SOME LIVING PIONEERS.

Charles Decker was born at Phelps, Ontario county, New York, June 21, 1851. His parents were the late Isaac Decker and Harriet Wheeler Decker. He arrived in Salt Lake City, October 2, 1847, having in charge President Young's farming utensils and the like.

From men in the west have had a more varied experience than Mr. Decker. In 1851 he and the late Feramont Little and the late Ephraim Banks subset the contract to carry the mail from Laramie to Salt Lake City from Colonel Sam Woodson, now of Atchison, Kansas. Little and Banks went down in July, 1851, in perfect all arrangements, such as providing stock and the like.

The contract called for a trip a month, the price being $8,000 for the year. Mr. Decker made the second trip in September. He was accompanied by Alfred Higgins. With them went Dr. Bernhisel, the first delegate to congress from Utah. On Elk Eider creek, five miles beyond Deer creek and 20 miles below the crossing of the North Platte, they had trouble with the Crow Indians. Their lead mules were lassoed and they were taken to a bend of the creek where the Indians began helping themselves to whatever they liked.

Little and Banks went down in July, 1851, in perfect all arrangements, such as providing stock and the like.

In 1852 Mr. Decker had an exciting experience with Big Robber's band of Indians. There had been smallpox among them and many had died. Their bodies were all piled in a heap and covered with brush and timber until it bleached before shipping. The outlaws had never forgiven Decker for this and he frequently threatened to kill him for it.

The capture of O'Day, the Roberts brothers and Al Smith is hailed with delight by the stockmen and ranchmen of Central and Northern Wyoming, as it is believed to be the final wind up of the Hole-in-the-Wall gang, one of the best organized bands of outlaws that ever infested the border.

Called Home. Mrs. J. R. Cobb. Athens, Ga., July 10.—Mrs. T. R. R. Cobb died at her home here today, aged 78. Her illness had been protracted and her death was not unexpected.

Andrew E. Smith. Chicago, July 10.—Andrew E. Smith, the promoter of the Universal Gas company, of Chicago, and who also figured in securing the famous Bacon compressed air ordinance, is dead, after an illness of three weeks. He was better known in New York and Philadelphia as "Bony Back Smythe" and was one of the most widely known gas promoters in the country. He was instrumental in building some of the largest plants in the world.

Will Work on THE LORD'S DAY. Conference on the Tariff Disposed to Rush Things.

M'KINLEY ADVISES SOME LATITUDE. DEMOCRATS MAY BE CALLED IN ON TUESDAY.

Democratic Conferees Say Whether They Will Demand Much Time in Committee When Called in Will Depend Upon What is Done With the Senate Amendments Suggested by Democrats.

Washington, July 10.—The conferees on the tariff bill suspended their labors long enough to attend the funeral of the late Senator Charles A. McNary, of Tennessee, but resumed before they dispersed for this purpose, to resemble immediately after the conclusion of the obsequies and continue their work not only tonight but all day tomorrow.

While the major portion of the time of the conferees so far has been given to the consideration of McNary's bill, there is comparatively little dispute, there has been more or less discussion of some of the more difficult problems, and one of these is the form of the reciprocity provision of the bill. The advice of McNary is to sit on Sunday was not reached without some hesitation, but that was decided upon as necessary to expedite the reporting of the bill.

And McNary, who gracefully swung the sphere from the box for the Jubilee, did wonders. Only six men were seen in the hall, and McNary, twirling balls, and five men were struck out by reason of his beautiful pitching. Taylor, the expected pitcher, was not seen, as he was occupied the box for the Jubilee, did not appear and McNary's steady and clever work made it impossible for anyone to get a hit against him. The fact that McNary pitched on both sides was almost beyond criticism, and the number of hits was at a low ebb. Five were taken from McNary by Emmett and Higson, who alternated in the box for the Ogdensites.

The Ogdensites looked jauntily in their attire when Empire Busby called time and they went to the bat. They did not start off very auspiciously. Ferguson gathered up the stick and after a few minutes in the box, he pitched for a small hit, but when Seare came to bat he pitched a hot and swift ball on the forearm, and very soon afterwards he retired from the game. The Ogdensites were not to be deterred, and the ball was pitched and the Jubilee ran with slow and awkward tread to first. Then it was that Matthews got a hot and swift ball on the forearm, and very soon afterwards he retired from the game. The conferees expressed confidence today in being able to call on the Democratic members by Tuesday. They stated that they were succeeding better than they had hoped in settling their differences.

The Democratic members of the conferees say that whether they will demand much time in committee when called in will depend upon what is done with the Senate amendments suggested by Democrats.

McKinley Will Unde the Work Done by Cleveland.

Washington, July 10.—The order President Cleveland issued last February, reducing the number of pension agencies in the United States, is being carried out, it is reported by President McKinley probably next week. JUBILEES WON A GAME

Aldk dust filled the air at Beck's Hot Springs yesterday, but it did not make the Jubilee nine so hoarse that they were unable to shout the paeans of victory at the end of the game. It was the first time in several weeks that the Jubilees have had a chance to jubilate, and yesterday, when they defeated the Ogdensites on a score of 11 to 3, they made the best of their opportunity. And they were entitled to sing and shout for they played steady, strong and emphatic baseball.

The Jubilees jubilated and jubilated, and they minded not their bearded faces nor the alkali dust. They went to Beck's to annihilate the Ogdensite athletes, and they succeeded in a way that made wide Visalia smiles illumine the faces of the spectators. The Jubilees were known as the nine that once defeated the Browns, and who paralyzed and demolished the Ogdensites, and they are now being cheered and cheered as the atmosphere will be cheered and pulverized during the Jubilee celebration.

That dark look of agony has gone from the face of Charley Stanton, apparently forever. Johnny Spencer and the rest of the Jubilee enthusiasts are all enthusiastic in Zion are around the chariot which betokens victory.

It was hilarious baseball, and none of the very small audience in the grand stands when the Jubilee nine was over. The Ogdensite men came down sufficed with the flush of triumph, but after they had ineffectually hampered at signs of defeat, they were all in a heap. The game was dark, like the ways of the heathen Chinese. The visitors attempted every possible ruse to overcome the adversity, but they were all in vain. They had a new pitcher, Higson, who came in with the Parkites, in the box, but no improvement was apparent and the ball was still in the hands of Emmett and Higson, who alternated in the box for the Ogdensites.

Errors were not as numerous as the small gathering that watched the lower part of the game. The Ogdensites were not to be deterred, and the ball was pitched and the Jubilee ran with slow and awkward tread to first. Then it was that Matthews got a hot and swift ball on the forearm, and very soon afterwards he retired from the game.
