"THIS DATE IN HISTORY."

June 23.

1757—Battle at Plassey, which laid the foundation of the British empire in India.

1789—In a skirmish at Springfield, N. J., the British were defeated by the Americans under General Green.

1854—The Sioux Indian war began.

1863—The Confederates entered Chambersburg, Pa., and compelled the Union troops to fall back.

1886—Members of the Orleans and Bonaparte families expelled from France.

1892—Democratic convention at Chicago nominated Grover Cleveland for President.

1897—Great naval review at Portsmouth, England, in celebration of Queen's Jubilee.

1905—The United States severed diplomatic relations with Venezuela.

Material progress gained at the expense of spiritual decadence is dearly bought.

The country life commission might inquire why there are more flies in the average farm house than in the average house in town.

Why do the American people permit their government to spend $1,000,000 a day for the army and navy when there is no prospect of war? Simply because they don't realize that it is true.

A news item says the demand for lumber in the country towns and on

Spray Your Shrubs Now

Spray them with Tarsol!

I part in 500 of water if you want to make a good job of it. It is very essential for the welfare of your Houses, Plants, Shrubs and Trees that you spray them this month or they are liable to become the swarming place of destructive insects. Tarsol is a harmless and positive death to insects.

HIT BY LIGHTNING, LIVES.

Negro's Dog Killed and His Gun Torn From His Hand.

Special to the Eagle.
Hempstead, Tex., June 23.—Yesterday during a heavy local rain and electrical display, a negro man, Henry McKinney, was struck by lightning. He is in a very critical condition, but chances for a recovery are bright. What seems very strange about the incident was that McKinney had a shotgun which was torn from his hands and literally torn into pieces; also his dog which followed him, was killed and he is still alive with good chances for recovery.

Tragic Tale of a Tragedian.

"The awfulest and the funniest stage wait I ever lived through," said a sprightly English actress, "was when a certain well known London actor manager, whose name I dare not divulge, was doing a tremendous scene on a darkened stage. He had the audience spellbound with his sonorous declamation, which, of course, they didn't know depended largely upon his ample mouthful of false teeth. At the very climax of his blood-curdling maledictions, the entire dental collection dropped out suddenly in the excitement of the moment and bounded into some obscure hiding place. The tragedian's mighty voice died down to an unintelligible mumble as he groped about frantically in search of the missing masticators. We were all too helpless from laughter to be of much help in this critical situation. At last, after what seemed like half an hour of the most hysterical suspense, the stage manager located the teeth with the aid of a dark lantern and restored them to the frantic star, who clapped them into his mouth and began cursing again with redoubled earnestness. I never knew what the audience thought, and no one ever dared to ask the actor manager."—New York World.

Quicksilver.

The ore from which quicksilver is obtained is a brilliant red rock known as cinnabar. When of high purity it is actually vermilion in color. Cinnabar is the original source of the pigment known commercially as vermilion. It is a compound of sulphur and quicksilver, and in order to separate the latter from the sulphur the rock is roasted. Passing off in the form of a gas, the mercury is afterward condensed and flows out in a fine stream, like a continuous pencil of molten silver. Like gold and silver, mercury is occasionally found in a native or pure state. Sometimes the miner's pick penetrates a cavity that contains a cupful or more of the elusive and beautiful fluid. Miners suffer much from the poisonous effects of the quicksilver fumes. Extreme cleanliness is the best safeguard for workers in this dangerous occupation. Use is also made of a sort of lemonade which serves to a certain extent as an antidote, a strong acid taking the place of lemon juice in the composition of the drink.

Must Keep the Curtains Up.

"In London it is strictly against the law for the driver of any public conveyance to allow the curtains of his vehicle to be pulled down," said a man who has visited the English metropolis. "By day or night the windows of cabs, hansoms, carriages, or what not, whether drawn by horses or propelled by electric power, must be so open to public inspection as to allow a plain view of those occupying the interior. A closed rig wouldn't get a block before a London bobby would nab its driver and hale him to a magistrate's office, where he would get no mercy. The law is based on the theory that closed vehicles lend themselves easily to the commission of robbery or murder and that they may also assist a criminal to make his escape."—Baltimore American.

The Gorgons.

The Gorgons were creatures of Greek mythology, mentioned by Homer and Euripides as being of peculiarly abhorrent aspect. Their hair was composed of serpents, their bodies covered with scales and girdled with reptiles with heads erect, vibrating their tongues threateningly, while the hands of the Gorgons, adorned with sharp talons, were of brass. The gaze of the monsters was deadly, all upon whom they fixed their eyes being turned to stone. One of the three terrible sisters was conquered and beheaded by Perseus, and as he took flight in the air en route for Ethiopia, holding the severed head in his hands, the drops of blood which fell from it became serpents, which ever after infested the sands of Libya. —New York Telegram.

Avoided the Conventional.

"It is a wonderful story," says the publisher to the new author, whose manuscript has just been accepted, "but you have failed in one important feature. You do not describe the way the heroine was dressed when the hero first met her. You'd better write in a paragraph about her clothes, but try to avoid the conventional."
The ingenious author, knowing the sameness of costume descriptions in the best sellers and also knowing how to make an appeal to the feminine heart, wrote:

"Heloise floated toward him garbed in a $600 dress, a $250 hat, with a $98.75 mantilla over a $375 lace coat."

You and Your Family

Cannot drink a more delicious or a more wholesome, pure and beneficial beverage than

Coca-Cola

Let us repeat these words—delicious, wholesome, pure and beneficial. Do you like a nice cup of coffee for breakfast? It helps the day out, doesn't it? Coca-Cola between meals is just as delicious and beneficial and not a particle more harmful than the coffee, tea, milk or cocoa you drink every day of your life.
