Harper's also has a full page view of Salt Lake City from a photograph by Mosen & Co. Sawyer has the papers for sale. THE JURY in the case of Sam Levy vs. Salt Lake City, yesterday returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $1,000. There is no doubt that an appeal will be taken, to the Supreme Court of the Territory, but as the damages awarded are less than $5,000, the matter must be settled by that tribunal.

J. H. BENNETT represents the Rio Grande Western. He is a neat little man with blonde hair, a lobster forehead, peaches and cream complexion, milk blue eyes. He has a lovely moustache and a few whiskers. He comes from Salt Lake, but is not a Mormon. San Francisco Evening Post. AN AGED man named Thompson, of American Fork, died suddenly at that place. He had been drinking rather heavily, and was reported to have been pretty full on Friday night, and was found dead in his bed yesterday morning.

THE CASE of P. L. Williams vs. William M. Stewart, came up before Judge Zane again yesterday. The defendant introduced a demurrer to the order requiring him to report to the plaintiff as Superintendent of District Schools, and the matter was argued at some length by Le Grande Young for Mr. Stewart and P. L. Williams for himself. The case was submitted.

THE BROADCASTING contest between Reid and Tate yesterday at the old race track drew an immense audience. It failed to give satisfaction, however, owing to the fact that the horses were very tame. Reid expressed it, as one spectator expressed it, "It could not have been difficult to have camped on them all night, to say nothing of fifteen minutes." The contest was declared a draw.

HERBERT A. SLADE, the Maori, appeared in the District Court, and pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with embezzling in prize fight with Duncan A. McDonald. Slade pleaded not guilty. McDonald has, of course, also been indicted. He is not in the Territory now, however, and it is not known whether he will return and face the music, or whether his bondsmen will put up the amount of the bail furnished by them.

COMING SLOWLY IN.

The Pearson Case Going on at Provo.

THE EVIDENCE UP TO DATE.

The Father and Mother of the Defendant Both Placed on the Stand—Pearson's Injuries.

On Friday afternoon the Pearson case was continued by the calling of John Rollo. He testified that he had lived at Nephi seven years. Was born in Scotland; am 22 years of age; by profession a school teacher. I got acquainted with the defendant in the latter part of January. On the day of the shooting, I was with the skating party in the meadows; we started home between 3 and 4 o'clock; Mr. Bigler and Mr. Ord and a boy were with Mr. Pearson when we came up; we thought he was drunk, and we looked to see him fall off his horse every moment; as he would lean on one side of the horse it would turn the other way, and as he would lean on the other side the horse would again turn in the opposite direction; he did not seem to know anything; the wagon tongue struck the horse on the left side; we slackened speed; he looked up; his eyes were dull and heavy; his face bloated and red; he was playing with his hat a good deal. We next met Sheriff Cazier and Hyde. We asked what was up, when they told us of the shooting; they asked if we had seen their man. I replied that we had, and that they would have no trouble taking him, as he was crazy drunk. I had never seen or heard of the man Pearson before. We stopped our team there and witnessed the arrest of the defendant; did not have hold of the reins at all, and was leaning on the horn of the saddle. When he was searched the knife was handed to me; after this I went to town, and saw the defendant in Chalmers' yard; I looked at it and then went away; I saw the defendant next day; he was in a store buying some canned goods, about noon.

Cross-examined—I saw him at the jail; he did not seem so drunk when going from the buggy to the jail, but staggered a little. SATURDAY MORNING.

DON N. BURBY, I live in Nephi—was born there; am a farmer; I am somewhat acquainted with the defendant; I have met him—seen him around before the shooting took place; I saw him January 19; he was intoxicated; I was about a hundred yards from where the shot was fired; saw the smoke; I was standing on the San Peter railroad track; I went to where the body lay; there were four or five people there when I got to it; he was alive when I got there; I saw about ten minutes after I first saw him till he died; his head lay in a hole, and I proposed to raise up his head; but officer Borrowman would not allow it to be touched until the coroner came; I said we ought to pull his boots off at least and not allow him to die with his boots on; I proposed to put a coat under his head and do what I could so he could live if there was any show for him; Dr. Don arrived there soon after I did; the body was not changed from its position; Dr. Don felt of his pulse; I saw the defendant again coming up in a wagon; I was just going home from Chalmers'; they had a hold of him in the front seat; that is, he was leaning against some one.

FRANK KUSHON was the next expert witness—Was a gunsmith; produced a pistol and wads of red flannel. I lived in Provo two years; came from Ogden here; originally came from England; served my trade in Birmingham; worked at the trade from the time I was nine years old till the present time; worked at it in England till '81; worked a while when I first came to America in New Haven; then at St. Louis; then at Salt Lake two years; then at Ogden; from there to Provo.

