AS THE FARMER SEES IT

REASONS WHY HE BELIEVES IN AND TRUSTS REPUBLICANS.

They Have Never Deceived Nor Betrayed His Interests and Have Aggressively Favored Legislation for His Benefit.

Each national campaign emphasizes the fact that the "farmer" vote must be reckoned with and catered to, and all parties put forth their best arguments when addressing the farmer. Away from the maddening crowd, untrammelled by the prejudice and theories of the politician, the farmer calmly reads and thinks, and thinks and reads, and decides the question with a discerning judgment that leads to a decision which is honest and right.

In 1896 it was generally feared that the farmer would be deceived by the great promises made of the beneficent results to be attained by voting for free silver; but this was not so, the farmer might be deceived when away from home, but at his own bedside, with plenty of time to weigh the question, he decided for the gold standard, AND THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND ITS CANDIDATES ON THE NATIONAL TICKET NOW SAY THAT THE FARMER DECIDED RIGHT. In 1900 the cry was imperialism, and with his love of freedom it was said that the farmer might be stampeded, but again he allowed common sense and calm consideration to decide the question, and seeing no danger of militarism or overthrow of the established government by the new order of things, forced upon us by the war with Spain, the farmer again cast his ballot for the Republican ticket, and time has proved that his judgment was good and his decision right.

Chaff Will Not Answer.
 In the present campaign no new or striking issue is presented. The Democrats arraign the Republican party, vilify the president and hold forth glittering generalities, but definiteness is lacking, and what would be gained by the election of a Democratic president is not apparent. A general "landslide howl" is no argument, and to secure the farmer vote it is necessary to present more than chaff.

One term of a Democratic president, two years only of absolute Democratic administration, was sufficient to practically paralyze business throughout the nation, deprive the worker of the chance to earn an honest living, depress values and prices and make us the laughing stock and subject of ridicule of the nations of the world.

McKinley was elected, a Republican congress enacted a consistent protective tariff, industry was revived, factories started, unemployed given work at the highest wages ever known, consumption stimulated, values restored, Spain defeated, Cuba freed, order established in the Philippine Islands and the people given civil liberty in its fullest sense and the opportunity of becoming a creditable part of the greatest nation on earth. The stability of the currency has been assured by the action of the Republican administration; the public debt reduced and interest charges lowered; laws passed that will bring the arid lands under cultivation, and that, too, without tax or cost to any person except the one directly benefited by the purchase of the land from the government.

The securing of the route for an isthmian canal, the construction of which is now assured, is a crowning triumph for a Republican president and the party, and no one class will receive a greater benefit from the connection of the Atlantic and Pacific by this great waterway than will the farmer.

The opposition to the Cuban reciprocity bill, on account of the reduction of the tariff on raw sugar, came largely from a misconception of what the result would be. Instead of retarding production and lowering the price of sugar beets, the opposite has been the result, and the production has been stimulated and profits increased.

Benefits of Protection.
 The policy of protection which guards and develops the industries of our country, cardinal with the Republican party, is necessary to the prosperity of the farmer. A tariff on agricultural products may not increase the price if the demand does not equal the supply, but a tariff which protects American labor and home industries insures work at high wages, plenty of money and increased consumption, insuring high prices for farm products.

The farmer is indebted to the Republican party for the rural free-delivery system. First suggested by the editor of a leading farm paper, himself a Republican, the idea was reported upon and recommended by a Republican postmaster general, adopted and enlarged upon by the Republican party, appropriation made by a Republican congress for an investigation and trial of the proposed system. A Democratic postmaster general, supported by a Democratic president, refused to expend the appropriations and reported not only adversely to the system, but that the scheme was impracticable. Not until the Republicans were again in full power was the system given a fair trial, and its entire practicability, as well as the great benefit to be derived by the rural population fully demonstrated. From a $10,000 appropriation for the trial of the system it has grown to an appropriation of over $20,000,000 under the friendly encouragement and aggressive business policy of Republican administrations. No other one thing could have been of such great benefit to the farmer; it has placed him in daily communication with the world, and from the seclusion of farm life he emerges and becomes a part and parcel of this great nation and is not only able to read of the doings throughout the world, but the facilities afforded for frequent and prompt communication enable him to take part in its affairs. The farmer is now recognized as a big, broad-minded business man, and the discovery is due to the rural free delivery system, established and fostered by the Republican party.

The Republican party has always been aggressively in favor of legislation for the benefit of farmers, and the record will be considered and remembered when the farmer casts his vote.

The platforms of the Republican and Democratic parties are so similar on important subjects that the conclusion is inevitable that the latter followed the former for vote-catching purposes, and that the Democratic party is insincere and asking support under false representations, and the farmer never favors or supports insincerity or fraud.

A SIGN OF PROSPERITY
 There is no better criterion of general prosperity than the postal business. When times are good the postal revenue increases, and vice versa. The report of the postmaster general shows that for the year ending July 1, 1895, the receipts from postal revenue were $75,171,000. For the year ending July 1, 1902, they were $119,958,229, an increase of 57 per cent, during seven years of continuous Republican rule. During the year ending July 1, 1895, the receipts from the money order business were $812,038; for the year ending July 1, 1902, they were $1,880,817, an increase of 133 per cent, during seven years of Republican prosperity.

The postmaster general in his annual report for 1902 said: "The increase in the postal revenues attests the wonderful prosperity of the people and the activity of business interests throughout the country." It would not have been proper for the postmaster general in an official report to attribute this wonderful prosperity in 1902 to the operation of the Dingley tariff law and other Republican measures, but such was the fact.

Export of Manufactures.
 Figures recently issued by the department of commerce and labor at Washington show that during the month of July last our exports of manufactures amounted to $40,000,000, against $31,000,000 of agricultural products. During June the exports of manufactures were nearly $41,000,000, against $37,500,000 of agricultural products. This is the first time in the history of the country that the exports of manufactures have exceeded those of the farm. This does not mean that the exports of farm products are falling off, but that those of manufactures have greatly increased. This is due to a protective tariff which, while it benefits American manufactures, also increases the home demand for American farm products.

A Striking Contrast.
 From 1892 to 1895, inclusive, under a Democratic administration and a low tariff, the total exports of American manufactures were $24,858,506. From 1900 to 1903, inclusive, under a Republican administration and a protective tariff, they were $1,955,951,840. The export of manufactures in any one year of Republican administration was considerably more than in any two years of Democratic administration.

Must Trust Roosevelt.
 [Western Laborer (Omaha).]
 In a former issue of this paper, we said we must trust Roosevelt and we will trust him and in our judgment every workman, skilled or unskilled, of whatever race or creed, should at once make up his mind to trust him and vote for him instead of indulging in vain regrets that they had not when they see Parker's "hand," if by chance or fraud he is elected. WE MUST TRUST ROOSEVELT.

Taggart's Prophecies.
 A tip to Republicans. Don't be scared by Chairman Taggart's prophecies or claims regarding the political outlook. In 1894, when he was chairman of the Democratic state central committee in Indiana, he claimed the state by 10,000 votes up to the night before the election. The next day the Republicans carried it by 45,000 plurality.

Perhaps the policy of protection has made business prosperity more dependent upon politics than it would have been otherwise, but it certainly has contributed more largely than anything else to our extraordinary and unparalleled progress.
