parties on the same evening at the leading hotels and restaurants. Reservations are coming thick and fast according to those who are receiving them and this is to be a New Year's Eve in a thousand, a great contrast to the rather subdued one of a year ago.

Mrs. Roy McKay, formerly Miss Tessie Aiff, arrived during the week from her home in Cincinnati and will be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Aiff during the holidays. Miss Aiff was formerly a great belle here and her host of old friends are extending a warm welcome to her return. She will leave for her home in the east in January.

The wedding of Miss Nellie Catheryne Davis to William J. Orr will take place at St. Mary's Cathedral on Wednesday next and will be followed by a dinner for twenty in the Georgian room of the Newhouse. Miss Davis has been the recipient of much social attention during the past week and various other affairs will be given in her honor preceding the wedding.

Frederick P. Walter left during the week for his home in Mount Vernon, Ind., after a stay of several months here. Mr. Walter is one of the most popular of the younger men in smart circles and has a host of friends in the business and professional life of the city as well. New Year's Eve will be incomplete without him.

Last Sunday's San Francisco Chronicle in describing the society participants in the "Zone" frolics of the smart set at San Mateo, had the following to say of a local favorite:

"Mrs. Frank Judge was its drummer girl, and made quite the sensation of the evening, not only by her smart little suit of white and red—gold-braided white coat, red skirt and military hat—but also by her perfect management of her drum.

Mrs. William Igleheart will arrive on Monday next from Berkeley and will be the guest of Mrs. C. R. Pearsall, who will entertain at an informal reception in her honor on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Igleheart will be variously entertained by old friends during her sojourn here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Andrew are rejoicing over the arrival of a fine boy. Mrs. Andrew was formerly Miss Elsie Parsons. They will make their home here in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keyser have returned from New York and are at the Utah, where they will remain for a month before occupying the Keyser residence on First South street.

Boyd Park arrived from Ann Arbor during the week to spend the holidays with his parents, Mayor and Mrs. Samuel C. Park.

Oliver H. Ritchie, U. S. N., has arrived from San Francisco, where he is stationed with the battleship Maryland. He will be with his parents, Judge and Mrs. Morris L. Ritchie for a fortnight.

Mrs. John F. Critchlow and her sons have arrived from California.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Newhouse are spending the holidays in New York.

Mrs. Melvin H. Sowles was the hostess at a tea given at her home on Monday, for Miss Hazel Oswald and Miss Eliza Dey.

Mrs. Kean Miller entertained for Miss Hazel Oswald and Robert H. Butterfield at her home Monday. Tomorrow at the home of Judge and Mrs. Ritchie, Miss Emma Zane and Miss Rosamond Ritchie will entertain at a tea for Miss Oswald and Mr. Butterfield.

Mrs. W. Mont Ferry has as her guest her father, George H. Truman, who will be here during the winter.

Thomas Kearns, Jr., David Keith, Jr., and John Conlon entertained on Tuesday at a supper.
