TROLLEY LINE PROPOSITION LIKE A SACK OF SALT

FROM PROMINENT HOUSTON CAPITALIST TO BRYAN

ANSWER REQUIRED IN TEN DAYS

Mr. Edward Kennedy's Representative Meets Members of the Trolley Line Committee Yesterday—Now Is the Time to Act.

Mr. Joseph Fain of Houston was in the city yesterday representing Mr. Edward Kennedy, a well known capitalist and promoter backed by ample capital in the field for the promotion of railways and trolley lines, and laid before members of the Bryan-College trolley line committee, at a meeting held at the offices of Doremus & Butler, with Chairman J. W. Doremus presiding, a proposition to finance and construct the proposed trolley line between Bryan and College. The proposition comes from an experienced promoter who is ready and willing to build the road, and the terms, as outlined to the Eagle reporter, are given below.

According to the consensus of opinion of members of the committee who were present the proposition is within the financial reach of the citizens of Bryan, and there should be no halting or delay in complying with its terms. The contract submitted to the citizens of Bryan is that there shall be donated free of all cost all right-of-way and terminal grounds necessary for the operation of said line. The estimated cost of building and equipping the road is placed at $75,000.00; the people of Bryan to take $25,000.00 in stock and the promoter to take $50,000.00 in stock, same to be paid in cash, each party receiving therefor an equivalent in stock at par value.

The promoter agrees to begin grading in ninety days from date of contract, and to complete and have the road in operation in first-class condition one year from the date of completion of the grade.

The proposition must be accepted or rejected in ten days from this date. Should the proposition be accepted the promoter agrees to have an engineer on the ground within one week from the date of the acceptance of the proposition. Mr. Kennedy, the gentleman making the proposition, is vice president of the National City Bank of Houston, capital $250,000.00, and has had large experience in the promotion and construction of railroads and trolley lines, among these the Beaumont Sour Lake Western and the Houston, Sabine & Red River roads. He comes highly recommended by leading bankers and business men of Houston among whom are F. A. Reichardt and E. W. Hutchinson, who are well known to the people of Bryan.

As the Eagle sees it Bryan is not likely to secure a trolley line any earlier, easier or on more favorable terms than those herein set forth, and we would like to see the bargain clinched and the work begin, after all proper safe guarding formalities have been arranged. The Eagle learns that Mr. Kennedy regards Bryan as splendidly located for material growth and development and that he is willing to prove his faith by a handsome investment. Gentlemen of Bryan, what are you going to do about it?

Mr. Fain, who accompanied Major W. R. Cavitt up from Houston yesterday, drove over proposed routes for the trolley line with Major Cavitt yesterday afternoon.

Senator Tillman Addresses Senate on Mrs. Morris Matter.

TOLD OF THE SKIRT.

Said Not Only Was There Holes In That Garment, but Also In Some Other Articles of Wearing Apparel.

Washington, June 29.—Senator Tillman interrupted the regular business of the senate Thursday to speak on his resolution calling for an investigation into the ejection of Mrs. Minor Morris from the white house last January. He complained that his resolution had been pushed aside constantly for one reason or another. He spoke of Mrs. Morris as an elderly lady, and referring to his former discussion of the case said he had been charged with going too far in characterizing her ejection from the white house as "brutal and cruel."

He recalled that on that occasion he had been charged by another senator with an effort to vent his personal feelings against the present chief executive. He had not then been able to supply the proof. Since then he had been held up to scorn for having presumed to express his honest feelings, and he never would have again approached the subject, "but for the fact that the name of the man, Assistant Secretary Barnes, must be held responsible for the act, has been sent to the senate for the postmastership of Washington. This nomination is considered equal to throwing the matter in the teeth of the senate, although the senate had not shown its teeth on the subject. He then detailed his efforts to have the nomination of Mr. Barnes rejected, reading his letter to Senator Carter, chairman of the subcommittee having the nomination in charge, and much other bearing on the subject. He told, also, of his ineffectual efforts to secure an investigation of his charge against Barnes, and then said that in order to justify his bringing the matter into the open senate he had drawn his resolution so as to provide for an investigation of the action of the police in ejecting Mrs. Morris from the white house.

In order that he might not be accused of unfairness, Mr. Tillman had read Mr. Barnes' defense of his conduct in the Morris case.

He also read the statements of Elmer E. Payne, who was, he said, one of the six newspaper men at the executive offices when the Morris incident occurred.

He commented at some length upon Mr. Payne's statement, saying he was the only one of those six men who had ever had anything to do about the matter outside of their own papers or private conversations. This he spoke of as "remarkable," and then quoted extracts from Mr. Payne's statement. His statement was referred to as "in substantiation" of the statement.

In contrast to that statement, he presented what he declared to be the actual facts in the case. These were included in a statement from James H. Price, a newspaper man who had witnessed the occurrence. In Mr. Payne's statement it was said that Mrs. Morris was treated as considerably as possible, while Mr. Price said she was "carried off like a sack of salt."

Mr. Tillman also discussed the difference of their testimony as to whether Mrs. Morris had been dragged, and as going to prove beyond all possibility of dispute, he said, Mrs. Morris had furnished him with the black stile skirt she wore on the occasion. This was torn in many places, while there was a round hole at one of the knees, showing that she unquestionably had been dragged. Not only was there a hole in the skirt, but there were also holes in the underclothing and in the livery—proof sufficient to prove any man "an arrant liar who spoke to the contrary," said the senator.

He quoted one witness as expressing an opinion that Mrs. Morris was demoralized and characterized as a "queer proposition" that any woman, under like circumstances, should be pronounced insane.

"She was hysterical! What woman would not have been so under the treatment she received?"
Sweeping of the police at the white house, Mr. Tillman said they are such tendency toward imperialism as would justify the use of the military for that purpose. If the public wanted to go to the devil along the lines of imperialism he could stand it.

Servants Suspected.

London, June 29.—The Times' St. Petersburg correspondent learns that the court is about to return to Tsarsko-Selo owing to the discovery that there are revolutionaries among the palace servants at Peterhof.

Refused to Fire on Strikers.

Moscow, June 29.—A special dispatch to the Russky Slovo says that two regiments at Yvolizabopol have refused to fire on strikers.

About Ended.

Washington, June 29.—Guatemalan trouble is said to be about at an end.
