the general public. Like Mrs. Will Crocker and others who have masterpieces in their private collection, Mrs. Jackling has a sense of community identity which should make those who cannot afford to own works of art, glad that occasionally they fall into the possession of people who love to share their artistic blessings.

On Wednesday in San Francisco, Mrs. Violet Girard Kerwin was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Captain Arthur Kerwin, U. S. A. Captain Kerwin and Mrs. Kerwin were married here at Fort Douglas in 1898.

Included in the testimony was a statement by Mrs. Kerwin that while she was telephoning at their home at the Presidio, Captain Kerwin, wearing heavy boots, kicked her violently, causing her to fall down the stairs and seriously injuring her.

"BLOODIEST ACT OF THE WAR"

Special Dispatch to The San Francisco Chronicle. London, October 17.—The Daily Mail's Amsterdam correspondent sends the following details of the execution of Miss Edith Cavell, an English woman, who was charged by the Germans with aiding Belgian men to escape to England by hiding them in her house and helping to smuggle them over the frontier, after she had given them money and addresses in England:

"The execution occurred in a walled garden or yard in Brussels. The firing party of six men and an officer was drawn up to await Miss Cavell, whom other soldiers led from an adjoining house.

"She was blindfolded with a black scarf and was deadly pallid, but stepped bravely forward until passing the firing party. Then her strength failed and she dropped in a swoon thirty yards from the wall where she was to have been shot.

"The officer commanding the soldiers advanced, took a large revolver from his belt, aimed steadily and then shot the woman through the head as she laid quietly on the ground."

The officer then replaced his revolver and ordered the soldiers to carry the body into the house, where it was taken in charge by Belgian women, who were acting on instructions from the Spanish minister, who undertook to care for the body pending burial."

The execution was a shock to the Belgian people, who describe it as "the bloodiest act of the war."
