Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, blew up with a boom today, and the authorities turned back in their investigation to theories that provided a more logical motive for the double crime.

Stable Government Is Austria's Need Fourth Article—Can Austria Live? By James M. Cox, Ex-Governor of Ohio

Can Austria live? That is a vital question now. By this is meant, is she a logical national unit? There are those who believe that survival is impossible. Many Americans have expressed this opinion. How far they have gone into the question, I do not know. These hopeless observations, as printed, have not been accompanied by analysis. An investigation of these does not justify the sentence of death which has been pronounced.

Many believe that the welfare of Austrians would be promoted if she were annexed to Germany, but that is a wild, idle dream. Austria has almost twice as many inhabitants as Switzerland. She is larger in area than Belgium, Holland or Switzerland. In fact, her territory exceeds that of Holland and Belgium combined. She has no credit. Her financial affairs are a nightmare. She is not properly organized for the collection of taxes. Deficits are met with a daily output of the printing press, which grinds out millions and millions of kronen.

The fundamental thing that is lacking is an established and recognized authority. The members of government a month ago had no hope of a continued tenure beyond the hour. They all realized that anything was likely to happen.

The government of Austria owns the railroads and nothing is in worse shape than the facilities of transportation. At the outbreak of the war, the army was recruited in part from the employees of the railroads. The vacancies were filled at first with men not physically able to go to war, and later women were employed. When peace was de-

POLITICAL WEATHER VANES FIND IT DIFFICULT TO REFLECT COURSE OF REPUBLICAN WIND IN NEW MEX.

By W. V. BARKER
SANTA FE, N. M., Oct. 12.—Political weather vanes reflecting the course of the Republican wind are having a difficult time.

In fact, the poor things are confused with the problem of trying to point straight down and register no definite action in any direction. This has been brought about through a series of blunders. Some say these blunders over a period of six years, others more charitably inclined, assert the last two years fiddled attempts at government are the ones which have cost the Republicans their prestige in New Mexico.

Couldn't Avoid Pitfalls
Regardless of the cause, the fact remains that the Republican campaign is getting nowhere the main party consisting of the senatorial and congressional candidates and lesser lights on the ticket, was compelled to drop the gubernatorial candidacy after the first few days. It seems that political pitfalls were the only thing the candidate for governor could not avoid. Now he has a party of his own and in losing New Mexico he is giving his detractors great ammunition. It is being pointed out that the Republican gubernatorial candidate, James P. Hinkle, the Democratic candidate, is telling New Mexico that he would do to reduce taxes, eliminate waste and extravagance and run the state on a business basis. The senatorial contest, however, after two months in the state conditions, the state treasury of any of the needs of New Mexico is making an impression on the voters. This impression is given by the Republican leaders most com-

MAY TAKE U. S. RULING TO TRIBUNAL OF HAGUE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Issuance by Federal Judge Hand in New York of a temporary order restraining prohibition and customs agents from enforcing the liquor ban against vessels of the American line was accepted today in government circles as effectively bringing before the courts the question of the authority of the government in this respect.

A failure of counsel for the British-owned Cunard and Anchor lines to obtain a similar order was expected to lead to a renewal of their petition either in New York or some other federal district with a more detailed showing of the damages which they allege would result from operation of Attorney General Daugherty's interpretation of the liquor laws.

Proclamation of regulations by Secretary Mellon to carry out the terms of the liquor ruling was expected to be automatically postponed by the effect of Judge Hand's action. The initial draft of these regulations was said to have indicated that several material changes were in his opinion desirable before they could be officially approved and distributed to enforcement agents.

Plan Stern Measures
An important phase of enforcement still under discussion was whether foreign vessels suspected of violation of the "transportation section" of the Volstead Act would be amenable to the punitive penalty imposed by that section. Attorney General Daugherty had previously held that such cases the ship, whether a patrol boat or a coastal tramp, would be liable to seizure and sale by the government. Secretary Mellon, however, indicated that such drastic measures would not be required of foreign vessels. The regulations of the Volstead Act would be amended to the effect that the penalty imposed by that section would be applied to foreign vessels only if they were found to be engaged in the transportation of liquor.

CINDERELLA SALLY

by ZOE BECKLEY

Are you a nation of slaves? Suppose your son, or some brother, should take your money and run away with it? What would you do? What would you do? Sally Dawson was a kitchen maid in a home of the newly rich.

Her search against odds and adversity, the manner in which she triumphantly takes arms against a sea of social enemies is told in this thrilling serial, "Cinderella Sally."

There was no magic wand in the story of this modern Cinderella. No fairy godmother either the pit and courage which springs from untried springs.

Her story is told by ZOE BECKLEY author of "Whom Shall Molly Marry?" "Dolly and Paul" and "Daisy" "Daisy the Skipper" etc. This story will be in the next installments in the "In the Daily News"

First installment, Sunday, October 15, second installment, Monday, Oct. 16, 1922.

J. FRANK POTTS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT PANHANDLE FARM LOAN SECRETARY-TREASURER

J. Frank Potts, of Harlingen, was re-elected president of the Panhandle Farm Loan Bank at the business session of the organization Thursday afternoon.

W. F. Bishel, of Silverton, expressed his pleasure in being present and emphasized the value of such meetings.

J. R. Brown, of Nittsburg, praised the organization and gave some of his experiences.

Justice Lawrence Ashley, of Dalhart, related the story of saving a man's farm through heavy action in getting a loan.

A. P. Stone of Barwell, made a witty talk, getting off many original "clips" at Mr. Sneyd. He also fearlessly said he would offer some advice to the bank officials from Harlingen which he did not have should be available on less than that which is deflected in the law.

The meeting came to a close with short talks by John E. Van DeMark, secretary of the Farm Loan Bank at Houston and M. H. Gossett, president of the bank. These two men praised the Panhandle officials for their work.

W. J. Fisher, of Canyon, told some stories of loans made in Randall County.

Daily Advertising Gets Results

Advertisers that put their message before readers of the Daily News every day are the ones that get the results. Many advertisers have been slow to realize this. They do not employ their "clips" for big days only, nor do they depend upon their services when it rains, or in unusually hot weather.

A merchant or manufacturer or advertiser should be advertising on the same basis that he employs his salesmen. Develop advertising for every day in the week, and annual advertising will come automatically on unusual days.
