On Texas Day.

When the Texas orators began to soar o'er the vast prairies, shell out the raw resources and dig up worlds of coal and iron, the Atlantes men hunched each other in the ribs with their elbows and whispered with bated breath: "I told you not to let 'em come here!"—Galveston News.

The Mexia Ledger and Mail, both dailies, have consolidated. S. S. Bruce bought out his partner, Murray Schick's interest in the mail, and immediately joined hands with H. S. Swenson, of the Ledger. Schick has designs upon Calvert, which place is boiling over for a daily.—Temple Tribune than fear to the face of a little child." It is a noble sentiment. Another has said: "Whoever picks a splinter from the finger of a child, is greater than he who conquers an empire." In the holidays which are approaching, do all you can to make the children happy, and above all seek not to dispel the happy illusion of the reindeer and sleigh, the tinkling bells and the fur-dressed old Santa.

Congressman Bailey's new bill to pension no man having an income of $600 per annum, and as much as $5000 worth of property, is a good one, and one which will never pass.

REV. WIMBERLY

Again Received Into the Methodist Church.

Brenham, Tex., Dec. 18.—Rev. E. P. Newsome, the new preacher in charge of the Methodist Episcopal church here, had a novel experience Sunday, that of receiving into the church the preacher that the conference preceding the one one that had sent him here, had sent him to this work, Rev. W. Wimberly. The recent conference it will be remembered, expelled Mr. Wimberly from the church and the ministry, and at this, the first service after the conference, he reunited with the church, taking all its solemn obligations, and starts anew, at the bottom, with the laudable purpose of again climbing Jacob's ladder.

Parson Wimberly was going into the preaching business on his own hook at Brenham. He said: "I would be untrue to the voice of God if I should cease to proclaim the truth as I have in the past." Regarding his expulsion from the church and the ministry, he said: "While the result of the recent trial was disappointing and unutterably sad to me, I am not discouraged. I still declare my innocence, and shall while life lasts." We are glad to note the dear and nery brother is still hopeful, even if he did get knocked out. Men are so accustomed to being whitewashed, and admitted with old-time freedom in social circles, after almost any sort of an escapade, that it must seem strange to one when he receives the kicks and cuffs which are usually reserved for female transgressors. When Wimberly went out to see what Parkhurst saw and feel what Parkhurst felt, he ought to have paid the hack driver.

From Kurten.

Kurten, Tex., Dec. 16, 1895. Editor Eagle: I will give you the news from this section as near as I can. We have enjoyed some fine weather the past week.

Some of our farmers are just "winding up" the top crop of cotton, which is of but little value. A few of our most industrious farmers have commenced plowing and are already calculating on a good harvest the coming year.

Mr. G. W. Backholts soon will have completed a nice residence in the thriving little town of Kurten, for Dr. Barlow. We are listening for a wedding next.

Rev. Beele delivered a very interesting sermon at Cottonwood church last Sunday. Several young people from Wixon neighborhood were present.

Rev. James Denton, the Primitive Baptist divine, will deliver a sermon on the third Sunday, and Saturday before at Ebenezer.

Mr. J. D. Barrett, one of Brazos county's old residents, left Tuesday for Limestone, where he will make his home in the future.

The health of this community is very good at this writing.

Candy drawings and play-parties are deeply interesting to the minds of the young people. They are once-a-week happenings.

I am getting along capitally with my school, having had to use the persudator but once this week. All of my pupils are advancing in their studies very well up to the present and are manifesting great interest in what they are about in school hours as well as at playtime. BACONON.

Barthold-Smythe.

Mr. Paul E. Barthold of Weatherford, Parker county, and Miss Augusta Smythe of Bryan, were quietly married at the bride's home in this city this morning at 10 o'clock by Dr. W. C. Friley. After the ceremony luncheon was enjoyed, and at 12:00 the happy couple left for the groom's home. The wedding, while anticipated some time ago, was quite a surprise to the people of Bryan generally. The bride is well known here, and was one of the prettiest of Bryan girls. The groom's family is a prominent one at Weatherford, and he himself is at present engaged in the cattle business.

New Year reception announcements and calling cards neatly printed at the Eagle office.

SHOT HIS ARM OFF.

Charley Sawyer's Painful Accident.

Charley Sawyer, a lad about 15 years old, who lives with his widowed mother, Mrs. Gus Sawyer, in the Steeple Hollow neighborhood, shot his right arm off between the wrist and elbow late Saturday evening, both bones the forearm being shattered, the wrist passing through the flesh. He has been out with the gun, and returned home, had entered the house, and started to set the weapon down, when the accident occurred. We were informed of the unfortunate occurrence by Mr. W. N. Crenshaw, of that community, who was in town today.