Q.—What kind of a pistol is that? (producing the pistol.) A.—Forty-four Colt's; a frontier shooter. Q.—What pressure did it take to pull the trigger? A.—It took about two and a half pounds pressure to pull the trigger; I have had this pistol in my possession about a week; I got it from you; it takes a Winchester cartridge; the experiment I made at your request was to see if it would burn all the powder, and the distance it would shoot; I doubled a gunny-sack four times and tacked it at the end of my shooting gallery to represent the resentment of the human body; the gunny-sack would yield about as much as the pressure of the human body; two pieces of flannel was produced to represent the thickness of an overshirt; I tacked the flannel over the gunny-sack; I measured off two feet and shot I found that the powder which had not burnt had penetrated the first and gone into the second flannel; the powder spread on the first flannel about six inches; I fired these Colt's pistols about uniform; I again tacked up two other pieces of flannel and shot at the distance of four feet; the powder scattered seven inches.

Cross-examined—It takes three and one-half pounds pressure to pull off a regular gun pistol. Mrs. ELIZABETH PEARSON was sworn—Have been married twenty-eight years; I am the mother of the defendant; he is 21 years old; he lived in California till he was 17 years of age; he then went to Arizona; was there three years and then returned to San Francisco; he went to Colorado a while; men come to Utah; we kept the Russ House at San Francisco; our son had a slight injury there; the window sash fell upon his head and reduced him to a state of unconsciousness for a few days, and produced paralysis; but he recovered in a few days; we met with a more serious injury; he met with a more serious injury at the Cosmopolitan Hotel in 1872. He was brought to me immediately afterwards; he was unconscious; the wound was over the left eyebrow; he was conscious immediately after, but soon became unconscious, and remained so for ten days; the physicians are both now dead who attended him; I nursed him myself all the time; the doctor gave him up; he was delirious, and he lasted six weeks; he required constant care; the wound did not close, and an abscess set in, and pieces of the bone were removed; by advice of the physicians he was removed to another place; two abscesses set in, one about the region of the eye, another in the back of the head; pieces of bone were taken out; he came home a few days; in all he remained away about three months; he was in the care of a very dear friend, Mrs. Grove; it was five or six months before the bandages were removed; Mr. and Mrs. Grove are both dead; there was a tendency of delirium whenever there was over-exertion, which lasted about a year; the abscess was over the eye, about the size of a hen's egg and was black, and discolored all around; the bones that came out were about the size of one's finger nail; applications of cold water were resorted to during the fever; his head was in great pain; the nature of my son was passive and quiet, both before and after the accident; on two occasions since he has been sick, with pains in his head; when he was overworked as night clerk at the time of the convalescence, he was sick three days; he was melancholy at times; was never much excited; I know Mrs. Walton; she was a servant at Mrs. Grove's while my son was there; I knew this Forrest Green; he came with my son as his guest from Utah; my family consists of three sons and a daughter; the defendant is the eldest; Mr. Green remained at our house about six weeks; they were very intimate, kind and agreeable to each other. I think Mr. Green remained then in San Francisco about three months; he was engaged in the Cliff House; he sought employment for him; he became dissatisfied with the place and soon returned to his home in Utah.

Mrs. Pearson left the court-room very much overcome, supported by her husband and daughter. The deposition of Mrs. Georgianna Walton was read, and substantiated the testimony of Mrs. Pearson; while the defendant was ill; he suffered intense pains, was at times delirious, and his mind in a sort of dazed stupor; that whenever the wound was dressed it caused great pain; blood and matter oozed out, and he could not dress it the last times it took about two hours. He invariably became delirious after dressing the wound. The wound was still running when he left our house. He was with us about eight weeks, returned to San Francisco for a while, then returned and remained three weeks. The wound did not seem to be much better, after the accident I saw him frequently, and he never seemed the same as before. He was usually excitable and a little peculiar.

H. H. PEARSON, SEN., was called—Was born in New Hampshire; went to California in 1851; am the father of defendant. He testified to Mr. Green being at San Francisco, Harry and he were very friendly. I found employment for Mr. Green at the Cliff House, and when he wanted to come home advanced him money to go home with. Mr. Pearson also testified to the fact of the accident and the condition of the boy as related by the preceding witnesses. It was an hour's ride to Vallejo, and the doctor would go over every day. It was six months before the wound began to heal much. He was unable to take care of himself during this time. I never heard of my son doing any other act of violence. The pistol was shown Mr. Pearson, who recognized it as belonging to his son Charles.

Court adjourned at 2 p.m. for the day, as some of the attorneys wanted to come to Salt Lake on the afternoon train. Still Booming.

J. C. CUTLER & BROS., the popular manufacturers of home-made goods, and the agents of the prosperous Provo Manufacturing Company, again monopolize a large space in THE SUNDAY HERALD this morning. Their trade is booming, one of the surest evidences they could have that the public appreciate the wares they turn out. We refer everybody who wishes to get his dollar back in the clothes he buys, to purchase Cutler Brothers' mammoth announcement in another column.

