

ITALIANS START GENERAL ATTACK

Rome, Italy, Oct. 22.—The Italian army is making a general attack along the whole line from Switzerland to the Adriatic. In the preceding five months of the Austro-Italian war, the efforts of the Italians have been directed at the penetration of Austrian territory and capture of strategic points for the purpose of securing Italy against the possibility of Austrian invasion. In the opinion of the Italian general staff, this has been accomplished, and the war is now entering its second phase.

It is estimated the Italians have taken 25,000 prisoners during the war and have put out of action 100,000 men in all Italian losses, including killed, wounded and prisoners, amounting to 45,000, according to official figures, which is the lowest percentage of any of the belligerent nations.

PEACE-VICTORY SEEN BY KAISER

Amsterdam, Holland, Oct. 22.—Emperor William's hopes for victory are expressed in a telegram sent by him in reply to congratulations by the prince of Bavaria on the occasion of the anniversary of the government.

The Kaiser's message follows: "Although it is painful to me, after my long reign of peace, to be obliged to take up arms in defence of the freedom and honor of the fatherland, I, with your majesty and all German princes, confidently trust that God, the Lord, will continue in support of a just cause, and grant us and our loyal allies, a victorious issue of the fight wretchedly begun against us."

GIVES PRAISE TO TURKEY, FIGHTING FOR ITS LIFE

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 22.—Praise for the bravery and self-sacrificing spirit of the Turkish fighting for the last vestige of their national life, was given Friday by Dr. James D. McNaughton, a missionary from Turkey, in an address before the national laymen's missionary convention.

"All Ottoman subjects at the outbreak of the war were called upon to contribute 25 percent of all movable possessions with the exception of household furniture, he said. From the farmers, 25 percent of their crops was demanded. Calling to the colors of all men of military age left thousands dead."

Chinese Mob Wrecks School Houses and Homes of Native Trustees To Save the Idols

Shanghai, China, Oct. 22.—Difficulties which have educational leaders in their battle against Chinese superstition, culminated in a riot at Peitai, caused by the conversion of a Buddhist monastery into a public school.

For several years the Shanghai school monastery had been used in part for religious purposes. In defiance to the superstition of the villagers, however, the school committee did not remove the idols of Kuanyin and other Buddhist deities from the monastery until such a step became necessary to make room for more pupils.

The monks were indignant and inspired a number of gangs to circulate the report that Buddha Kuanyin had been taken to the countrymen to be destroyed. The villagers, however, refused to believe the report and the school committee destroyed all the public school furniture and books. The mob then moved against Messrs. Tsi and Tsing, members of the public school committee, and destroyed their homes. All the shops and public buildings in the village closed, and the mob, which numbered about 100, but no further damage was done.

Senora Orozco Is Refused Bond Money to Buy Layette For Her Posthumous Heir

Senora Pascual Orozco will get none of the $100,000 bond money to purchase the layette for the posthumous heir of Gen. Orozco.

This was decided by federal Judge Thomas S. Maxey in the federal court Saturday morning. When Gen. Orozco was killed his bond of $100,000, which was posted for his appearance in federal court, was declared forfeited.

Senora Orozco, a refugee in El Paso, sought to become a mother, applied for her husband's bond to assist in meeting the expenses of her expected baby and to support the Orozco family.

Attorneys for Mrs. Orozco argued that Gen. Orozco had been killed before the opening of the federal term at which he was to appear and the bond had not been jumped. It was also contended that Orozco was arrested some months ago and released on Saturday, making it illegal.

All of these arguments, plus the personal appeal of approaching mother, were waived by the court and the bond declared forfeited. On Orozco's bond were Max Moye, Ike and Felix Amador, Bradford, Cruz and J. P. Thompson. Gen. Orozco, however, furnished a part of the money himself.

NICHOLAS II, EMPEROR OF RUSSIA

The shooting of Dan McGrew, a story of the great northwest, founded on the eternal triangle—a keen red-blooded story, full of intense interest, from cover to cover. El Paso Book Co., Mills Bldg. "It's Handy." dv.

NICHOLAS II, EMPEROR OF RUSSIA

Nicholas II, Emperor of Russia, was born at St. Petersburg on the 18th of June, 1868, the son of Alexander III, and of Dagmar, Princess of Denmark and sister of the Dowager Queen of England.

Nicholas received the thorough education of a Russian Grand Duke, and this necessarily included some training in military affairs and in soldierly qualities, but his personal tastes did not lead him to pursue studies in this direction. Instead, while sharing the interests of highly cultivated gentlemen, he has been recorded of him that he is never happier than when engaged in the refined pleasures of the family circle.

Nicholas succeeded his father as Emperor of Russia on the 1st of November, 1894. Later in the same month on the 28th, he was married to Princess Alix of Hesse, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, thus strengthening his connection with the English Royal family. Nicholas and George V, sons of Royal sisters of Denmark, are well known and friendly relations exist. Eighteen months after his accession to the throne the coronation of Nicholas II and his Empress was conducted in St. Petersburg with great pomp and ceremony.

On August 30, 1897, Nicholas granted an Imperial Warrant to Steinhilber and Sons.
