A FEW STATISTICS

During the course of a talk given by the State Probation Officer before the student body and faculty of the Utah Agricultural College, recently, the gentleman said that there were 1,015 cases of delinquency in the State of Utah in the year 1911. Many of these cases were children who had come from what were supposed to be respectable homes, at least they were the children of parents who are held in esteem among the better class of citizens. The children apparently had been amply provided for as regards food, clothing, etc.; they had good beds upon which to sleep, and were looked after as well as the average boy or girl, and yet they had so persistently violated the law that it was found necessary to take them before the Juvenile Court and either administer to them a rebuke or in some cases it was found necessary to put them upon probation.

There were others of the children and in fact the great majority were children from homes where there was only one parent, or in other cases where the parents had been divorced and the home environment was largely responsible for the child's condition; but the big thing apparently, and the thing which the probation officer emphasized most was that almost invariably each one of these boys who came before the court was addicted to the use of tobacco in some form.

The gentleman stated that in the year 1911 there were manufactured in the U. S. alone ten billion cigarettes. This in a population of ninety million people gave one hundred cigarettes per capita. In addition to this there were used four pounds of smoking tobacco per capita for the entire citizenship of the nation. And this regardless of the number of women and children who go to make this ninety million. With the women and children eliminated it is apparent that the number of male users of tobacco will be greatly increased.

This is a matter which should command the attention of every parent and is one that may well be observed here in Logan. The fact of the matter is there are too many men, particularly young boys who are smoking cigarettes upon the public streets of this city. There is in the State of Utah a law which makes it a misdemeanor for a minor to have tobacco in his possession, or for an adult to sell, give, or in any way convey tobacco to him. Some one is violating this law, and that someone, or those "someones," as the case may be should be found and be made to account for the same.

No boys or no man for that matter, can rise to his best possibilities, who is addicted to the use of tobacco. Recognizing this fact, the great Santa Fe Railway system has issued orders forbidding any of its employees in responsible positions to use tobacco while on duty, and this aversion to the use of tobacco is spreading among the leading thinkers and industrial concerns of the world to day.

GET IN THE GAME!

If Salt Lake doesn't see one of the best exhibitions of town loyalty at the coming Thanksgiving game between the University of Utah and the Agricultural College that she has ever witnessed it most certainly will not be the fault of the local people.

Perhaps no other event has ever called forth such a spontaneous exhibition of loyalty as has this game in which the local boys go forth to do battle with the other state educational institutions at Salt Lake.

At the meeting of the Commercial Boosters Club Wednesday night representations of the college solicited the support of the club in an effort to stimulate interest in the coming game. The response was fairly startling. Every man present announced himself an ardent booster for the college and committees were appointed on the spot to assist in creating enthusiasm, not only in the city, but throughout the entire Cache Valley.

Already the stimulus is in the air. Everybody everywhere, is talking up the game. The mayor and the commissioners are boosting it. The business men of the city and county are boosting it, and a conservative estimate places the number of probable excursionists from Logan to Salt Lake at not less than 1000.

Remarkably low rates have been offered and every effort is being put forth to boost the excursion, and thereby demonstrate to the people of Utah that Logan and her citizenship is heart and soul with the Agricultural College in all its endeavors.

Today the boys give an exhibition game with an all star team upon the college campus to which the public is invited free of charge. Tonight the students will take possession of the city and something is sure to be doing every minute.

SETTLERS

The year 1912, so far as the states of Colorado, New Mexico and Utah are concerned, will soon pass into history as the most bountiful, and no doubt the most prosperous in general, to their populace. This in itself will bring many settlers to this territory, but will not alone give us the best results.

The population of these three states is approximately a million and a half, yet we have ample room for five times that number.

There are today thousands of acres of fine soil in each of these states with good available water rights; also large tracts of land being put under irrigation, and still larger tracts worthy of the consideration of the irrigation promoter.

It should be the aim of every person located within the boundaries of these states to invite the attention of the homeseeker to come and investigate for himself. Ask him to look over our fruit districts, potato districts, sugar beet districts, farm lands in general, cattle and stock raising sections, and mineral districts. In fact, in these three states most everything is grown that is requisite to successful agriculture and horticulture.