WHEREVER and wherever an honest article of high merit has been introduced in Utah, this establishment has invariably given it that preference, encouragement and opportunity, without which no home product, however meritorious, can achieve success. We have followed this principle for seven years, and have not yet seen the slightest cause to abandon or modify it, and it is our earnest belief that every merchant of high principle who values the true interest of the people whose patronage he seeks, will accept this view. We endorse, believe in and recommend the SOAPS made in Utah, as the best article in that line that we carry, and will pay freight both ways, and all other damages when dissatisfaction occurs.

BEFORE JUDGE ZANE. John Gray Goes Up—Several Pleas to Indictments.

John C. Gray, an old gentleman, nearly 70 years of age, was arraigned before Judge Zane yesterday morning, charged with unlawful cohabitation. It was evident from the general appearance of the gentleman that he was in very poor health, and it will be remembered that at the time of the arrest he was so ill as to be unable to be present. He was charged with living, from November 1, 1883, to October 16, 1886, with Elizabeth H. Gray and Mary Newland Gray as his wives. THE CLERK—What is your plea to this indictment, guilty or not guilty? Mr. GRAY—I presume I am guilty.

THE COURT—Do you wish time, or would you prefer to have sentence now? Mr. GRAY—I might just as well take it now as at any other time.

THE COURT—You have been indicted for the crime of unlawful cohabitation, and have pleaded guilty. It now becomes the duty of the court to pass judgment on you. Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced? Mr. GRAY—I don't know that I have.

THE COURT—Will you in the future obey the law against polygamy and unlawful cohabitation? Mr. GRAY—I consider it the duty of every good citizen to honor and obey the laws of his country.

THE COURT—Yet you pleaded guilty to this offense. Will you change your conduct and obey the law in future? Will you live with only one wife? Mr. GRAY—That is what I have done for the last six years.

THE COURT—Why did you plead guilty to the offense? You know you pleaded guilty. Mr. GRAY—I have not lived with my first wife.

THE COURT—She is your lawful wife? Mr. GRAY—Yes, sir. THE COURT—The question is, will you live with your lawful wife in the future? Mr. GRAY—I might until there is a more liberal law in Utah.

THE COURT—You might, but what is your intention? Mr. GRAY—This is my intention until there is a more liberal law. THE COURT—But suppose there never is a more liberal law? Mr. GRAY—I do not intend to break any statutory law.

THE COURT—Do you intend to obey the law? Mr. GRAY—I do not intend to violate it. THE COURT—Will you obey it? Mr. GRAY—I have only lived with one wife. What is the law? THE COURT—It is to live with your lawful wife and her alone, and not to associate with any other woman as your wife.

Mr. GRAY—I could not live with her. I would have to build a shanty and live alone. She is a delicate woman and is— THE COURT—Well, you do not appear to be a robust man—and it would seem to me that a delicate man and a delicate woman might live in the same house. As it is, you do not seem willing to obey the law, and must take the consequences. Have you any means—any ability to pay a fine? Mr. GRAY—I am a carpenter by trade, and have about $25 a month coming in.

THE COURT—Well, you will be sentenced to imprisonment in the Penitentiary for six months, and to pay a fine of $50, and stand committed until it be paid. Mr. Gray was remanded to Marshal Dyer, and was taken out to the Penitentiary later in the day.

Arraignments. HERMAN GREYER, a resident of the Tenth Ward, was then called for arraignment, and listened to the reading of an indictment containing five counts, charging that he lived with Eliza Grether and Anna Schults Grether as his wives. The periods covered by his counts are as follows: November 1, 1882, to May 31, 1884; June 1, to December 31, 1884; January 1 to July 31, 1885; August 1, 1885, to February 28, 1886; March 1, 1886, to October 21, 1886. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty, and bail was fixed at $3,000.

JOHN P. MONTENESS stood up and listened to the reading of a three-count indictment, which named Eva M. Mortensen and Anna Helgren Mortensen as the wives. The periods covered by the counts are: From November 1, 1883, to October 31, 1884; November 1, 1884, to October 9, 1886; and October 27, 1886, the last count covering a period of but eighteen days. He entered a plea of not guilty, and gave bonds in the sum of $2,000 to appear for trial.

H. H. HAWTHORNE, is the individual who recently attained considerable notoriety through having engaged the services of Rev. James McKnight in a marriage with a lady named Wann, while at the same time he had a wife living and undivorced. The indictment alleged that the marriage with Mary Wann occurred on August 24, 1886, and that Hawthorne's previous marriage was with a Mary Buckley, the latter occurring at Maidstone, England, on the 9th of June, 1885. The defendant was given until Tuesday next to plead.

