

SAUNTERINGS

Last evening, Thomas Weir spoke on "Foreign Missions" at the Third Presbyterian church and was followed by Dr. W. N. Paden, who delivered an address entitled, "What Are We Here For." Is there anyone who could wish for anything funnier than that?

There was no end of excitement at the brilliant dance given at Entwood, country home of the Ferdinand J. Fabians, when Harry Thaw and his party arrived, following a dinner given in town by his cousin, Mrs. James A. Hogle. The affair at Entwood was given by Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand J. Fabian, Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Fabian and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Clark, and was in honor of Mrs. Fabian's guests, Mrs. George H. Pegram and daughters Jean and Mercy Pegram of New York. Two hundred guests had been invited and the affair was one of the smartest of the summer season. Aside from the interest in the charming guests of honor, a large proportion of it was focused upon Harry Thaw, this having been his first appearance in society for a number of years, during which he has been fairly busy and has provided the newspapers of the land with no end of copy. Mr. Thaw and his party, consisting of Mr. Frank K. Johnston of New York, former Congressman C. S. Whartman of Chicago and R. E. Pendleton of Concord, N. H., went to Bingham yesterday, the guests of James A. Hogle. They will continue their journey to the coast today.

That some of the women in Salt Lake who pretend to be somebody have more than their proportion of asininity plus, was demonstrated on Thursday when a number of them, none of whom was known to the Thaw party or their friends, blazed their way through the crowd, introduced themselves to Thaw and touchingly wrung the hand that pulled the gun that killed the man the girls bilked. Various emotional young women of uneasy temperament have forced their way to Thaw across the country and attempted to give him a stinky little kiss, to shake his hand or by some heroic effort, get in touch with him. We had an idea that he would escape such a demonstration, but it seems that out in the provinces there are certain folks always ready to make spectacles of themselves. They ought to be listed by the house Dicks in the big hotels, their names might come in handy.

The bavardes on the San Francisco papers are telling of Mrs. William E. Borah, "wife of Senator Borah of Utah," and not one but all of them have spoken of her as such. Such is fame! And Idaho only a stone's throw from San Francisco with William E. Borah, the brilliant senator, looming as a presidential possibility. How is it that outside papers always get the idea that every brilliant statesman in Washington is from Utah?

The marriage of Mrs. Pearl Kelly of this city and Earl Aldridge formerly of Salt Lake, but now a San Francisco luminary was rather a surprise to their many local friends. Surprises are always expected from Mr. Aldridge and he never disappoints. Felicitations of a host of friends have already gone to him and his bride. Aldridge is one of the best of good fellows and is making a splendid success in his missionary work on the coast.

The principle question agitating smart society is which of the devoted lovers will be chosen by the lady for the fall and winter season while the condoning husband looks on complacently.

Campfire dinners within a short motoring distance of town have become extremely popular of late. Following the repasts there is nothing more cheerful than high fires licking up the juicy leaves of the quakenasps while the guests disport themselves about the flames and sleeping beauties recline beneath the sylvan bowers nearby. But that one may get too near a fire, was evidenced recently when a beau of one the parties returned to town with the whole side burned out of a beautiful new suit of clothes. He is a little older than the average swain, but appears a good deal younger, and what cares he for a hundred dollars worth of clothes if in the loss he can prove that he is not afraid of fire. The next picnic of the series will be given Monday night.

Wednesday the Country club attracted a large proportion of the society ladies in town who arrived to lunch and bridge and generally enjoy themselves in the cool of the country.

Mrs. E. A. Wall gave one of the largest affairs of the summer in honor of Mrs. Louis Cates; Mrs. Samuel Park and Miss Eleanor Park gave a delightful party for Miss Park's guest, Miss Marion Sturgis of Wilken, Connecticut; Mrs. J. L. Nibley was the hostess at another affair with Mrs. Nibley of Portland as the motif; Mrs. M. L. Ritchie entertained a party of friends and Miss Darlene Kimball presided at an affair at which Miss Adelle Fortin of Los Angeles, who is visiting Miss Beth Baldwin was the complimented guest. All in all, the club was a busy little place during the entire afternoon.

In some way the impression prevails that the last regular Wednesday luncheons took place at the club on Wednesday, but they will be continued through September.

Interest on the roof of the Utah on Thursday centered in the Thaw party. The James A. Hogles with whom Mr. Thaw visited while in the city, gave a dinner for a dozen friends who later went to the American, where a special musical program had been arranged.

Miss Dorothy Zumwalt of Tulare, California, is the guest of Miss Norinne Thompson at the Ezra Thompson home on South Temple street. The marriage of Miss Zumwalt and Lynn Thompson will take place late in the fall at Mrs. Zumwalt's home in California. Miss Zumwalt will be a guest here until October and various social affairs have been planned in her honor.

The marriage of Miss Aurania (Bob) Ellerbeck to Joseph A. Rouveyrol of St. Louis, took place in that city on Wednesday. After an extended trip they will make their home in the Missouri metropolis.