Do your part in spreading the information that here in the great inter-mountain section there is land and a home, and a prosperous livelihood for all willing hands.—Rio Grande Service Gazette.

LUKE McLUKE SAYS

Money won't turn a man's head half as quickly as a silken calf.

When the police want a man for anything all they have to do is locate the woman.

When a woman wants material for a lecture she doesn't have to go to the North Pole. She explores her husband's pockets.

When a salaried man starts in to hold up his cud with men who are worth money, you can see his finish.

Everybody hates a stingy man. But you will notice that the stingy man always has money.

The average woman's idea of brightening the home is to run up a $6 gas bill.

Nowadays the game laws protect almost everything but husband and bedbugs.

A woman is always afraid of train wrecks. That is why she always wears her best underwear when she travels.

The more you think about it, the more you wonder what Solomon did when about a hundred of his wives wanted their backs scratched at the same time.

If a woman would work half as hard trying to hold a husband as she did to land him he would never leave her.

When a woman wants to commune with the spirits she hunts up a clairvoyant, but a man hunts up a bartender.

Burning your bridges behind you means giving away the baby carriage just because the youngster has learned to walk.

Well what was the use of having a Democratic celebration anyway. Cache County Democrats have nothing to celebrate as far as democrat gains are concerned. As one big local Democratic leader remarked "the party has lost grounds during the past two years." If the Cache County Democrats had arranged a reception in honor of the "assistant Democrats" who gave them the victory there would have been a celebration in keeping with the realities of the campaign. A receiving line with Theodore W. Peterson, Soren Hansen, William Winn, Joseph B. Brown, George Daines and Albert A. Law as guests of honor would have been something like it. These are the real winners of the Democratic victory, and credit should be bestowed where credit is due. How ungrateful of the Democracy to pass up those stalwart "assistant Democrats" that gave them the victory.

John A. Hendrickson has apparently repudiated all that puffing that Mr. Turner gave him in The Logan Republican, and by so doing has secured a small judgment. "Watch me, boost me, keep my name in the paper, say good things about me," John is reputed to have said to Turner, "and I will pay you for it." But when the time comes for settlement there is "nothing doing." As to the accuracy of Turner's statements one knowing both gentlemen need only refer to the files of the Logan Republican during Mr. Turner's management.

It was unkind of those "big state leaders" to pass up the Democratic jollification and ratification meeting. Their excuses read like they deliberately planned staying away. Perhaps they felt like the Barber-Blair engagement was now being staged to its capacity and didn't feel like butting in. Of course A. George and Jed M. would have been busy buttonholing them so perhaps it was just as well for them to remain away.

Mr. Orval W. Adams of "interest on public money" came over from Hyrum Tuesday evening presumably to attend the Democratic celebration. Mr. Adams did not run very swift in his race to place the people's money out at interest. The people preferred the safe course rather than the sorry erratic one, and Mr. Adams can be classed simply an "assistant Democrat." Nothing more, nothing less.

John A. Hendrickson characterized Thain, Odell and Bullen as thoroughbred "federal bunchers," but looked upon Congressman Howell and J. C. Walters as "kind of half and half." And now the multitudes are wondering what John was in the crowd where he was "bunched."

The New York American, a powerful Democratic organ, reminds its readers that the Wilson victory was won, not on the merits of their case, but "because of a divided opposition."

The only time a woman knows exactly how much money she has in the bank is when she hasn't any.

Charles F. Murphy has killed a deer. His aim is better in the forest than in a Democratic national convention.

When a girl has pretty teeth she first learns to smile and afterwards to chew the rag.

Turner was easy. He only wanted one hundred twenty-five to keep John A. up for a whole year.

MUSICAL TREAT TONIGHT

The faculty and some of the pupils of the Utah Conservatory of Music of Salt Lake City will give a free musical concert at the Logan Tabernacle tonight beginning at 8 o'clock. A local branch of the firm has recently been established here with studio in the Harris block, under the management of Miss Elizabeth Underwood. That this musical combine has associated with it some of the best musicians in the state can be seen from the fact that Prof. J. J. McClellan is dean of the school; Prof. W. E. Weibe, president and associates are Prof. Alfred Best and Prof. Thomas Giles. The people of Logan and nearby towns are cordially invited to attend this free concert Saturday night. (adv.)