GEORGE R. WALLACE, who lives at Granger, Salt Lake County, was next arraigned on a charge of unlawful cohabitation with his wives Hannah Davis Wallace and Martha Dalis Wallace. The indictment contains two counts from November 1, 1883, to December 31, 1884, and January 1, 1885, to October 28, 1886. The gentlemen pleaded not guilty, and gave bonds in the sum of $2,000.

ESSOP L. H. MOUSLEY, who had been called for in the morning, but who had failed to appear for the simple reason that he was not aware that he was wanted, came before the court during the afternoon to answer to an indictment containing three counts, which named Marry A. Mousley and Sarah T. Crossgrove Mousley as his wives, and the periods covered by the counts are from November 1, 1883, to October 31, 1884; November 1, 1884, to October 31, 1885; and November 1, 1885, to September 30, 1886. He gave $1,500 bail.

At the regular meeting of Salt Lake Valley Lodge, No. 12, A. O. U. W., held in their lodge room, Friday evening, October 29th, 1886, the following resolutions of respect were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, In the direction of human events, it has pleased Almighty God, the Supreme Master Workman of the universe, to call from our midst our honored and respected foreman, Henry W. Morse, and,

Whereas, In the death of our departed brother, Salt Lake Valley Lodge loses one of its most faithful and honored members, the community a respectable citizen, and his wife and children deprived of the care and counsel of a devoted husband and indulgent father; therefore,

Be it Resolved, That we, as a lodge, tender to the family of our deceased brother our most sincere condolence and sympathy, and, while realizing, as we do, that our expression of regret and condolence can but slightly alleviate their sense of irreparable loss, yet we hope it may prove some consolation to them to know that one so dear was esteemed and valued by his daily associates and friends, and that his death will be regretted by all.

And be it further Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the lodge, that a copy hereof be presented to the family of our deceased brother, and that a copy be furnished the city papers for publication. SAM'L B. PHILLIPS, FRANK S. FOOT, J. H. AUBREY, Committee.

IN YE OLDEN Tyme.

The First Concert of the Deseret Musical Association.

While overhauling some of the personal effects of the late David O. Calder, the other day, Mr. D. G. Calder came across an old scrap book, which had been made from a law journal, and which is a gr at curiosity in that it gives a good idea of the class of musical entertainments furnished to Salt Lake in the early sixties. Prominent among the articles, criticisms, etc., is a communication by D. O. Calder, to the Deseret News, then a weekly journal, and whi bears the date, "Great Salt Lake City, December 18th, 1860." The writer gives the importance of the introduction of the Tonic Sol-Fa method "because of its extreme simplicity and adaptation to the minds of children," advises a more general introduction of music into the schools, concluding the article as follows: "Sensibly aware of the advantage afforded by the proper study of music, I trust that the parents generally will appreciate the efforts of President Brigham Young to add the cultivation of music to the ordinary branches of common school education. I have only to add that it will afford me great pleasure to contribute in any manner to the realization of his wishes on the subject. At present he desires to open two new classes in his new schoolroom for the youth of both sexes, and such persons as desire to teach in our public schools, in order that the system of which I have written may be properly and thoroughly understood. I am directed to announce that persons desirous of joining these classes, can obtain tickets of admission to the course of lessons free of charge, by applying to the president's office."

From the classes mentioned above, two years later evolved the Deseret Musical Association, organized in May, 1862. President Brigham Young was chosen President of the Association; D. O. Calder, Vice-President and Conductor; Jos. A. Young, Secretary; Frederick A. H. F. Mitchell, Treasurer; John S. Lewis, Librarian; Their first concert was given in the Tabernacle on December 9th, 1862 and the following is a copy of the ancient-looking programme, excepting the display:

First concert of the Deseret Musical Association. The Deseret Musical Association take pleasure in announcing that they will give their first public concert in the Tabernacle, on Tuesday evening, December 9th, 1862.

This Association has been organized for the purpose of diffusing throughout the Territory a taste for the cultivation of music upon rational and scientific principles. Since its classes have been formed, it has had the attendance of between four and five hundred scholars in this city, who have thus far benefited gratuitously. With the view of defraying the expenses incurred in printing at home the music used by the classes in the Tonic Sol-Fa Notation, and in the hopes of procuring for the Association an organ and such other instruments of music as are required for the further extension of its usefulness, the patronage of the public is now solicited.

PROGRAMME. FIRST PART. Hail Columbia—arranged by C. J. Thomas, by the Theatrical orchestra. Hymn—"Softly beams the sacred dawn," by the Association. Duet—"Polka," by Mr. Isaacson. Quartet—"Ever of Thee," by Mr. Lyman, Miss Harlow, and Messrs. McAllister, Reading—"The Czar of the Orient," by the Brigade at Balklava, Tennyson, Song and Chorus—"Nettle Moore," by Mr. R. W.
