TO HONOR POLISH HERO

STATUE OF KOSCIUSZKO TO BE ERECTED IN WASHINGTON.

Memorial to Patriot Presented to America by Fellow-Countrymen —Popiel's Model Accepted by Committee.

Washington.—Two years ago the Polish National Alliance of the United States conceived the idea of presenting to the American people a monument to Gen. Tadeusz Kosciuszko, to be erected at Washington in Lafayette square, where the monuments of Lafayette and Rochambeau are standing and where a monument to Baron von Steuben will be raised in the near future. The plan was to have the memory of all the most prominent officers who fought for the independence of the United States thus honored by monuments in the capital of the nation.

The government having appropriated $5,000 for a monument to Gen.

Statue to Be Erected to Thaddeus Kosciuszko.

Pulaski, who fought for the liberty of this country and who fell in the battle of Savannah in 1779, the Polish National alliance felt it to be the duty of Polish-Americans to reciprocate by presenting a monument of the other Polish patriot who lent his sword to the cause of liberty of America.

LIFE STORY ON AN EPITAPH.

Odd Monument Over Grave of Veteran of Indian Fight.

The longest epitaph in Arlington National cemetery at Washington is that carved on the strangely shaped monument of Captain John Williams, of the marine corps, who died of wounds received in an Indian fight in Florida in 1812. The inscription follows:

"Here lies the remains of John Williams, Esq., late a captain in the Corps of U. S. Marines. Was born in Stafford county, Virginia, the 24th of August, 1765, and died on the 29th of September, 1812, at Camp New Hope, in East Florida. The body of deceased was removed to this spot, over which his brother officers in the marine corps have caused this pile to be erected in testimony of his worth and in their mournful admiration of his gallant end.

"On the 11th of September, 1812, Captain Williams, on his march with a command of 20 men to Davis creek block house, in east Florida, was attacked towards evening by upwards of 50 Indians and negroes, who lay concealed in the woods. He instantly gave battle, gallantly supported by his men, who, inspired by his animated example, fought as long as they had a cartridge left. At length, bleeding under eight galling wounds and unable to stand, he was carried off the battleground, whilst his heroic little band, pressed by superior numbers, was forced to retreat.

"Eminently characterized by cool intrepidity, Captain Williams evinced during his short but severe contest and the president, and the fund having been started by means of a special assessment from every member of the alliance, a contest was announced in the Polish papers in Europe and America for a model which would satisfy the government's commission in Washington. In the middle of December, 1906, models began to arrive and finally there was opened in the Corcoran gallery in Washington an impressive exhibition of 20 models, all works of Polish artists. The Washington newspapers spoke of this exhibition as of a very instructive one as to the spirit of foreign art toward America.

The government committee, which consisted of Secretary Taft, Senator Wetmore, of Rhode Island, and Representative McCleary, of Minnesota, invited a jury of three prominent American sculptors, Messrs. Lorado Taft, of Chicago, and Daniel Chester French and Henry M. Schrady, of New York, to choose the three best models, there being three premiums of $1,000, $500 and $400, respectively. The first premium was accorded by the committee to the model sent by Antoni Popiel, of Lwow, Lemberg, Austrian Poland.

President Roosevelt at a special invitation from the Polish alliance visited the exhibition and expressed his opinion that the model of Mr. Popiel is the most acceptable.

The model represents Kosciuszko as a hero of both hemispheres, as he is usually called by the Poles. At the front of the pedestal is a hemisphere showing the map of America with the American eagle guarding its liberty. In the rear the other hemisphere, bearing the outline of Europe and Asia, is being strangled by a snake representing despotism, which the Polish eagle is trying to kill with his beak and talons. To the right, a Polish regular soldier wounded and falling, is protected by a Polish farmer with his scythe; to the left, an American soldier is cutting the ties of the American farmer, thus liberating him from the foreign yoke. Above stands Kosciuszko with a map in one hand, the other reposing on his sword.

those military prerequisites which qualify the officer for command, and if his sphere of action was too limited to attract the admiration of the world, it was sufficiently expanded to crown him with the approbation of his country and to afford his brethren in arms an example as highly useful as his exit has sealed with honor the life of a patriot soldier."

