

THE SMUDGE CURE

"Nervous breakdown, debility; nothing much to worry about. Get in the country; long walks in the open air, etc. No alcohol in any form, and—"

The patient sighed.

The doctor packed away his tools.

"And one cigar a day!"

"Oh, doctor—not that!"

"One cigar a day!" reiterated the doctor, inexorably.

Six weeks later the patient returned to town.

"How do you feel?" queried the doctor.

"Splendid! Fit as a fiddle!"

"And you liked it all?"

"Yes, everything except the one cigar."

The doctor wagged his head and smiled.

"The tobacco habit, my dear sir—"

"Isn't any joke," put in the patient, ruefully. "It is hard for a man at my time of life to take up smoking!"