STRUCK BY THE TRAIN.

A Young Man at Millican Seriously Hurt.

S. C. Williams, son of the late D. Jeff D. Williams, attempted to cross the track at Millican yesterday ahead of the south bound passenger train, and was struck by the cow-catcher and seriously injured. His head was badly cut and bruised, and his skull thought to be fractured.

HELPING TEACHERS.

The teachers of the school desire to express their thanks to those patrons who have constantly manifested such interest in their children by inquiry after them, and learning from their teachers what can be done to advance the pupils work. We are in mind of some cases where parents have, without any great amount of trouble to themselves, spoken a word now and then to the teacher regarding their children—learned what their boys most needed, and in due course of time those little "hindrances" to progress were removed and the children moved to the front. It is true the teacher should seek the parent when he discovers that a conference with the latter is necessary, but frequently the parents see the cause of failure in the pupil as soon as the teacher does and should therefore confer with the teacher and assist him to correct the error. If the teacher tells you that your child is well up in his studies and is gentlemanly or lady-like in deportment, take it as a fact, for if your child were not so you would be the first person whom the teacher would wish to know the unpleasant state of affairs. Tell your child that his teacher speaks well of him, and, without fear of results, compliment him. He needs it and deserves it. If, on the other hand the teacher tells you that your child is deficient in this or the other, remember that the teacher is doing his duty by so informing you. By the way, how many moments have you sat in the school room and watched the teacher at work with the only thing you have on this earth, trying to mould its little life for the future? Not a moment? Haven't been inside of the school room since you were a student? Well, that's strange. Why don't you go to the school room and spend a half day, and you won't regret it. Don't make any ado about it, but just take that much time off and see what is going on in at least your child's room. Don't forget that your visit to the school room will be appreciated by the teacher as well as by the children.

The Seniors have just finished choice in algebra and now propose to fathom the intricacies of the binomial theorem. Milton's poetry and prose, and Samuel Butler's Hudibras were the subjects for the English literature class the past ten days.

Miss Jessie Johnson is teaching in Mrs. Minter's room during the latter's sickness.

The schools will close on Friday the 20th inst., and will open on Monday, January 6th.

It is with pleasure that we refer to the course of one of our old students, Mr. Maurice Kypinski, who is a junior in the Rose Polytechnic Institute, at Terre Haute, Ind. In the current number of the Technic, a very creditable journal gotten up by the young men of that institution, Maurice has an article, entitled, "An Artificial Niagara." The illustration are all his own work, and the whole is a very good description of the great dam at Auslin. Maurice made photographs to illustrate his article while he was on his vacation tour last summer.

J. R. Davis, John Gibbons, Jeff Gibbons, G. I. Hammond, W. C. Lamb and N. Kilpatrick were over from Iola, Grimes county, today, buying goods. Mr. John Gibbons was accompanied by his family, and on his way to Milam county, where he will reside in future.

PRESERVE ITS JOYS.

The legend of Santa Claus is one of the most beautiful stories that ever delighted the ears of childhood; for many happy seasons it is believed implicitly with that simple faith which knows no doubts or fears, and at length, when the illusory veil is drawn aside, and the impersonated Santa Claus stands revealed in parental form, there is still a memory sweet that clings even in the years of maturity. The mystery of the merry and generous Kris Kringle is half the joy of the holidays. Joyful expectation takes perfect possession of little hearts, and the ecstasy with which they dig into well filled stockings, and peer into the branches of the Christmas tree, is a greater and more pleasurable emotion than stirs the heart of the adventurer who first finds a nugget of gold. When we consider how very little it takes to make a child happy, it is a great wonder that we do not "scatter rays of sunshine all along their way." Some one has said, "I had rather bring anger to the eyes of a king

Fitzsimmons and Maher.

Dan Stewart has at last succeeded in matching Fitzsimmons and Peter Maher for a fair, stand-up battle with five ounce gloves, under Marquis of Queensbury rules, to decide the heavy weight championship of the world, for a purse of $10,000 and the Police Gazette belt. The place selected for the fight will be announced on the 13th of February—the day before the fight. It will be convenient to El Paso but not on Texas soil. Fitzsimmons and party will go into training shortly in the vicinity of El Paso. Fitz says he has a "cinch," yet it will be remembered by those interested in this kind of sport, that the Irishman came near being winner at a previous meeting, and it will not be a surprise to see the big money placed on Maher with odds offered.

The feminine vanity of the Bryan town cow is apparent in the fact that she loves to make her bed on the sidewalk in front of the plate glass show windows, before which she can arise early in the morning and make her toilet.
