

Don't Paint Often

You won't need to if you use "QUEEN BEE MIXED PAINT." It is doubtful if there is another brand upon the market that equals it in durability. We sell this particular kind because we want to give our patrons the greatest value for their money. It is unsurpassed in every quality that constitutes a high grade paint. Real cheapness in paint lies not in the price alone.

Roy Eccles came to Logan Monday morning to meet his father. Mr. Eccles, who keeps in touch with the pulsations of the Cache county farmers, says that a most excellent feeling is prevailing just at present, resulting from the present prospects for a splendid beet crop. It is estimated that over 90,000 tons of beets will be raised in Cache Valley this year. No pests have yet appeared, but the sprinklers are on hand to be put into the fields should the bugs or flies make their appearance. Mr. Eccles says that there are 7,400 acres planted into beets. The grounds around the Lewiston Sugar factory have been laid off in town lots and eight fine cottages are now being erected.

Henry Parkinson, the husband of two wives, father of seventeen children, fourteen living, eight boys and six girls, all married but three, was from Wellsville Saturday. Messrs. Gligrew and McGreedy, capitalists of Rockford, Illinois, have been in Cache Valley the past week viewing the country, especially that part covered by the West Cache canal. The gentlemen are favorably impressed with the surrounding country.

William Thomas Jr., of Paradise, who had his toes amputated some time ago as a result of having them frozen in the mountains, underwent another operation yesterday, skin being taken from his limb and grafted onto the end of the feet. The unfortunate man is progressing favorably.

The employes at Joseph Newbold's clothing store on North Main have been doing some fine decorating in their windows during the past three days. The portraits of Washington and Roosevelt are in the windows, surrounded by the national colors artistically displayed. The display is worthy of a special visit to see it. They are in keeping with the spirit of the national holiday and exhibit good taste by those who put forth the effort.

A very unique window display is that of the Johnson Jewelry Co. Here is to be found a baseball diamond, peanut representations of the Center and First North street ball teams arrayed in all their baseball gorgeousness, a grandstand filled with "watches," and officials of the game. The idea is to present a complete representation of the game at the B. Y. C. campus today, and the effort is indeed a striking success. The men are made of three peanuts properly put together with thread and painted red and white, and blue and white, the colors of the respective streets. By the use of thread the men are made to stand at their different positions on the diamond, and from the general attitude of all concerned it seems that there is intense excitement. On a score-board near, the record shows a tally of 0 to 0, in favor of both streets. One of the officials is easily recognized as Mr. Fred Marshall, the facial resemblance and aggressive, energetic action manifest making this particular representation perfect in its conception. The window has created many good laughs.

Diet of Spanish Soldier. The Spanish soldier, with only two meals a day, keeps in excellent condition on a diet consisting of dry black bread, a little oil, some garlic, and his cigarette.

HAD THEIR GROWL AS USUAL.

Tugboat Men Over-suspicious of Extra Good Dinner.

"I went to the high school with the late Charles T. Yerkes," said a Philadelphian, "and afterward I saw a good deal of him while he was in the banking business here.

"What I liked about Mr. Yerkes was his disposition. He never complained or growled. He hated to hear growls or complaints. On this head there is a story about him that few old Philadelphians still remember.

"A tugboat captain at a banquet one night said that tugboat men were the champion growlers of the world. He said they growled especially about their food, that even at a banquet they would find something to complain of.

"Mr. Yerkes doubted this. He declared it couldn't be true. There was an argument, with the upshot that the next week he took a run on the tug and provided for the crew a sumptuous surprise dinner.

"It was a roast turkey dinner and when it was set before the men Mr. Yerkes and the captain were hidden in a place where they could see and hear all that went on.

"The men looked very suspiciously at the fine roast. Then one speared a big bird on a fork and holding it up said: "Go slow on this, boys. If it wasn't cheaper'n salt pork it wouldn't 'a' come our way."

Imperfect Casting Causes Death. The collapse of the roof of the Charing Cross railway station, London, was caused by a "pocket" formed in the casting of one of the iron tie rods. The weight of a staging on which carpenters were working broke it. There was no way of detecting the fault, experts said at the inquest.
