of job work will be done in the neatest and promptest manner and at the usual low prices.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

All persons indebted to THE HERALD will please call promptly at the office and settle at the earliest moment. Parties having accounts against THE HERALD will please present the same for settlement.

MILLIONAIRES IN CONGRESS.

Members of the House with Piethorle Purcell and Pockets that Bulge. The richest man in the next House is William L. Scott. He is a Democrat from Erie, Pennsylvania.

THE DALLAS HERALD'S FARE WELL.

With this issue THE DALLAS HERALD ceases to exist. This is, in many respects, a sad sentence for us to write; it will be a sadder sentence for many to read.

TO THE HERALD CORRESPONDENTS.

Correspondents and agents of THE HERALD at the various points throughout this State, will cease sending further reports to the paper, and will confer a favor by sending in their accounts, etc., as rapidly as possible.

statement was visible through the crowd. In the evening of the 29th, the crowd, which was estimated at 50,000, gathered in front of the residence of the late Vice-President Hendricks.

THE DALLAS HERALD'S FARE WELL.

With this issue THE DALLAS HERALD ceases to exist. This is, in many respects, a sad sentence for us to write; it will be a sadder sentence for many to read.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

As THE HERALD ceases with this issue you are earnestly urged to send in all dues up to December 1, 1896, at the earliest possible moment, as the undersigned collect all subscriptions part due.

THE HERALD JOB OFFICE.

THE HERALD JOB OFFICE will be continued at the old stand, corner Main and Murphy streets, where all kinds of job work will be done in the neatest and promptest manner and at the usual low prices.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

All persons indebted to THE HERALD will please call promptly at the office and settle at the earliest moment. Parties having accounts against THE HERALD will please present the same for settlement.

MILLIONAIRES IN CONGRESS.

Members of the House with Piethorle Purcell and Pockets that Bulge. The richest man in the next House is William L. Scott. He is a Democrat from Erie, Pennsylvania.

THE DALLAS HERALD'S FARE WELL.

With this issue THE DALLAS HERALD ceases to exist. This is, in many respects, a sad sentence for us to write; it will be a sadder sentence for many to read.

TO THE HERALD CORRESPONDENTS.

Correspondents and agents of THE HERALD at the various points throughout this State, will cease sending further reports to the paper, and will confer a favor by sending in their accounts, etc., as rapidly as possible.

At 7 o'clock in the morning the building was closed, and the police had little difficulty in carrying out the arrangements.

THE DALLAS HERALD'S FARE WELL.

With this issue THE DALLAS HERALD ceases to exist. This is, in many respects, a sad sentence for us to write; it will be a sadder sentence for many to read.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

As THE HERALD ceases with this issue you are earnestly urged to send in all dues up to December 1, 1896, at the earliest possible moment, as the undersigned collect all subscriptions part due.

THE HERALD JOB OFFICE.

THE HERALD JOB OFFICE will be continued at the old stand, corner Main and Murphy streets, where all kinds of job work will be done in the neatest and promptest manner and at the usual low prices.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

All persons indebted to THE HERALD will please call promptly at the office and settle at the earliest moment. Parties having accounts against THE HERALD will please present the same for settlement.

MILLIONAIRES IN CONGRESS.

Members of the House with Piethorle Purcell and Pockets that Bulge. The richest man in the next House is William L. Scott. He is a Democrat from Erie, Pennsylvania.

THE DALLAS HERALD'S FARE WELL.

With this issue THE DALLAS HERALD ceases to exist. This is, in many respects, a sad sentence for us to write; it will be a sadder sentence for many to read.

TO THE HERALD CORRESPONDENTS.

Correspondents and agents of THE HERALD at the various points throughout this State, will cease sending further reports to the paper, and will confer a favor by sending in their accounts, etc., as rapidly as possible.

SALE EXTRAORDINARY! LADIES' AND MISSES' CLOAKS! New York manufacturers are unloading now. They are already getting ready for Spring Trade, and any cash they can get for the balance of Winter goods is accepted.

SALE EXTRAORDINARY!

LADIES' AND MISSES' CLOAKS! New York manufacturers are unloading now. They are already getting ready for Spring Trade, and any cash they can get for the balance of Winter goods is accepted.

$3.50 TO $5.00

Are the prices per cloak that we ask for choice of a lot of imported styles, ranging in sizes from 4 to 16 years. Four year size is $3.50 and each size larger 25c more, making the 16 year size $5. They are worth just double.

$2.50 TO $4.00

The next assorted lot are an excellent grade of American made goods in assorted styles at $2.50 for 4 years and advancing to $4 for 16 years. Our regular stock of all Misses' Cloaks have also been marked down.

LADIES' CLOAKS! In addition to the reduction already made in this line we have added for this week's bargains all our Fine Cloth Newmarkets.

Reduced from $20 to $16.50.

Our finest beaver Newmarkets, full tailor made, and neatly edged with Astrachan, a garment fully worth $22.50, and now reduced to $16.50.

Reduced from 22 to $17.50.

Black or Brown Berlin Twill Newmarkets, wide braid binding, entire front revers of Astrachan, Accordeon, Plait Back of Beaver, Astrachan surmounted by braid ornaments, a most uncommon and stylish wrap sold for $22, now $17.50.

Reduced from $25 to $20.

A very fine Imported Boucle, faced with satin and full tailor made, trimmed with handsome fouragee; also a Newmarket of a fine French Worsted Cord with soft woolen back, satin faced and satin sleeve linings, both of these garments, reduced from $25 to $20 each.

For other Bargains see the stock.

Our Shoe Department.

Our Shoe Department has been jealous of the rush other departments got on account of improvements and bargains and offerings and insists upon the following addition to its regular bargains list.

TWO SPECIAL OFFERINGS

Striped Jersey Flannels, best quality made, reduced from $1 to 75c a yard. Corsetry line of Fancy Plain Flannels reduced to 50c a yard.

SALE EXTRAORDINARY! LADIES' AND MISSES' CLOAKS!