Captain Williams' monument is an elongated pyramid with two long and two short sides. The inscription, which is in script lettering, covers all four sides of the stone. The stone, though it appears large in the picture, is barely a foot high. It may be of sandstone, but to one unskilled in such matters, it appears to be of molded cement.

INVESTIGATION ENDS.

SIX WEEKS OF ORATORY AND EVIDENCE CLOSED.

COCKE MAKES BIG PROTEST.

Does Not Want Investigation to End Without the Testimony, and Some Other Members So Vote.

Austin, Tex.: After four weeks of taking testimony, following two weeks of fervid oratory, first in the houses of the Legislature and then in the meetings of the investigating committees, the investigation of United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey came to an end at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. Of the house committee only Messrs. McGregor and Jenkins voted against closing the investigation. They insisted upon sending the sub-committee abroad to get the testimony of H. Clay Pierce. The senate committee tied upon the proposition, only six members being present. Senators Skinner, Senter and Green voted against closing the investigation without an effort to get Pierce's testimony. Senator Green's right to vote, he being the chairman of the senate committee, was contested by Senators Looney, Brachfield and Stone, but Senator Green insisted that the fact of his being chairman did not deprive him of his right to vote, and he held the committee tied. Therefore a decision in the matter was postponed until Saturday, but it seems improbable that the result will be other than the determination reached by the house committee. At Saturday's session the committee will also attempt to investigate the responsibility for having a requisition sent to the Governor of Missouri for H. Clay Pierce. Mr. Jenkins insisted upon this, declaring that no member of the committee would acknowledge that he was responsible for it. The committee will also decide what they will do about letting Mr. Cocke's protest against closing the investigation go in the record, and then it will map out a program for making up the record and report of the committee.

The transcript of the testimony is nearly completed. It will make not less than 750,000 words, enough to fill nearly 2,000 pages in the legislative journal. It is questionable whether this record can be printed in time for use in connection with action upon the report of the committee. It is understood that the report will be expurgated of the speeches made during the investigation, and there may be some exclusion of unimportant testimony, by agreement, but some members of the committee, as least, will object to material reduction of the record.

Some of the members of the committee think at least a week will elapse before they can present their report to the two houses. In just what form this report will be can not be foretold. It is said that some of the members of the committee are averse to making any recommendations, but think it will be sufficient for them to report the testimony and their finding of facts.

HEARING POSTPONED.

Dallas, Tex.: The hearing upon the injunction order issued by Judge Edward R. Meek, in the proceedings instituted in the United States court at Dallas by the Pullman company against the railroad commission and all Texas railroads to prevent the enforcement of an order reducing sleeping car fares to $1.00, has been postponed until March 4.

The order temporarily restraining the commission from putting into effect the order for a reduction was made returnable on February 20, but since the hearing has been postponed this temporary injunction has been continued in force until the time the case comes up on March 4.

Paradise Child Burned to Death.

Paradise, Tex.: A little son of Charles Baker died here Monday afternoon from burns received earlier in the day. Two children were striking matches in a cotton seed house and set fire to some cotton. The flames caught the smaller boy's clothes and before they could be extinguished the little fellow was fatally burned.

Child Burned with Powder.

Hearne, Tex.: Dr. W. H. Kirksey was called to Mr. A. J. Parnell's residence Wednesday to attend Dennis, Mr. Parnell's little son, who was painfully burned by some powder which had been ignited. The children were playing with the powder when the accident occurred.

Lampasas, Tex.: The spell of dry weather in this county is beginning to assume proportions of a drought, a good rain not having fallen during the past three months. While nothing is yet suffering, a good rain is needed both for stock water and to put a season in the ground for planting.
